BIOGRAPHIES OF GENERAL OFFICERS.

CHANCELLOR L. JENKS,

PRESIDENT GENERAL.

CHANCELLOR L. JENKS, elected President General at the Detroit Congress, May 20, 1919, was born in Chicago, May 11, 1863. He is the ninth generation of the Jenks family in America, the immigrant being Joseph Jenckes, who came to Boston from England in 1642. The first American patent was issued to him for an improvement in scythes. He was the coiner of the "Pine Tree shilling." His son Joseph early cast his lot with Roger Williams, became the founder of Pawtucket, was for forty years a member of the Rhode Island Legislature, and occupied for a period the office of Lieutenant Governor. Joseph Jenckes of the third generation was Governor of the Colony of Rhode Island for five successive terms. Chancellor L. Jenks, Senior, the father of the subject of this sketch, was one of Chicago's most noted pioneers and a distinguished member of the bar.

Chancellor L. Jenks joined the Sons of the American Revolution November 23, 1907, qualifying under, first, Joseph Jenckes, of Smithfield, R. I., captain of a company of Minute Men; second, Joab Hoisington, of Woodstock, Vt., Major of four companies of Rangers; appointed July 24, 1776, by the Convention of the Representatives of the State of New York assembled at White Plains; third, Preserved Buffington, of Swansea, Mass., private in Col. Christopher Lippett's Rhode Island Regiment; fourth, John Strong, of Woodstock, Vt., captain and colonel of a company of Rangers under General Schuyler and Member of Council of Safety chosen for Cumberland County; member of the Vermont Legislature and Delegate to the convention at Bennington, Vt., January 6, 1791, called by the General Assembly of Vermont "to take into consideration the expediency of joining the Federal Union."

Mr. Jenks received his preliminary schooling at Evanston, Ill., and was graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of 1886. After a course at the Union College of Law at Chicago, he was admitted to the bar in 1888. Except for four years at San Diego, Calif., he has continued at Chicago in the active practice of his profession. During most of that time he has been on the Board of Education at Evanston, adjoining Chicago, where he resides. At the present time he is President of the High School Board. He has always been active in musical circles and has composed and published a number of songs. Among other positions filled by Mr. Jenks are National President of the Dartmouth College Alumni Association, President of the Evanston Musical Club, President of the Chicago and North Shore Festival Association, and President of the University Club (two terms). During the late war he was a member of the Chicago District Draft Board No. 1 and chairman of the Evanston War Council. He has traveled extensively in all parts of the world.

In the Sons of the American Revolution he was twice elected President of the Illinois Society, was for several years chairman of the National Committee on Americanization and Aliens, and a member of the Executive Committee.

June 25, 1889, he was married to Janet Lyons, at Oakland, Calif. They have two children—Herbert Chancellor Jenks, a member of the Illinois Society, who saw service in France as lieutenant, and Ruth Elizabeth, wife of Earl T. De Moe.

GEORGE FRANKLIN BURGESS,

Vice-President General for New England District.

George Franklin Burgess, former President of the Connecticut Society, was born at Washington, Conn., the son of George Camp and Sarah Hawley Burgess, and is a descendant of Thomas Burgess, of Dedham, Mass., one of the early settlers of the colony, and Joseph Hawley, who was one of the founders of Stratford, Conn.

He left a preparatory school for business and in 1877 moved to New Haven, Conn., where he has been active in the business life of the city.

He is president of the Connecticut Mortgage and Title Guaranty Company, a vice-president of the First National Bank, and a director in many corporations.

In 1879 he married Ella M. Frost, who died in 1885, and in 1887 he married Emma A. Bryant.

There are two children—Harry Frost and Josephine.

He was elected Vice-President General at the Detroit Congress, May, 1919.

THOMAS WRIGHT WILLIAMS,

Vice-President General for Middle and Coast District.

Thomas Wright Williams, of East Orange, N. J., elected Vice-President General at the Newark Congress in 1916, re-elected at Rochester in 1918, and at Detroit in 1919, was born at Princeton, N. J., January 31, 1854, a son of George Washington and Amy Olden (Wright) Williams. He joined the New Jersey Society May 20, 1893, through the services of his great-grandfather, John Van Tassel, of Tarrytown, N. Y., a private in Col. James Hammond's Regiment of New York Militia.

Thomas Wright Williams received his education in Grammar School No. 35, New York City (the famous Thomas Hunter School), and entered the College of the City of New York in 1870. He then engaged in commercial business in New York City, and in 1878 assisted in organizing the Bissell Carpet Sweeper Company, of Grand Rapids, Mich., of which company he is Vice-President, Eastern and Foreign Manager, with offices in New York City.

Mr. Williams served on the National Executive Committee in 1912 and 1914. He was Trustee to the National Society from New Jersey in 1913; Vice-President of the New Jersey Society in 1909, 1910, 1911, and 1912, and President of the Orange Chapter in 1905. He served on the National Committee of Fifteen on the Celebration of Washington's Journey from Philadelphia to Cambridge, 1775. Mr. Williams is a member of the Council of the New Jersey Society of the Colonial Wars, member of the New Jersey Historical Society, member of the Board of Managers of the New England Society of Orange, and of the Board of Managers of the Thomas Hunter Association of New York City; member of the Hardware Club of New York City and of the Republican Club of Orange.

Mr. Williams's son, Thomas Wright Williams, Jr., and his sons-in-law, Graham King and Philip Osborne, became members of the Society in 1911.

Mr. Williams enjoys the very unusual distinction of having been honored three times with the office of Vice-President General.

MOULTON HOUK,

Vice-President General of Mississippi Valley—East District.

Moulton Houk, of Delaware, Ohio, elected Vice-President General at the Detroit Congress, in 1919, was born on May 16, 1859, at Sandusky, Ohio. He is great-great-grandson of Stephen Moulton, who was Lieutenant-Colonel in 22d Regiment of Connecticut Militia; was taken prisoner September 15, 1776, and exchanged March, 1777. Great-grandson of Noah Fuller, who was a private in Captain Washburn's and Captain Drew's Massachusetts companies and in Colonel John Chandler's Connecticut Regiment. Great-great-grandson of John Wilson, who was a private in the Lexington Alarm; also private in Colonel Seth Warner's Regiment. Great-great-grandson of John Johnson, who was Ensign of Lieutenant Thomas Way's Company, which went from Lynn for the relief of Boston in the Lexington Alarm, April, 1775; served nine days; Ensign of Captain Roger Ryley's Company, Colonel Enos' Regiment, 1776; Captain in guard service at Lynn. Great-great-great-grandson of Josiah Converse, who was a Lieutenant in Captain Amos Walbright's Company in the Lexington Alarm, April, 1775, ten days; Ensign in Captain Roger Enos' Third Company, Continental Regiment, June 26 to December 18, 1775; First Lieutenant, Second Company, Captain Parson, Colonel Sage, General Wadsworth's Brigade, from June, 1776, to December 26, 1776; served in New York City and on Long Island; was in battle of White Plains. Great-great-great-grandson of Elias Lee, who served as a Captain, John Watson's, Jr., Company (the Ninth); discharged in Northern Department, August 23, 1775; in Fourth Regiment, Colonel Hinman's, 1775. Regiment reached Ticonderoga in June, 1775, and took part in the operations of Northern Department until expiration of term of service, December, 1775. He enlisted as a private February 19, 1776, in Captain John Stevens's Company (officers from Canaan and Stratford). From muster-roll, dated in Camp Mount Independence, Ticonderoga, November 25, 1776, was in a company in Colonel Burratt's Regiment in 1776. Enlisted as Corporal Elias Lee, April 27, 1777, for a term of three years; promoted to sergeant December 1, 1777; discharged April 27, 1780; was in Captain Kimball's Company, Eighth Regiment, Connecticut Line Formation, from 1777 to 1781, Colonel John Chandler's Regiment.

He has been President of Anthony Wayne Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution; President of Ohio State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and chairman of the National Society Sons of the American Revolution Press Committee for the years 1900, 1901, 1902, and 1903, under the administrations of General Breckenridge, Mr. Walter Seth Logan, Governor Edwin Warfield, and General Greeley, respectively.

From 1886 to 1917 was general passenger agent of the Toledo and Ohio Central Railway and is now retired. For eleven years was member of Ohio National Guard, retiring therefrom as Lieutenant-Colonel, Chief Quartermaster Division.

In World War assisted in routing and handling troops for the Government and railways, with headquarters at Toledo, Ohio.

LINN PAINE,

VICE-PRESIDENT GENERAL FOR MISSISSIPPI VALLEY—WEST DISTRICT.

LINN PAINE, of St. Louis, Mo., elected Vice-President General for Mississippi Valley, West District, at the Detroit Congress, May 20, 1919, was born at Linneus, Linn County, Missouri, April 24, 1870, and at the age of seven moved to St. Louis to enter school under the educational advantages of that city.

He became a member of the Sons of the American Revolution in 1901, through the service of his great-grandfather, William Payne, who was a member of Capt. Mathew Smith's Company of the Connecticut Militia.

Although actively engaged in the jewelry business and in civil affairs at St. Louis, he is interested in many patriotic enterprises in the Mississippi Valley and is a member of various societies devoted to art, history, and music.

Mr. Paine is a charter member and vice-president of the Apollo Club of St. Louis, an organization of men singers that has for twenty-five years maintained a national reputation for its interpretation of patriotic songs and American musical compositions.

In the capacity of State Registrar he has served the Missouri Society for seventeen years.

Since 1910 Mr. Paine has been chosen as delegate to each Congress of the National Society and was elected a member of the Board of Trustees at the National Congress, in Louisville, May 2, 1911.

OVERTON G. ELLIS,

Vice-President General for Mountain and Pacific District.

Overton G. Ellis, of Seattle, Wash., lawyer, was elected Vice-President General for the Mountain and Pacific District at the Congress held in Detroit, Mich., May 20, 1919. Mr. Ellis was born in White Cloud township, County of Nadaway, State of Missouri, on the 26th day of October, 1860, and became a member of the Sons of the American Revolution in 1898, as great-grandson of Richard Gentry, his ancestor, who assisted in establishing American independence while acting as a private in the Virginia State troops in 1780 and 1781, being present at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va.

PHILIP F. LARNER,

Secretary General and Registrar General.

Philip F. Larner, elected Secretary General and Registrar General at the National Congress held in Detroit, Mich., May 20, 1919, is a native of the City of Washington, D. C., as also were his father and grandfather. His great-grandfather, Jacob Gideon, Jr., removed to Washington from Philadelphia, Pa., about the time the location of the National Capital was established.

Mr. Larner is a graduate of the original Emerson Institute, located in Washington for many years and a well-known educational institution; afterward a graduate of the Law College of the Columbian University and a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Later he has been actively connected for many years with various business organizations in Washington. He is a member of the University Club, as well as several civic and religious organizations.

Mr. Larner became a member of the District of Columbia Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in 1891, his ancestor being his great-great-grandfather, Jacob Gideon, Sr., who enlisted at Valley Forge and served with the Pennsylvania troops in the battles at Guilford, Eutaw Springs, Cowpens, and Yorktown.

Mr. Larner was for a long term of years Treasurer and afterwards President of the District of Columbia Society, and has been a delegate from that Society to numerous annual congresses of the National Society. His wife, Fannie D. Larner (deceased), was a charter member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, having the national number 185 in that organization. His daughter, Mrs. Albert J. Gore, is an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the founder and first regent of the Captain Molly Pitcher Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the City of Washington. His father, Noble D. Larner, at one time President of the District of Columbia Society, died in 1903, while holding the office of Vice-President General in the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

JOHN HARRIS BURROUGHS,

Treasurer General.

John Harris Burroughs was born at Trenton, N. J., April 17, 1849, son of Charles Burroughs, who served as mayor of Trenton for fifteen consecutive years—from 1832 until 1847—who was also judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Mercer County, N. J., for sixteen years. John Burroughs, the grandfather of the subject of this sketch, was active in the Revolutionary War from the latter part of 1776 until the surrender of Cornwallis, at the battle of Yorktown, in 1781. Mr. Burroughs is descended from John Burroughs, who settled in Newtown, Long Island, in 1653, with other English colonists. In the capacity of Treasurer, Vice-President, and President, he has served the Union League Club, Brooklyn, N. Y., in which city he has resided since 1865. He was President of the Empire State Society in 1910 and 1911. From 1874 to 1918 Mr. Burroughs was a dealer in commercial paper and bank stocks in New York City. He is now manager of the Brooklyn Branch of the Corn Exchange Bank of New York.

He was elected Treasurer General at the Baltimore Congress, in 1909, and re-elected at each succeeding Congress.

LIEUT. GEORGE CARPENTER ARNOLD,

Historian General.

George Carpenter Arnold, of Providence, R. I., First Lieutenant, Company C, First Regiment of Infantry, Rhode Island Militia, elected Historian General at the Rochester Congress, May 21, 1918, and re-elected at Detroit Congress, in 1919, was born at Providence July 31, 1868, son of William Rhodes and Sarah Hill (Carpenter) Arnold. His ancestry runs without break back to the Puritan immigration, William Arnold, the immigrant, being mentioned in Lincoln's history of Hingham, Mass. In 1635 William Arnold and family left Somersetshire, England, and came to New England. After residing a short time at Hingham, he became associated, in 1636, with Roger Williams and others in the purchase from the Indian sachems, Canonicus and Miantonomoh, of land at Mooshausic, afterward called Providence, and received grants of land from Williams. His initials, "W. A.," are second on the famous Indian deed of Roger Williams. His real estate was mostly in Providence, Pawtuxet, and Warwick, R. I. One hundred and twenty acres of the original grant (including a 27-acre lake) at Warwick, R. I., are now owned by the subject of this sketch, the ancestral home, built in 1771 (by his great^2-grandfather, George Arnold), being used by him as a summer residence.

Lieutenant Arnold became a charter member of the Rhode Island Society, S. A. R., February 1, 1890, his eligibility in the Society being derived from the following ancestors: Great^3-grandson of James Arnold, of Providence, First Lieutenant, 1776, Captain-Lieutenant, 1778, of Kent County, Rhode Island Militia, member of Council of War, signer of the Declaration of Independence of Rhode Island, 1776. Great^2-grandson of Robert Rhodes, of Pawtuxet, R. I., recruiting officer for town of Warwick, 1777; in 1778-1779 Captain of Warwick Alarm Company, participated in the Lexington fight April 19, 1775, and battle of Rhode Island, August 29, 1778. Great^3-grandson of James Rhodes, of Warwick, Deputy in General Assembly, 1760, 1766, 1770 to 1773, and 1777. Great^2-grandson of Joseph Carpenter, of Uxbridge, Mass., private, Lieut. James Chapman's Company of Minute Men (Capt. Jos. Chapin), which marched on the Alarm of April 19, 1775; enlisted again in Colonel Wade's regiment, Capt. Edw. Seagraves's Company, June 19, 1778, Rhode Island Alarm; discharged July 19, 1778. Great^2-grandson of Joseph Wood, of Northbridge, Mass., Captain in Lexington Alarm, April 19, 1775; commissioned Captain of the 7th Company, Col. Ezra Wood's (Third Worcester County) Regiment of Massachusetts Militia, July 9, 1776. Great^3-grandson of Jeremiah Finney, Bristol, R. I., private, Capt. Ezra Ormsbee's Company, May 28, 1778; Bristol County Alarm Company, October, 1779; Senior Class Company, Bristol County, July 30, 1780.

Lieutenant Arnold received his education in the schools of his native city and at the Episcopal Military Academy of Cheshire, Conn., class of 1887.

In November, 1887, he joined Company C, First Regiment of Infantry, Rhode Island Militia; was elected Corporal, 1889; Second Lieutenant, 1890; First Lieutenant, 1891, 1892, 1893, and 1894. For nearly a quarter of a century he was engaged in the worsted yarn business. He is President and Treasurer of the Possnegansett Ice Company; Treasurer and Director of the Arnold Real Estate Company; Treasurer of the Arnold Numismatic Company; Director of the Central Real Estate Company and of the Providence Realty Company; Treasurer of the Motor League of Rhode Island; Treasurer of the Society of Descendants of the Founders of Providence Plantations. He is the author of several books—one treating on Numismatics (of which he is an authority)—and publisher of the "Genealogical Tree of the Arnold Family, embracing nearly thirty generations, from 1100 A. D."

He married Flora Etta Richards December 14, 1892, by whom he has three sons: Lincoln Richards Arnold, Brown University, Class of 1916; Philip Rhodes Arnold, Amherst College, Class of 1918, and Capt. George Carpenter Arnold, Jr., Dartmouth College, Class of 1918, now United States Vice Consul at Milan, Italy.

LEE S. McCOLLESTER, D. D.,

Chaplain General.

Lee S. McCollester, D. D., elected Chaplain General at the Rochester Congress, in 1918, and re-elected at the Detroit Congress, in 1919, was born in Westmoreland, N. H., on the Connecticut River, in 1859. He is the son of Rev. S. H. McCollester, D. D., minister, college president, traveler, and author. His mother was Fanny Sophia Knight, of Windham County, Vermont, a descendant of a loyal colonial family. Dr. McCollester traces his lineage from Capt. Isaac MacAllister, who was one of the first settlers of Cheshire County, N. H., and an officer in the colonial wars.

Dr. McCollester was educated in the city schools of Nashua, N. H.; Buchtel College, Akron, Ohio, and Tufts College, Massachusetts. He graduated from Tufts College in 1881 and from the Theological School in 1884. He has traveled extensively and studied abroad and has been active in religious and educational affairs. His first pastorate was in Clermont, N. H., of three years, where he married Miss Lizzie S. Parker, daughter of ex-Congressman Hosea W. Parker. In 1889 he took the pastorate of the Church of Our Father, Detroit, Mich., and remained there twenty-four years, becoming a leader in the religious, educational, and civic interests of the city and State. He is a thirty-second-degree Mason, a member of Detroit Commandery, No. 1, Knights Templar, and for ten years its prelate. He held successively the offices of Chaplain, Vice-President, and President of the State Society, S. A. R., of Michigan, and was also at the time of his leaving Michigan the Chaplain of the Society of Colonial Wars. In 1912 he left Detroit to become the Dean of Crane Theological School, Tufts College. He is now serving a second term of two years as the President of the Universalist General Convention, and for several years has been chairman of its Board of Trustees. He is still a member of the Michigan Society, S. A. R., and also of the Massachusetts Society, and an honorary member of the Essex Chapter of Lynn.

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution

(Adopted at the Denver Congress, June 3, 1907; amended at Toledo Congress, May 2, 1910; at Louisville Congress, May 2, 1911; at Rochester Congress, May 20, 1918, and at Detroit Congress, May 19, 1919.)

Article I.—Name.

The name of this organization shall be "The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution."

Article II.—Purposes and Objects.

The purposes and objects of this Society are declared to be patriotic, historical, and educational, and shall include those intended or designed to perpetuate the memory of the men who, by their services or sacrifices during the war of the American Revolution, achieved the independence of the American people; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the government founded by our forefathers; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war, as well as documents, relics, and landmarks; to mark the scenes of the Revolution by appropriate memorials; to celebrate the anniversaries of the prominent events of the war and of the Revolutionary period; to foster true patriotism; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble of the Constitution of our country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people.

Article III.—Membership.

Section 1. Any man shall be eligible to membership in the Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over, and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendered active service in, the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman, or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress, or of any one of the several Colonies or States, or as a signer of the Declaration of Independence; or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence; or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

Provided, however, that any male person, above the age of 18 years and under the age of 21 years, whose qualifications in regard to ancestry and personal character are as above prescribed, shall be eligible to a qualified membership to be known and designated as junior membership, said junior membership to permit to each junior member all privileges granted to full membership except those of holding office, of voting, of holding any interest in the property or funds of the Society or of any Chapter thereof, or of receiving a certificate of membership except as hereinafter provided, or of wearing any insignia of the Society other than the rosette; a special certificate may be issued to such junior member in such form as may be prescribed by the Board of Trustees: providing such junior member shall not be in arrears for dues, on attaining the age of twenty-one years he shall automatically be vested with full membership in the Society.

SECTION 2. No one shall be entitled to membership in any State Society who has previously been a member of any other State Society and dropped for non-payment of dues, until the indebtedness of such individual to the first Society shall have been adjusted.

SECTION 3. Application for membership shall be made to any State Society, in duplicate, upon blank forms prescribed by the Board of Trustees, and shall in each case set forth the name, occupation, and residence of the applicant, line of descent, and the name, residence, and services of his ancestor or ancestors in the Revolution, from whom he derives eligibility.

The applicant shall make oath that the statements of his application are true, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Upon the approval of an application by the State Society to which it is made, one copy shall be transmitted to the Registrar General of the National Society, who shall examine further the eligibility of the applicant. If satisfied that the member is not eligible, he shall return the application for correction.

Until the State Society shall satisfy the Registrar General of the eligibility of such applicant, his name shall not be placed on the roll of membership.

SECTION 4. The official designation of the members of The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution shall be "Compatriots."

ARTICLE IV.—NATIONAL AND STATE SOCIETIES.

SECTION 1. The National Society shall embrace all the members of the State Societies of the Sons of the American Revolution now existing or which may hereafter be established under this Constitution.

SECTION 2. Whenever in any State or Territory in which a State Society does not exist, or in which a State Society has become inactive, or failed for two years to pay its annual dues to the National Society, fifteen or more persons duly qualified for membership in this Society may associate themselves as a State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and organize in accordance with this Constitution, they may be admitted by the Board of Trustees to the National Society as "The —— Society of the Sons of the American Revolution," and shall thereafter have exclusive local jurisdiction in the State or Territory or in the District in which they are organized, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, but this provision shall not be construed so as to exclude the admission of candidates residing in other States.

SECTION 3. Each State Society shall judge of the qualifications of its members and of those proposed for membership, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, and shall regulate all matters pertaining to its own affairs. It shall have authority to establish local Chapters within its own jurisdiction, and to endow the Chapters with such power as it may deem proper, not inconsistent with the charter of the National Society or with this Constitution. It shall have authority, after due notice and impartial trial, to expel any member who, by conduct unbecoming a gentleman, shall render himself unworthy to remain a member of the Society.

SECTION 4. Each State Society shall submit to the Annual Congress of the National Society a report, setting forth by name the additions, transfers and deaths, and any other changes in the membership, and the progress of the State Society during the preceding year, and making such suggestions as it shall deem proper for the promotion of the objects of the National Society.

SECTION 5. Whenever a member in good standing in his Society shall change his residence from the jurisdiction of the State Society of which he is a member to that of another, he shall be entitled, if he so elects, to a certificate of honorable demission from his own State Society, in order that he may be transferred to the State Society to whose jurisdiction he shall have changed his residence: Provided, That his membership shall continue in the former until he shall have been elected a member of the latter.

Each State Society shall, however, retain full control of the admission of members by transfer.

SECTION 6. Whenever the word "State" occurs in this Constitution, it shall be held to include within its meaning the District of Columbia and the Territories of the United States.

SECTION 7. A Society may be formed in any foreign country by fifteen or more persons who are eligible to membership under this Constitution, which shall bear the same relation to the national organization as the State Society, subject to the provisions of this Constitution.

ARTICLE V.—OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES.

SECTION 1. The General Officers of the National Society shall be a President General, five Vice-Presidents General, a Secretary General, Treasurer General, Registrar General, Historian General, and Chaplain General, who shall be elected by ballot by a vote of a majority of the members present and entitled to vote at the annual meeting of the Congress of the National Society, and shall hold office for one year and until their successors shall be elected and qualified.

In case of the death or disability of any of the above officers, the Executive Committee is empowered to elect a successor to fill the unexpired term.

In the election of the five Vice-Presidents General one shall be chosen from each of the five districts, as follows:

(1) New England District: (Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut).

(2) Middle and Coast District: (New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida).

(3) Mississippi Valley, East District: (Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi).

(4) Mississippi Valley, West District: (Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas).

(5) Mountain and Pacific District: (Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Washington, California, Hawaii, Philippines).

The boundaries of the said districts may be changed by vote of the Executive Committee.

SECTION 2. The General Officers provided for in section 1, together with one member from each State Society, shall constitute the Board of Trustees of the National Society. Such Trustees from each of the several State Societies shall be elected annually at the Congress of the National Society, upon the nomination, or from a list of nominees, to be made by each of the State Societies and submitted to the National Society by the filing thereof with the Secretary of the National Society at least thirty days before the meeting of the Annual Congress of the National Society. And in the event that any one or more of the State Societies shall omit or neglect to make such nominations or submit said list of nominees, by the time herein required, then the President of the State Society so in default shall, virtute officii, be chosen as and become the representative of his State Society upon said Board.

SECTION 3. The Board of Trustees shall have charge of, and be charged with the care and custody of, all property belonging to the National Society, and to that end shall be vested with the powers conferred by section 3 of the Act of Incorporation of the National Society: Provided, however, That it shall not have the power to sell, convey, or in anywise encumber any real estate belonging to the Society without the assent of three-fourths of the members of said Board. The Board of Trustees shall also have authority to adopt and promulgate the By-Laws of the National Society, to prescribe the duties of the General Officers, to provide the seal, to designate and make regulations for the issue of the insignia, and to transact the general business of the National Society during the intervals between the sessions of the Congress.

Meetings of the Board of Trustees may be held at the call of the President General. Meetings shall be called at the request of seven members. At such meetings seven shall constitute a quorum.

SECTION 4. An executive committee of seven, consisting of the President General as chairman, and six members to be nominated by him and approved by the Board of Trustees, shall, in the interim between the meetings of the Board, transact such business as may be delegated to it by a Congress of the Society or the Board of Trustees.

The members of the Executive Committee other than the President General, shall be known as Directors General, and by virtue of their office shall be members of the National Congress and entitled to vote at the annual meeting of the National Congress during their terms of office.

ARTICLE VI.—DUES.

Each State Society shall pay annually to the Treasurer General, to defray the expenses of the National Society, fifty cents for each active member thereof, unless intermitted by the National Congress.

All such dues shall be paid on or before the first day of April in each year for the ensuing year, in order to secure representation in the Congress of the National Society.

ARTICLE VII.—MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

SECTION 1. The Annual Congress of the National Society for the election of the General Officers and for the transaction of business shall be held on the third Monday of May in each year. The place of such meeting shall be designated by the Board of Trustees.

SECTION 2. Special meetings of the Congress may be called by the President General, and shall be called by him when directed so to do by the Board of Trustees, or whenever requested in writing so to do by at least five State Societies, on giving thirty days' notice, specifying the time and place of such meeting and the business to be transacted.

SECTION 3. The following shall be members of all such annual or special meetings of the Congress, and shall be entitled to vote therein:

(1) All the General Officers and the ex-Presidents General of the National Society.

(2) The members of the Board of Trustees and the President or Senior Vice-President of each State Society.

(3) One delegate at large from each State Society.

(4) One delegate from every fifty members of the Society within a State and for a fraction of twenty-five or over.

SECTION 4. After the adjournment of the Eighteenth Annual Congress of this Society, State Societies shall be represented at meetings of the National Society only by members of their own State Society, either duly elected, or who in the absence of regularly elected delegates, may be chosen by the regularly elected attending delegates of such State Society from the members of such State Society who may be present at any meeting of the National Society.

ARTICLE VIII.—PERMANENT FUND.

SECTION 1. There shall be created and maintained a Permanent Fund of the Society, the income or interest from which shall be covered into the general treasury of the Society and available for the general purposes of the Society, but the principal of which shall be maintained intact, and shall only be used or diminished upon the unanimous recommendation of the Executive Committee, approved by the Board of Trustees, and ratified by a four-fifths vote of the delegates present at the annual or special Congress to which such recommendation of the Executive Committee shall be reported.

SECTION 2. The Permanent Fund shall be composed of all legacies or donations to the Society, where no other application of the funds is designated by the testator or donor, all commissions received from the sales of badges, rosettes and ribbons, and such sum or sums as may from time to time by the Executive Committee be transferred to such fund from the general funds of the Society.

SECTION 3. The permanent fund shall be invested in securities authorized to be held by Savings Banks in Massachusetts, Connecticut, or New York, and any premium paid in purchasing such securities shall be repaid from the first income received.

ARTICLE IX.—AMENDMENTS.

This Constitution may be altered or amended at any meeting of the Congress of the National Society: Provided, That sixty days' notice of the proposed alterations or amendments, which shall first have been recommended by a State Society, or by a prior Congress, or by the Board of Trustees, or by the Executive Committee of the National Society, shall be sent by the Secretary General to the President of each State Society.

A vote of two-thirds of those present shall be necessary to their adoption.

ARTICLE X.

This Constitution shall take effect upon its adoption.

BY-LAWS

OF

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution

(Adopted at Denver Congress, June 3, 1907; amended at Boston Congress, May 20-22, 1912; at Portland Congress, July 20, 1915; at Rochester Congress, 1918, and at Detroit Congress, 1919.

Article I.—Election of Officers.

All nominations of General Officers shall be made from the floor, and the election shall be by ballot. A majority shall elect. The nominations may be acted upon directly or may be referred to a committee to examine and report.

Article II.—Officers.

The duties of the General Officers shall be such as usually appertain to their offices, and they shall have such other duties as are hereinafter imposed or shall be delegated to them by an annual Congress or by the Board of Trustees.

They shall report at the annual meeting, and at such other times as they may be required to do so by the Board of Trustees.

Article III.—President General.

Section 1. The President General, in addition to his general duties, shall be ex officio chairman of the Board of Trustees, and of the Executive Committee, and a member of every other committee.

Section 2. He shall appoint the following committees:

Committee on Auditing and Finance.
Committee on Credentials.
Committee on Resolutions.
Memorial Committee.
Committee on Organization.
Committee on Education.

The duties of the above committees shall be such as usually pertain to committees of like character. He may also appoint such other committees as in his judgment may be deemed necessary or advisable.

Article IV.—Vice-Presidents General.

The Vice-Presidents General shall, in each of their respective districts, seek in every manner to promote the interest and activities of the National Society and of the State Societies within their jurisdiction; encourage the formation of new chapters and the enrollment of new members. They shall represent the National Society in the absence of the President General on any proper occasion, but acting at all times under his direction and control.

Article V.—Secretary General.

The Secretary General, in addition to his general duties, shall have charge of the seal, and give due notice of all meetings of the National Society or Board of Trustees. He shall give due notice to all General Officers and State Societies of all votes, orders, and proceedings affecting or appertaining to their duties. He shall distribute all pamphlets, circulars, rosettes, and supplies, as directed by the Board of Trustees.

Article VI.—Treasurer General.

Section 1. The Treasurer General shall collect and receive the funds and securities of the National Society. He shall deposit the same to the credit of the "Society of the Sons of the American Revolution," and shall draw them thence for the use of the National Society, as directed by it or by the Board of Trustees, upon the order of the President General, countersigned by the Secretary General. His accounts shall be audited by a committee to be appointed at the Annual Meeting.

Section 2. He shall give bond for the safe custody and application of the funds, the cost of such bond to be borne by the National Society.

Article VII.—Registrar General.

The Registrar General shall keep a register of the names and dates of the election, resignation, or death of all members of the several State Societies, and shall have the care and custody of all duplicate applications for membership. He shall issue upon the requisition of the Secretary or Registrar of the several State Societies certificates of membership and insignia to every member entitled thereto, through such Secretary or Registrar.

Article VIII.—Historian General.

The Historian General shall have the custody of all the historical and biographical collections of which the Natural Society may become possessed and shall catalogue and arrange the same, and shall place the same in a fireproof repository for preservation.

Article IX.—Chaplain General.

The Chaplain General shall be a regularly ordained minister, and shall open and close all general meetings of the National Society with the services usual and proper on such occasions.

NOTE.—Article X of the National By-Laws, printed herein as in the 1918 Year Book, now found to be incorrect. The following is the correct form of Article X.—State Societies.

SECRETARY GENERAL.

ARTICLE X.—STATE SOCIETIES.

Each State Society shall—

(1) Notify the Secretary General of the election and appointment of all officers, nominees for Board of Trustees, and delegates.

(2) Transmit to the Registrar General duplicate applications of all accepted members, and promptly notify him of the resignation or death of all members thereof, and the names of those dropped from the roll for non-payment of dues.

(3) Transmit to the Registrar General, on April 1 of each year, the report required by section 4, Article IV, of the Constitution, such reports to cover the changes in membership occurring between April 1 of the previous year and March 31 of the current year, and to be made on the blank forms furnished for the purpose by the Registrar General.

(4) Pay to the Treasurer General, on April 1 of each year, the annual dues for such Society, computed at the rate of fifty cents for every member carried on the rolls of such Society on that date.

(5) Cause the Treasurer of such Society, when remitting funds for any purpose to the Treasurer General, to use the blank form of letter of transmittal prescribed by the Board of Trustees or Executive Committee, and furnished by the Treasurer General for the purpose.

place of such meeting shall be given.

ARTICLE XII.—EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Executive Committee may be called at any time by the President General, and such meeting shall be called upon the written request of three members thereof. It shall be the duty of the Executive Committee to exercise the powers and perform the duties committed to it by any annual or special Congress or by the Board of Trustees; to control and supervise all arrangements for the holding of the annual or any special Congress, and the social and other functions connected therewith; it shall, upon the request of the proper committee of the National Society or of the Board of Trustees, assist in the organization of new State Societies, and increasing the membership of weak State Societies, and for these purposes may incur its necessary expenses, limited to such amounts as may be in the Treasury unappropriated, and not required for the current expenses of the National Society during the year.

Societies, and shall have the care and custody of all duplicate applications for membership. He shall issue upon the requisition of the Secretary or Registrar of the several State Societies certificates of membership and insignia to every member entitled thereto, through such Secretary or Registrar.

Article VIII.—Historian General.

The Historian General shall have the custody of all the historical and biographical collections of which the Natural Society may become possessed and shall catalogue and arrange the same, and shall place the same in a fireproof repository for preservation.

Article IX.—Chaplain General.

The Chaplain General shall be a regularly ordained minister, and shall open and close all general meetings of the National Society with the services usual and proper on such occasions.

Article X.—State Societies.

Each State Society shall—

(1) Notify the Secretary General of the election and appointment of all officers, nominees for Board of Trustees, and delegates.

(2) Pay to the Treasurer General on the first day of March or within thirty days thereafter, the sum of fifty cents for each active member thereof.

(3) Transmit to the Registrar General duplicate applications of all accepted members, and notify him of the resignation or death of all members thereof.

Article XI.—Board of Trustees.

Section 1. The Board of Trustees shall prepare and carry out plans for promoting the objects and growth of the Society; shall generally superintend its interests, and shall execute such other duties as shall be committed to it at any meeting of the National Society. It shall have charge of the printing of the Diploma and the manufacturing of the Insignia, and shall determine the price at which the same shall be issued.

Section 2. It shall have the authority to admit or reorganize as a State Society any association of fifteen or more persons duly qualified for membership in the Society.

Section 3. It shall have authority to make, alter, and amend the By-Laws as hereinafter provided.

Section 4. The President General may call meetings of the Board of Trustees at any time he may deem necessary, and shall call such meetings upon the written request of any five members thereof, provided that of any meeting, other than such as may be called during the session or immediately upon the adjournment of an annual or special Congress of the National Society, not less than five days' notice of the time and place of such meeting shall be given.

Article XII.—Executive Committee.

A meeting of the Executive Committee may be called at any time by the President General, and such meeting shall be called upon the written request of three members thereof. It shall be the duty of the Executive Committee to exercise the powers and perform the duties committed to it by any annual or special Congress or by the Board of Trustees; to control and supervise all arrangements for the holding of the annual or any special Congress, and the social and other functions connected therewith; it shall, upon the request of the proper committee of the National Society or of the Board of Trustees, assist in the organization of new State Societies, and increasing the membership of weak State Societies, and for these purposes may incur its necessary expenses, limited to such amounts as may be in the Treasury unappropriated, and not required for the current expenses of the National Society during the year.

Article XIII.—Seal.

The seal of the Society shall be two and three-eighths of an inch in diameter, charged with the figure of a minute man grasping a musket in his right hand and surrounded by a constellation of thirteen stars, who shall be depicted in the habit of a husbandman of the period of the American Revolution, and as in the act of deserting the plough for the service of his country; the whole encircled by a band three-eighths of an inch wide, within which shall appear the legend, "National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, organized April 30, 1889."

Article XIV.—Certificates.

All members of this Society, wherever admitted, shall be entitled to a certificate of membership duly attested by the President General, Secretary General, and Registrar General, countersigned by the President, Secretary, and Registrar of the State Society to which such member shall have been admitted.

Article XV.—Insignia.

The insignia of the Society shall comprise (1) a cross surmounted by an eagle in gold, (2) a rosette.

Section 1. The cross shall be of silver, with four arms, covered with white enamel and eight gold points, same size as a Chevalier's Cross of the Legion of Honor of France, with a gold medallion in the center bearing on the obverse a bust of Washington in profile, and on the reverse the figure of a minute man, surrounded by a ribbon enameled blue, with the motto "Libertas et Patria" on the observe, and the legend "Sons of the American Revolution" on the reverse, both in letters of gold. The cross shall be surmounted by an eagle in gold and the whole decoration suspended from a ring of gold by a ribbon of deep blue, with white and buff edges, and may be worn by any member of the Society on ceremonial occasions only, and shall be carried on the left breast, or at the collar if an active or Past Officer General of the National Society or President, active or past, of a State Society.

The President General, during his term of office and while acting in that capacity on official and ceremonial occasions, shall wear the distinctive badge of his office. It may be carried at the left breast or suspended from the neck ribbon. In full dress he shall wear a sash of the Society colors, three and one-half inches in width, extending from the right shoulder to the left hip, with the badge pendant at the crossing of the sash over the hip. Past Presidents General and Vice-Presidents General in full dress shall wear a sash of the Society colors, three and one-half inches wide, extending from the right shoulder to the left hip.

Section 2. The rosette shall be seven-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, of usual pattern, displaying the colors of the Society—blue, white, and buff—and may be worn by all members at discretion in the upper left-hand buttonhole of the coat.

SECTION 3. The badge of the Society may be purchased by members in accordance with the following agreement, to be signed by the purchasing member before delivery of same:

In purchasing the badge of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, I hereby agree that it will be worn or used in accordance with the regulations of the Society; that I will not pledge, part with, or transfer the same except with the written authority of the Society. It is further agreed for myself, heirs, executors, administrators, and any and all persons asserting any claim through me that upon demand of the Society and tender of the purchase price of said badge, or other regalia, the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution shall be entitled to immediate possession thereof.

ARTICLE XVI.—INDEBTEDNESS.

No debts shall be contracted on behalf of the National Society. Every obligation for the payment of money, except checks drawn against deposits, executed in the name or on behalf of the National Society shall be null and void.

ARTICLE XVII.—ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE ANNUAL CONGRESS.

1. Calling the Congress to order by the President General.
2. Opening prayer by the Chaplain General.
3. Appointment of a Committee on Credentials.
4. Remarks by the President General on condition and needs of the Society.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE THIRTIETH ANNUAL CONGRESS

OF

THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

HELD AT THE HOTEL STATLER, DETROIT, MICH., MAY 19 AND 20, 1919

The Congress was called to order at 10 a. m. by the President General, Louis Annin Ames.

The CHAIR: The Thirtieth Annual Congress of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution is now in session. We will be led in prayer by the Chaplain General, Rev. Dr. Lee S. McCollester.

The CHAPLAIN GENERAL: Let us pray. Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, as we come together in this session for conference, first of all we would turn to Thee with gratitude in our hearts for the blessings which Thou has bestowed upon us in the days that are past. We thank Thee for the long history of our country, for its ideals, its noble men, its true service to humanity. We thank Thee for its course onward in the service of the world and its enlarging usefulness in the cause of humanity and free government. Gathering here from many States, representing different organizations, we bring Thee our thanks for those who have preceded us in the long years, our forefathers, who, with their high ideals and their spirit of sacrifice, served their day in places along the New England coast and inland, wherever they might be called, and who have given to us the blessings and the memories and the hopes which we enjoy. We are thankful for our Nation today. We return to Thee our gratitude that Thou hast raised up in these latter days men with the same spirit and the same courage and the same ideals as those who founded our country, and who have gone forth to service on land and sea, at home and on foreign soil, and have served the cause of democracy and righteousness. We thank Thee, Father, for the sacrifice of some, and here today in silence we refer to those who lie in foreign soil. Be Thou our guide amidst the sorrows and fill our hearts with thankfulness for those who gave the utmost in the service of our country and for our common good. We rejoice as these boys come home from overseas. May we receive them with gratitude and thanksgiving, being glad for what they have done and feeling in our hearts a new responsibility to carry forward the work for which they have fought. Be with those who are in authority in our country, at home and abroad. Give them wisdom. Give them vision. Give them a consecration to their high ideals which have always stirred in the heart and work of our Nation. Be with us here at home. Be with all whom we love, wherever they may be. Guide us in this meeting here during these days, and may we not only feel the good fellowship as we come together representing our different Chapters, but may we organize some new plans which may make for better service to our country, that we may thereby help to make a better world, in which permanent peace may live and in which true democracy may thrive. Bless the officers of this organization; bless those who guide and direct, and bless us each and all, and by and by may Thy will on earth be done, may the true and loyal men who have served their honorable duties to the right and to the world gather in that house not made with hands, Thy Kingdom, where Thou hast gathered those who made for righteousness and truth. May we go with the flag and with the spirit of the Nation, and do Thou, the God of nations and individuals, bless and save us, and at length bring the peace which the world needs over every land, and may wars cease from off the face of the earth. As Sons of the Fathers and as children of Almighty God, wilt Thou be with us forever more. Amen.

The CHAIR: The Chair inquires if the Honorable Albert E. Sleeper, Governor of Michigan, is in the room, or his representative? We know that this is a day of days for the city of Detroit. We know that the Mayor of Detroit, the heart of the Mayor of Detroit, is with the hearts of all Detroiters, and he is extending the welcome of Detroit to the returning boys of Detroit; otherwise he would be with us; but he has sent some one as his personal representative, one that we are very glad to welcome, the Honorable Clarence E. Wilcox, corporation counsel, who will now extend to us the greetings of the city of Detroit. (Applause.)

GREETING BY HON. CLARENCE E. WILCOX.

Mr. WILCOX: Mr. Chairman and members of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, it is indeed a very great pleasure to have the privilege of welcoming you to Detroit. We have looked forward with anticipation to this meeting by your society, and we feel confident that great inspiration and benefit will come to us all because of it. It seems that Detroit is peculiarly fortunate in the time it has selected to have your Congress held in our city. There may be those here today who will recall that just twenty years ago, at the successful close of the Spanish-American War, your Congress for that year was held in this city, and many of the men in attendance at that time were prominent in that great conflict; and yet, in these intervening years, how many have gone? Among them our own Mayor Maybury, Governor Pingree, Hon. Thomas W. Parmelee, Gen. Russell A. Alger, and others. Today you are met in Detroit at the end of a great, victorious war; yet a year ago the world trembled, as the guns of the German Empire sent their shot and shell against that wavering line extending from Calais to Switzerland, which was struggling there to uphold those principles of freedom and liberty which your forefathers fought for and established; so that, in this great period of remodeling and reconstructing, our minds turn instinctively to that great struggle of 1776—a struggle which has sanctified to us Americans the name "Revolution." Here in Detroit we regret that we were not a part of one of the Thirteen Colonies. That might be an idle wish from some cities, from many cities, for at that time they were but an unbroken wilderness; but in Detroit it was different. Judged by human standards, we were already an ancient city, having passed threescore years and ten; in fact, some of our neighboring cities have been wont to say in times past that we were so old that we were dead; but as to that last we do not hear so much recently. Detroit was founded in 1701 by a band of French settlers and continued under French control until 1760. During that period one of the interesting experiences of the settlers was the standing of a twelve months' siege by the Indians under Chief Pontiac, and you may see at the head of Belle Isle an island where the Indians gathered in their canoes to attack the town of Detroit. Detroit in 1760 was ceded to Great Britain, and its territory was then much greater than now, as it extended as far west as the Pacific; but Detroit has generally given up that territory in order to make possible San Francisco and St. Louis and Chicago. During that period the Ohio River was the border line between the Indians and the French and British. Detroit, together with Niagara, formed a key to this great territory, where many important battles and Indian skirmishes took place. By the treaty of 1783, at the close of the Revolutionary War, Detroit passed to the United States; but the inclination on the part of all the people who have once lived in Detroit seems to be to remain here; so, contrary to the terms of this treaty, the British continued to hold Detroit for seventeen years, or until 1796. In 1812 the territory was surrendered to the British by General Hull, but in 1813 it was regained by the American forces; so that we feel that while we have not those historic things to mention that the cities of the past have, we still feel that we are strictly an American city with a historic past. Detroit has also contributed her share of the men who have stirred the Nation. Among those might be mentioned a Postmaster General, a Secretary of the Navy, a Secretary of War, and a member of the Supreme Court of the United States, and it is not the fault of some of our citizens that we cannot include a Presidency in that list. (Laughter.) So Detroit feels that she is honored in having served under those three great flags—the French, the British, and the American—which during the year just passed have floated together as one flag against the tide of Prussian militarism. (Applause.) During the present struggle Detroit has played an important part industrially. Her manufacturers responded unanimously, and as a result great stores of munitions, artillery supplies, liberty motors, aëroplanes and hospital supplies were provided. There were maintained here three barracks—Fort Wayne, the one at the Eagle plant, and the one at the Aviation Field—and the U. S. General Hospital, where today over six hundred wounded soldiers are being taken care of. In the Liberty Loan, Detroit has been among the first of the large cities to go over the top, and in the Victory Loan campaign just closed, with a quota of $55,000,000 to raise, Detroit the first day subscribed for $63,000,000. (Applause.) I would not have you think that these matters are mentioned boastfully, but only for the purpose of explaining to you that Detroit must have a real, sincere, patriotic interest in those ideals for which your organization stands. Detroit has been credited with being first in a great many things, commercially; but this is not really enough for any city. She has been favored, richly favored, with an increase in area, wealth, and population; but this alone is not enough. Frankly, we want to confide in you that this is not enough. Our ambition here is to be known as a clean city, as a city with high civic ideas, a place where it is safe to rear fresh-souled childhood, a place where young men can stay clean and sober and old men can pass their time in peace and happiness. This is the spirit of Detroit that welcomes you here today and trusts that you may find in this welcome the warm hand of fellowship given by a host to an honored guest. Thank you. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: Compatriots, Brigadier General Charles A. Coolidge, U. S. A. (retired), and President of the Michigan Society, Sons of the American Revolution, will extend the greetings of that Society. (Applause.)

WELCOME BY BRIGADIER GENERAL CHARLES A. COOLIDGE (RETIRED).

General COOLIDGE: Mr. President General and Compatriots of the Sons of the American Revolution, on behalf of the Michigan Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in whose name the invitation for your coming here was extended (the Detroit Chapter has the honor of providing the local entertainment), I bid you welcome to this great and growing city, whose prosperity is typified by its vast commercial interests yet only in their primitive growth. We propose to show you a few of the prominent points of interest during your official visit here. If you really desire to see and investigate all our attractions, you must prolong your visit and remain a week or two, which would amply repay you, and if you would take in the resources and phenomena of this peninsula settled by Marquette, La Salle, and Cadillac, I freely offer you the privilege of roaming over my entire jurisdiction and assure you a hearty welcome from the five other societies of the Sons of the American Revolution. If you have time and opportunity, I would advise you to take the trip up the St. Clair River to Port Huron and through Lake Huron to St. Clair Flats and to the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, which is one of the most wonderful canals in the world and is a big sight. You can then go on up Lake Superior, to the copper and iron region, clear to Duluth, and return to Michigan again. If you want to go by rail or trolley to see the automobile industry, of which you have not seen enough, after you get through here, you can go to Flint and Pontiac by trolley. You can go to Wyandotte and see the salt works and the alkali works, which are the largest in the world. You can go to Ann Harbor to see our Michigan University, or you can go to Lansing, the great agricultural colony. You can go to Battle Creek to see Camp Custer and the food sanitarium, where you can get your health restored. You can go to Grand Rapids, the furniture city of the United States. You can go to Kalamazoo, noted for its match factory, its asparagus, and its fruit; you can go up the Sound to Saginaw, where they make wonderful plate-glass, and to Port Huron, where they make sugar out of the sugar-beet, which you had to use for your coffee and tea when cane sugar was not allowed. You can go to Traverse City, Petosky, and Charlevoi, the upper route of the summer resorts, which are very agreeable and beautiful places to visit. I leave Detroit to my Compatriot, Dr. Knight, and would advise you, if you have rheumatism, to go to our Mt. Clemens bath, and also to hear the million-dollar libel suit between Mr. Ford and the Chicago Tribune. (Laughter.) Unfortunately, Michigan is a dry State (laughter), and you will be compelled to drown your thirst in the waters of oblivion—a rather different thing from what you had to do twenty years ago, I assure you, when, although I was in Chicago, I came here. But we will all be in the same boat the first of July, so it is well to grow used to the swish of the waves. The activities of our actual warfare in Europe seem to have terminated, for the present at least; but even a League of Nations cannot bring eternal peace, and it is essential that the American Nation should stand for preparedness in the future, and not be caught childlike and bland the second time. (Applause.) Bolshevism is exerting its tenets and its sway among us and we must endeavor to instill into our alien citizens the spirit of Americanism, true democracy, and the patriotism for which our armies in Europe fought, and there is no greater organization or more powerful society to settle these difficulties than the Sons of the American Revolution and their descendants. (Applause.)

Compatriot BATES: May I be permitted to make a congratulatory announcement, known to but two persons in this town, and I hope that the Detroit press will make a note of it. At the meeting of the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War, at Philadelphia, on Saturday, the 17th, our compatriot, General Coolidge, was elected Commander-in-Chief of that order. I think we should congratulate him. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: I take great pleasure in calling to the platform Dr. Stephen H. Knight, beloved President of the Detroit Chapter (Applause.)

WELCOME BY DR. STEPHEN H. KNIGHT, PRESIDENT OF THE DETROIT CHAPTER.

Dr. KNIGHT: You don't expect a doctor to make a speech; anyway, all my thunder has been stolen by our good lawyer over here and our noted townsman. However, it is up to me to make a little address of welcome for the Detroit Chapter, the Detroit Chapter being the one which has really had the hard work of getting things ready for you; and if you do not find everything exactly as you want it, just kick at me. I have a few knives and things left in my kit, so that if you kick too hard, why, I will have something to kick you with, and you know it says in the Good Book not to kick against the pricks.

I could go back a little bit further than our good corporation counsel here, and I am glad he did not go back of 1700. You know, in 1670 the first white man trod these wastes. Joliet, in 1670, sailed up this beautiful river which we call the Detroit River, and which we think is as beautiful as the Hudson or the Rhine, or the Chicago River, as that may be (laughter); it certainly flows the right way. That reminds me of a little story I heard of a Bostonian—and, by the way, I was born within sixteen miles of Boston and fled that country to come out where we could get plenty of air and room. A Bostonian was floating gracefully down the river, and after he had floated a number of miles, he noticed that he still kept floating the same way, and he said to a native, "How soon does the tide go the other way?" "Well," said the fellow, "I have been here nigh on thirty years and I never saw it run but this way all the time;" so, instead of floating back, he had to row against the tide.

Can you imagine, in those early days, before the white man had polluted this soil, as we say—can you imagine what that Detroit River might have looked like, with the beautiful trees, the scenery, and the island in that river? You will see it a little bit when you go to Belle Isle. Then, the story I am going to tell you now is connected more or less with Belle Isle.

When, in 1670, Joliet and his companions came here they were religious men; they had been trained in the church and been trained to war over on the other side, and when they found, at the foot of what we call Woodward Avenue, a stone image which represented the great Manitou of the Indians, in their religious zeal they broke that image in pieces and cast it away. When the Red Man came again and found his image destroyed, he naturally was very much discouraged, and the great Manitou came to them and said, "Gather the pieces together and take them down to the foot of the island," what we now call Belle Isle; and so they took them down there, and he changed them into snakes, in order that his resting place might be kept free from the white man, and for a long time snakes abounded in that beautiful island, in order that the great Manitou might have his revenge on the white man. Then what did the white man do? He is always practical, even if not sentimental or religious; so he bought a lot of hogs and turned them into the island, and they ate the snakes, and for a while our beautiful Belle Isle was called Hog Island; and then the city bought it, after the snakes had been cleared away, and turned it into a park. Then they passed a prohibition law, and the snakes have been taken away, even from the city of Detroit; so we can all wander about free and easy, knowing that nothing can harm us.

Detroit was always great on the welcome, and if you noticed the streets today, you noticed how crowded they were. We have tried our best to advertise the coming of the Sons of the American Revolution, and you see what we have accomplished—the streets are crowded today to welcome you. (Laughter and applause.) They also welcome some others home, our own boys. Detroit sent at least sixty thousand, at a conservative estimate. Thirty thousand were taken in the draft and the other thirty thousand by voluntary enlistment in the Naval Reserve and other branches; so at least sixty thousand went away from Detroit to the war. Of that sixty thousand, some nine hundred will never come back; and as the boys come home, that is the great welcome that we are giving today, and we are glad you are here, in one way, to see that welcome, although it may crowd the city a little bit. We are glad for you to see that welcome, because it is partially a welcome to you also, because we represent the same principles that they represent. They went away to save the face of the earth from cruelty and despotism, and our fathers came over here to save the face of the earth from cruelty and despotism.

Now, then, in the name of the Detroit Chapter, I bid you welcome. If anything does not go to your pleasure, let us know and we will try and make it so. I would say that we want you all to attend the luncheon of the Louisa St. Clair Chapter, which has provided generously for us. We would also like to have you go to the reception of Colonel Alger and also on the ride. Plenty of transportation will be provided for all. There will be plenty of good things to eat in the other room, and we hope that you will have a very good time. I have also a little letter in my pocket which I received this morning. There is another small Chapter of the ladies which is known as the Fort Pontchartrain Chapter. Do you know that Fort Pontchartrain was named for that great Frenchman, Count Pontchartrain; and right below you, just a little ways below, was Fort Pontchartrain. I want to say again, you are standing on historic ground. We are no new place; we are not nuevo rich, although we are a little richer than we were twenty years ago, when you were here the last time, and we are in a bigger hotel.

To say that we make more automobiles than all the rest of the country put together, that we go over the top the first day for the Liberty Loan—those are mere bagatelle; we pride ourselves on being a city with a history, and part of it was right on this spot. Just below us was the Fort Pontchartrain for which this Chapter was named; just a little down the river Perry fought his victory on Lake Erie, and won. Now we did not have very many things to boast of in the War of 1812—General Jackson and the men who fought on the ocean—but we fought right out here on Lake Erie, and Perry's victory on Lake Erie gave this part of the country to the United States. Had the British won that victory, Detroit would have been Canada instead of the United States, and likewise all this great western territory.

So the ladies of the Fort Pontchartrain Chapter send their greetings to the Sons of the American Revolution and wish them a happy and good time. I thank you, gentlemen. (Applause.)

RESPONSE BY THE PRESIDENT GENERAL.

The CHAIR: To Mr. Wilcox, the representative of His Honor the Mayor, and Compatriots General Coolidge and Dr. Knight, I desire to say it affords me great pleasure on behalf of the Congress to accept the welcome that has come out of your hearts. Many of us have come back here after twenty years to renew our youth. We have come back knowing the kind of a welcome we would receive. We have all come feeling that we are a part of Detroit, a part of Michigan. This is a family gathering, as you will see.

Looking out of the windows of this hotel, you see the boys who have come back. They are the boys of every compatriot here. It was a Detroit boy who, in the trenches, aided after an accident a lad who had been in my home for three years; so it is impossible for me to make any distinction between the Detroit boy and the New York boy.

A little lad who stood on the sidewalk last night said: "Papa's regiment is coming back tomorrow, but papa is in France, and he is not coming back, but papa's regiment is." The boy who told that story was a Brooklyn boy whose father was an officer in a Michigan regiment. So, you see, these are all our boys. They all belong to all of us. They are all Americans.

One of the speakers suggested that he wished that Michigan had been one of the Thirteen Original Colonies. In the great army that went over seas some were regulars, some were volunteers, some were in the reserve. Michigan was not among the first Thirteen Original Colonies, but she was in the reserve of the Colonies, for what would the American Revolution have been if its achievements had not been sealed and safeguarded by the War of 1812. The War of 1812 finished the war of the American Revolution, and in that latter war Michigan played an important part. (Applause.) The battle on Lake Erie determined more than any other event its successful conclusion. In expressing to you the gratitude, the joy, and the thanks of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for these greetings, I assure you that you have made us feel at home. We are glad to be here.

The CHAIR: I desire to extend the welcome of this Congress to the Past Presidents General who are here, and I ask Past Presidents General Nelson A. McClary, R. C. Ballard Thruston, and Newell B. Woodworth kindly to come to the platform, where seats are waiting for them.

The compatriots called on responded to the Chairman's request and were greeted with applause.

The CHAIR: Before I had the opportunity of adding the name of Past President General Wentworth he arose. I wanted to say that while he is a Past President General, he is also one of the Executive Board, and I was going to ask him to come up in his double capacity to occupy two chairs and give him two welcomes, but he took that all away from me and didn't let me complete what I had to say, but the welcome is double for him, just the same. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: The Committee on Credentials has already been appointed and it has assured me that there is a quorum present, and with that assurance I will not ask for a temporary report, at this moment, because I desire that we shall proceed with the business of the day in as quick order as possible, giving due consideration and attention to all details.

STATE SOCIETIES NOT REPRESENTED.

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming—24.

The CHAIR: In order that we may expedite business, I appoint two session committees, if it meets with your approval. These committees will be known as the Committee on Official Reports and Recommendations and the Committee on Resolutions. As chairman of the first committee, I nominate Nelson A. McClary, of Illinois, Past President General; Col. Fred M. Alger, of Michigan; Dr. Horace N. Allen, of Ohio; Judge Harvey F. Remington, of Rochester, N. Y., and Dr. George C. F. Williams, of Connecticut. On the Committee on Resolutions, I nominate Compatriot R. C. Ballard Thruston, Past President General, representing Kentucky; Dr. Stephen H. Knight, of Michigan; President Carl M. Vail, of New Jersey; Admiral George W. Baird, of the District of Columbia; Compatriot Walter B. Hopping, of New York. Are there any objections to the appointment of these committees? Not hearing any, the appointments will stand.

I ask the compatriots, as they rise and address the Chair, to announce not only their names, but the States from which they come. I recognize Compatriot Clarke, President of the Virginia Society.

Compatriot ARTHUR B. CLARKE, President of the Virginia Society, S. A. R.: At our annual meeting there was a little poem of four verses, composed by Mr. Rosewell Page, brother of the Ambassador to Italy, and read by him, and since reference has been made to the boys who will not come back and who stayed in France, I looked in my pocket and found that I had a copy of this poem, which I will take the privilege of reading:

"Did you," I asked of an oldish man,
"Have any son in France?"
"Three," said the oldish man to me,
In tone straight set like a lance.

"Will they come back, now that peace has come,
Will they return apace?"
"They'll stay there," he said to me,
Though calm and placid his face.

To this I said to the oldish man,
"They have fallen in love in France?"
"They have fallen for love of her," he said,
In tone as clear as his glance.

"Were they together?" I helplessly asked.
"No; wide apart they stood,
Chateau-Thierry, and San Mihiel,
And John in the Argonne Wood!"

"Are you, dear sir, not sorry they went?"
"Not I, by God, I'm glad.
The one vain thing I now regret,
They lie away from their dad!"

President General Ames then delivered his annual address, as follows:

ANNUAL ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT GENERAL.

Another year has gone by since last we met in Congress assembled—a year that has brought perplexities to organizations as well as to nations and individuals.

A year ago this Nation of ours was engaged in a holy war, having pledged its manhood and treasure without limit for the preservation of those principles of liberty, justice, equality, and progress for which our American Revolutionary forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor.

Over 12 per cent of our entire membership have answered the call to the colors. On the field of battle, in the camps, and at home, 166 of our compatriots in the past twelve months have answered the "last summons." These loyal Americans of our membership who have "journeyed on," during life enriched our Society, endeared themselves to us, and are now held in sacred memory because of their splendid activities, devoted service, high character, and generous nature, prominent among whom was that commanding figure, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, The Great American.

On the last night of the old year, great was the sorrow that came to our Order. From earth to heaven passed A. Howard Clark, the devoted and efficient Secretary-Registrar General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for over a quarter of a century, who performed until the last day official duties with an energy and a faithfulness that characterized his entire life. The memorial adopted by your Executive Committee can only indicate the great esteem and affection which he justly merited.

Progress.

We meet today, as official reports will show, better organized and equipped, stronger financially and numerically than ever before.

Organization.

Your favorable consideration is asked for the proposed amendments to our Constitution; one provides for a junior membership; the other elevates the members of the National Executive Committee to Directors General, thus giving them an official standing as members of the Congress.

Patriotic Legislation.

This field of patriotic endeavor should be cultivated by our Society and a Committee on Patriotic Legislation appointed to secure Federal enactment of laws to enforce proper respect for the flag of our Republic, to safeguard our institutions of American freedom, to teach the alien, and also, if necessary, the citizen, his duty to this Nation and its people, so that the spirit of America shall be the example and the hope of the world.

The Committee on Patriotic Legislation in the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, placed upon the statutes of New York State laws providing that the American flag shall on registration and election days be displayed at every polling place; that the custody of the Nicholas Herkimer Homestead shall be entrusted to native-born citizens; repealing the charter of the German-American Alliance; preventing the display in public of the red flag of anarchy; prohibiting the building of a penal institution on the site of Fort Clinton, of the Revolutionary period.

The appeal of your President General for the removal on the façade of the New York Custom-house of the allegorical figure of Germania bearing the shield of Kaiser Wilhelm II was acceded to by the Secretary of the Treasury and in place thereof the custom-house is adorned by the symbolic figure of Belgium.

The time is ripe for a Federal enactment making it obligatory for every newspaper enjoying special mailing privileges of our Government to print on the editorial page of each issue, in the language of the publication, this statement of loyalty:

"We pledge allegiance to the United States flag and to the Republic for which it stands: one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice to all."

It may be the part of wisdom to demand by Federal legislation that aliens shall not be naturalized until they are sufficiently familiar with the language of this country as to read and write good English. This will make for Americanization.

The American's Creed.

This statement of an American citizen's duties and obligations, composed by Compatriot William Tyler Page, was approved by our National Society at its last Congress.

The report of the Committee on the Dissemination of the Creed should have your deepest interest and hearty support.

Service Medals.

The National Society has caused to be struck bronze service medals, to be presented to all compatriots and sons of compatriots who served in the World War defending the liberties of civilized nations. These medals may now be procured from the office of the Secretary General by the various State Societies. The cost is $1.00 each. It is suggested that the presentation be made with some formality, in the presence of a National Society officer.

Constitution Day.

The Sons of the American Revolution again call attention to September 17th as the anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States and urge that our local Chapters invite the co-operation of other patriotic societies, to the end that the day may be fittingly observed.

Certificates of Membership.

There ought to be issued to all compatriots certificates of membership, and I trust the Congress will instruct each State Society to issue same to newly elected members. These framed certificates of membership find prominent places in the homes and offices of our compatriots. They are a daily reminder of the patriotic purposes and objects of our Society.

No report can pay fitting tribute to the efficient service rendered this Society by the various committees and officers with whom it has been my honor to be associated during these past twelve months.

Special mention should be made of the work of the Vice-Presidents General.

From January 1st the office of Secretary General has been ably filled by Compatriot William S. Parks, of the District of Columbia Society, and Compatriot T. D. Huntting, the efficient Registrar of the Empire State Society, has fittingly discharged the duties of the office of the Registrar General. These gentlemen have labored industriously for the good of our Society without salaries and without price. The salaries of these officers have gone to Mrs. A. Howard Clark, who has greatly assisted in the work. The hearty and sincere thanks of the Society are due these compatriots for their great service rendered and for their gracious acts.

The thanks of our Society are also due Compatriot Walcott, of the Smithsonian Institution, for his generosity in putting at our disposal rooms at the National Museum as a depository for our archives.

Americanism.

During the past year, at home and abroad, the spirit of Americanism has been written large.

Sons of the American Revolution desire an intelligent and patriotic membership, ever eager to champion the principles that insure life more abundant, liberty eternal, and happiness found in service to the common good.

To be worthy sons of noble sires, to be respected brothers of those compatriots who in France and on Flanders Fields gave their all that the ideals of America should triumph, our efforts should be devoted to the end that every citizen of this democracy shall have unrestrained opportunity to develop to complete capacity, that this Republic shall be an exemplar for the nations of the earth in their onward march for human rights and justice.

The Chair: This report will be referred to the Committee on Official Reports. I would like the liberty of inquiring, from one of the local compatriots, if they can inform the Congress the hour at which the welcome will be extended to the returning heroes, that we may take a recess and pay our respects to them as they march by? (Applause.)

A Compatriot: I think, Mr. President General, if you will allow one of us to retire and find out, we will bring you the answer in a few minutes.

The Chair: Thank you very much, if you will do so. I call for the report of Vice-President General Charles F. Read, of Massachusetts.

Compatriot Charles F. Read: Mr. President General and Compatriots: I will not make a formal address. I will say that during the past year I had some correspondence with other States, but have no formal report to make.

The Chair: We thank Vice-President General Read for his report. The Secretary has taken it down and it will be referred to the Committee on Official Reports. Vice-President General Williams, of New Jersey.

Compatriot Williams: I am sorry to say that I have prepared no written report of my official duties during the past year, but the report will be rendered later by Compatriot Lewis B. Curtis, who will incorporate in his report the activities of the Vice-President General along the lines of increased membership. I have done what I could during these strenuous times of the past year, in which every business man has been more or less involved, and I am sorry that our work, as planned out a year ago, I have been unable to prosecute to my satisfaction. I have attended quite a number of meetings in our own State Society, in New Jersey and others, but I have been handicapped more or less by the troubles that we have gone through during the past year. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: I will ask the members of the Color Guard to kindly take our flags, and with your permission we will now declare a recess until after the boys have passed by, and then you will please return promptly to the room.

(Recess of a half hour.)

Upon reassembling called to order by President General.

The CHAIR: Will the compatriots kindly be seated, and we will proceed with the business of the Congress. May I inquire if Vice-President General Henry is in the room? He was here a minute ago. While we are waiting for his appearance, I would like the privilege, if it meets with your approval, of asking the Secretary General to send the greetings and best wishes of our Congress to the Past Presidents General who are not with us today, among whom are General Greeley, General Porter, Mr. Marble, and Mr. Murphy. Both of the ones I first mentioned have reached an advanced age in life, which would make it a hardship for them to be with us, and Mr. Marble is not well at this time. Mr. Franklin Murphy will not be able to get here, and I know all our Past Presidents General would appreciate greatly a message from the Congress. If that is your wish, messages will be sent.

Compatriot TORBERT, of the District of Columbia: I make a motion that the Secretary General be directed to send a note or a telegram to each Past President General, expressing our regards.

Compatriot GUTHRIE (Pa.): I suggest that you add to that list the name of General Hancock.

The CHAIR: General Hancock's name was included. The motion is that the Secretary General be instructed to send a telegram of greeting to all of the Past Presidents General who are not in attendance.

The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted.

The CHAIR: I have the pleasure of introducing the Vice-President General of this district, Hon. Albert M. Henry, whom we all love. (Applause.)

Compatriot HENRY: Now, gentlemen, we invited you here with good hearts and strength and we have worked to make this Congress a success. There is a motto which you will find on your badge, "If you would seek a beautiful peninsula, come here." Look around. All you've got to do is to look around you and see whether it is all that we have told you. In a day or two we will take you around in automobiles, and we are going to show you a beautiful place, provided it don't rain. We are going to take you along the boulevard and show you our magnificent automobile factories. We make more automobiles in Detroit than in all the rest of the country put together. Now, you ask me to speak to you about my duties as Vice-President General. I confess I have not done much. I have been down in Ohio and seen the Society there, talked to them about our Committee on Publicity and new membership and all that, and I have been to Mexico, but I really think I should have devoted more time than I have done. I hope you will be satisfied with what we have to show you in this City of the Straits.

The CHAIR: I regret to say that our Vice-Presidents General from the Pacific Coast and from the Southern District are not with us today. The Secretary General informs me that there is no report from Frank W. Rawles, the Vice-President General of the Southern District, the President of the Arkansas Society, nor have we a report as yet from Compatriot Thomas A. Perkins, Past President of the California Society and Vice-President General from that district. We may have these reports in a later mail, so I will pass on to the report of the Secretary General, Compatriot William S. Parks. (Applause.)

Secretary General Parks submitted his report.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY GENERAL.

The Secretary General has the honor to report that during the brief period—four and one-half months—that he has served the National Society as Secretary General he has endeavored to do his full duty as an officer of the Society, and that during that time he has had the hearty support of the President General, the members of the Executive Committee, and the general officers of the Society. To them, to all of them, he is under very great obligations, and he takes this opportunity to express his deep and earnest appreciation of their courtesy and helpfulness. To step into the place of such an accomplished, experienced, and competent Secretary General as our beloved compatriot, A. Howard Clark, almost without notice and without experience, was most trying, to say the least. His aptitude, his training, and his years of service as your Secretary General had brought to the office a ripeness of judgment, a readiness of knowledge, and a capacity for accomplishment that can hardly be realized or appreciated except, possibly, by comparison.

Notwithstanding the fact that more than six months have elapsed since the armistice was signed, the activities of the National Society have increased in volume and the work—war work—growing out of the World War has not diminished to any appreciable extent. We have turned our attention to the problems growing out of the war, to the dangers that confront the stricken nations of Europe and to the menace to our own security, to our own institutions, to our Government. If ever there was need for such an organization as the Sons of the American Revolution, it is now, in order that this Nation under God should continue to have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people should not perish from the earth.

The work of the State Societies has been outlined in the quarterly bulletins that have been issued since the last Annual Congress. Of these, only the March Bulletin has been issued since the death of Compatriot Clark. Reference to the special efforts need not therefore be repeated. It might be said, however, that State Societies and local Chapters can aid the editor to a very great extent by keeping him advised of their work and progress along patriotic lines.

Two amendments to the Constitution have been proposed for action at this Congress. I will not read them at this time, as they have been printed in full in the last Bulletin. At the proper time and in the regular order of business they will be laid before the Congress.

The applications of 1,220 new members have been received during the year ended March 31. The net gain in membership was 525. A full and detailed report will be made by the Registrar General.

The volume of correspondence has increased enormously. The letters cover almost every subject, appertaining to love of country, patriotism, membership, genealogy, naturalization, the Constitution, and the current work of the various State Societies.

The Secretary General departs somewhat from the usual practice in refraining from making any recommendations as to the general policy of the Society. There is room, however, for an abundance of work and well-directed effort in promoting the interests and success of this great organization.

In connection with his report, the Secretary General made the following extemporaneous remarks in reference to the late A. Howard Clark, late Secretary General:

He rendered to this National Society the last full measure of devotion. Of him it may be said, as Halleck said of Admiral Drake:

"Green be the turf above thee,
Friend of my former days;
None knew thee but to love thee,
Nor named thee but to praise."

It was my privilege to know A. Howard Clark for 38 years. I have been a member of the Society for a dozen years or more, and during my incumbency of the office of President of the District of Columbia Society he was to me a tower of strength. During the time that has elapsed since his demise I have had the advantage of the suggestions not only of the general officers of the Society to whom I have deferred, but to the widow of A. Howard Clark. The office of Secretary General and Registrar General, as you well know, has been combined in the person of our deceased brother and friend. Mrs. Clark is an honorary Vice-President General of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution ad vitam, is an accomplished genealogist, and I think at one time was the Registrar General and Corresponding Secretary General of the National Society of the D. A. R. To her I have gone for assistance, and I wish to say here, before this assemblage of our compatriots from all parts of the country, that to her is due most of the credit in connection with the work of the Registrar General.

The duties of Secretary General I have taken up to the best of my ability, and I have endeavored, as I said, not only to carry out the wishes of the Society, but to do full justice to the work that has been presented to me. It is now more than six months since the armistice was signed, and the activities of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, as measured by the work of the Secretary General, have increased enormously. I do not think that any of you can appreciate what it is to have a growing and live society, officered in the presidency and in its committees by men who take not only a personal interest, but who do not hesitate to aid pecuniarily the Society in the best way to insure its success and its prosperity. We have turned our attention to the problem growing out of the war, to the dangers that confront the stricken nations of Europe, and to the menace to our security, to our institutions, to our Government. If ever there was need for such an organization as the Sons of the American Revolution, it is now, that this Nation under God should continue to have a new birth of freedom, and that government by the people should not perish from the earth. In the report of the Registrar General his figures and mine may not agree exactly, but the difference may be explained by the fact that some belated reports have added to the sum total of the figures as prepared for the Registrar General. The volume of correspondence has increased enormously. It is a rare day that the mail-box is not filled with letters for the attention of the Secretary General; and those letters, compatriots, are the most wonderful collection of letters that a man could look over. They cover almost every subject, pertaining to love of country, patriotism, general information, Americanization, naturalization, and the Constitution of the United States and work of the State Societies and Chapters.

As I said to the President General several months ago, let us take a leaf out of the activities, out of the things that the Daughters do; let us organize local Chapters that promote companionship and make us feel that we have something to live for besides correspondence with some compatriot in a distant city about the details of the organization. This, to me, has been a remarkable exhibition of what the Society of the Daughters has done, what this Society can do, and what we should do as compatriots of this great Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. We have more than 17,000 members on the active rolls, to say nothing of nearly as many more who have ceased to be active in the membership of the Society. Let us ever keep in mind the fact that this great war, happily, has resulted as it has; that it has put us in a position where we lead the world; that it has been made possible by the work and by the acts and by the things that were done by the progenitors of the Sons of the American Revolution. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: The report of the Secretary General is received, the thanks of the Congress tendered to him, and the report will be referred to the Committee on Official Reports, if there be no objections. Hearing none, it is so ordered. I call for the report of the Registrar General, Mr. Teunis D. Huntting. (Applause.)

The report was presented as follows:

REPORT OF REGISTRAR GENERAL.

Your Registrar General has the honor to report that since the founding of this Society, just thirty years ago on April 30, 1889, more than 32,000 applications have been approved and the same number of members enrolled. Added to this, about five thousand supplemental papers have been approved; so that a great fund of historical data relating to those who established the independence of our country is contained in the archives of our Society.

There were registered during the year ending March 31, 1919, 1,248 new members, which, with the exception of last year, has exceeded the work of any of the previous years and is an average of more than 100 new members a month. Nineteen former members have been reinstated. New Jersey added the greatest number this year—141—the Empire State Society being next with 118, Louisiana following with 113, and Massachusetts 110 new members. In the present active membership, Massachusetts still takes the lead, having 1,770 active members; New York is second in size, having 1,594; New Jersey, 1,433; Illinois, 1,182, and Connecticut, 1,084. The details in gains and losses for each State are as follows:

New members	1,248
Net increase	548
Net membership	16,201

This makes a total active membership, after deducting losses, April 1, 1919, of 16,201, a net gain of 548. While the losses from various causes have been large, it is gratifying to note that even from this year of war and pestilence through which we have passed the losses by death have been but 168 as against 258 of last year. Death has claimed 41 of our Massachusetts members and 39 from New York State. The Society received this year the greatest shock of its existence, when, on New Year's Eve, death claimed for its own the managing head of the Society—the one who since 1893 had served as Secretary General and Registrar General, and who during all those succeeding years had never missed attendance upon these Congresses and had always been ready to assist each incoming President General with his wide experience and good judgment in affairs pertaining to the organization—A. Howard Clark. A few days later the country was called upon to mourn the death of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, ex-President of the United States and a member of the Empire State Society. Among others who have passed away are Admiral Thomas Perry, of Maryland; Mr. Christopher Rhodes, for 25 years Secretary of the Rhode Island Society; Hon. Herman W. Pratt, of Massachusetts; Hon. Edward Everett Rollings, member of Congress, Pennsylvania Society; Hon. Hendrick Holden and Hon. William C. Cady, of the Empire State Society; General Edward Davis, of the Hawaiian Society, and two of our rapidly diminishing list of Real Sons of Revolutionary soldiers, one being the last on record in the State of Rhode Island. Among our members who have died honorably in the service of our country are Major Lyman W. V. Keenon, U. S. Army, and Captain Frederick S. Towle, of the District of Columbia Society; Captain Merritt U. Lamb, of the Michigan Society; Lieutenant Walter Stillman, of the Nebraska Society; Second Lieutenant George Gaylor MacNish, of the Wisconsin Society, and Lieutenant Louis Hamilton Bayly, of the District of Columbia Society, only son of the late William Hamilton Bayly, at one time Vice-President General of the National Society.

A few years ago a Traveling Banner was presented by the Colorado Society, to be awarded each year to the State numbering 100 or more which can show the greatest net percentage of increase in membership. This has never been won by any State in the Far South. This year, however, Louisiana will have the honor of receiving this trophy, having made the enormous percentage of increase of 108 4/5, this Society having more than doubled its membership during the past year.

The Syracuse Banner, to be awarded to that Society showing the largest increase in membership during the year, was won last year from New Jersey by the Massachusetts Society, who will now return it to New Jersey, that State having a record of 141 new members.

At the beginning of this year President General Ames generously offered to award a silk banner bearing the name of the State Society, and to be held by it in perpetuity to each Society, that increased its membership 20 per cent during the year ending March 31, 1919, provided the increase would not be less than 10 over the number of members reported April 1, 1918. This banner has been won by the following States:

Louisiana, 108 4/5 per cent; Oklahoma increased 28½ per cent; Missouri, 27½ per cent; Arkansas, 25 per cent; Idaho, 24 per cent; Wisconsin, 22 3/10 per cent; Utah, 21½ per cent.

In 1901, through the generosity of the late President General Logan, of New York, there was prepared and published a large volume containing the full pedigrees of every member up to that time. This work has been continued in the Year Book, and an abstract of each pedigree, together with the ancestor's service, now appears in the quarterly Bulletin. The card catalogue of both members and ancestors is being continued; the card of notification of enrollment, commenced last year, is being sent out and permits for badges have been issued to each new member. Added to this routine work, 690 certificates of membership have been engrossed.

Now that the war is ended and our young men are returning to their homes, let the States redouble their efforts to secure as members many of those whose patriotism has been awakened by the actual sacrifices and sufferings for their country, and many of whom must be, no doubt, eligible to membership in the Sons of the American Revolution.

Respectfully submitted,

TEUNIS D. HUNTTING,
Registrar General.

The CHAIR: The report of the Registrar General is received, the thanks of the Congress extended to the Registrar General, and the report will go to the Committee on Official Reports and Recommendations, unless otherwise advised by the Congress. Not hearing any objection, it is so ordered. Is the Treasurer General ready to report at this time?

Treasurer General BURROUGHS: I know that the report of the Treasurer General is not very interesting, because it has only figures to present to this body of compatriots; therefore I am not going to elaborate by any remarks before the report, in its proper form, is presented to you. I wish, however, to say that there are a greater number of State societies this year that have failed to pay their annual dues than for any year I have been Treasurer, and that covers a term of ten years. I regret to make such a report, but I think it should be put upon the report of the Treasurer General that that is the fact. The Treasurer General tries to get the annual dues collected early in April, and he is handicapped to a great degree when those dues are held back until the very last moment and the last day. There were five remittances received on the day before and the last day of the fiscal year, and it places upon the Treasurer General considerable work to get his report in time for the Auditing Committee on the following day, and I would urge here, in this Congress, that the State Treasurers help out the Treasurer General by sending in the remittances early, when the bills are sent to them.

Treasurer General Burroughs then presented the following report, followed by the report on the permanent fund:

REPORT OF THE TREASURER GENERAL.

REPORT ON THE PERMANENT FUND.

OFFICE OF TREASURER GENERAL, 1416 PACIFIC STREET,
BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 14, 1919.

President General and Compatriots:

The Treasurer General has the honor to submit the following report:

At the Rochester Annual Congress the report of the Treasurer General showed the Society was holding a total of $13,000, par value, of securities, including gifts. Since this report was filed the Permanent Fund has been credited from cash received for rebates on insignia, rosettes, and ribbons, and from individual gift, $304.09, which amount added to the previous uninvested funds shows a total of $609.58, which could be used for the purchase of such a security as the Committee on Investment of Permanent Fund might elect.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. BURROUGHS,
Treasurer General.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON INVESTMENTS.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY NATIONAL BANK,
PEEKSKILL, N. Y., April 26, 1919.

Mr. W. S. PARKS,
Secretary General, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR SECRETARY GENERAL: I have examined the securities held by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in the safe-deposit vault in New York and find the amount is as follows:

$2,500 4¼ per cent Liberty Bonds.
1,000 3½ per cent Liberty Bonds.
1,000 Keokee Cons. Coke Co. 5 per cent bonds.
1,000 Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 4 per cent.
2,000 State of New York 4 per cent.
4,000 4 per cent Bonds City of New York.
1,000 4½ per cent City of New York.
1,000 New York Railway Adjustment 5's.

I am sending you this report upon these securities in order that the same may be presented, as required, at the National Congress in May.

Very sincerely yours,

CORNELIUS A. PUGSLEY,
Of Committee.

REPORT ON THIRD LIBERTY LOAN FUND.

OFFICE OF TREASURER GENERAL, 1416 PACIFIC STREET,
BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 14, 1919.

President General and Compatriots:

The Treasurer General has the honor to submit the following report on the Third Liberty Loan Fund:

At the Congress held last year in Rochester, N. Y., the Treasurer General reported there had been purchased $250 of bonds, leaving an uninvested balance of $11.50. Since this report was submitted contributions amounting to $56 have been received, out of which a bond for $50 has been purchased, leaving a balance of $17.50 to the credit of the fund. There is now on hand, including purchases and gifts, $500 of Third Liberty Bonds.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. BURROUGHS,
Treasurer General.

THE CHAIR: You have heard these excellent reports from the Treasurer General and the report of the Committee on Finance. The thanks of the Congress are tendered to the Treasurer General. The report of the Treasurer General and the report of the Committee on Finance are received and referred to the Committee on Official Reports. If there be no objection, this course will be followed. Hearing none, it is so ordered.

Compatriot BACON (N. Y.): I would like to ask one question. In the investment of these funds, permanent funds, is there any rule of the Society as to the class of investments that the money shall be placed in?

The TREASURER GENERAL: I will answer the gentleman from New York. The Investment Committee has to invest in such securities as are acceptable to the savings banks of the State of New York.

The CHAIR: The Congress will take a recess until 2 o'clock.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL CONGRESS,
DETROIT, MICH., May 19, 1919.

Congress reconvened at 2:00 p. m., President General Ames in the chair.

The CHAIR: The Secretary General will please read a telegram that has just arrived.

The SECRETARY GENERAL: This telegram is from the President General of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and is as follows:

INDEPENDENCE, KANS., May 18, 1919.

LOUIS ANNIN AMES,

President General, N. S. S. A. R., Hotel Statler, Detroit, Mich.:

The Daughters of the American Revolution, through their President General, send greetings to the Sons of the American Revolution in Congress assembled and wish them a most successful Congress.

SARAH E. GUERNSEY,
President General, N. S. D. A. R.

The CHAIR: In the business of the morning, we were receiving the reports of the general officers. We will now have the report of the Historian General, Compatriot George Carpenter Arnold, of Providence, R. I.

The Historian General submitted the following report:

REPORT OF THE HISTORIAN GENERAL.

Mr. President General and Compatriots of the Thirtieth Annual Congress of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, Greeting:

The history of Detroit is closely interwoven with that of the whole Northwest, for its settlement is one of the earliest in America.

Visited by the French and explored by them as early as 1610, they saw that the swiftly flowing waters of the Detroit River were a miniature Straits of Gibraltar.

Their admiration of the fertility of the soil, the fine hunting grounds, and the grandeur of the forests was Nature's invitation to the first visitors.

The first European locating at this point was a native of France, a man of noble birth, named De La Mothe Cadillac, who took up his abode here in 1701, under the rule of France. Cadillac proved himself a man of great capacity and immediately proceeded to the work of settlement.

Trees were cut down and a fort about 200 feet square built on the banks of the river, near the spot where the Michigan Mutual Life Insurance Co. Building is now located, which he named Fort Ponchartrain in honor of the colonial minister. In the spring of 1712 Cadillac left Detroit, having been appointed the first Governor of Louisiana.

Within a short time hostile Indians surrounded the fort, seeking to dislodge the French; but the French traders soon demonstrated that they were willing to deal more liberally than the English, and thus the Indians soon had cause to regret their change of masters, for the English always practiced a cruel policy.

The French and English struggled long for the control of the Western Continent. The victory of Wolfe at Quebec in 1759 and the subsequent surrender of Detroit did not please the Indians, and in 1763 Pontiac, a powerful Ottawa chief, formed the intention of expelling the English and besieged the fort. It lasted nearly four months and was full of incidents of the most stirring character.

In the meantime the war clouds of the Revolution were gathering. Detroit was the center of British power in the Northwest, and a fort was erected as an English outpost in 1778, as a defense against the Americans, afterward called Fort Shelby, the present site of the post-office.

King George, fearing the hardy settlers of western Virginia and Tennessee would aid their brother colonists in the East, planned, and from here sent forth, Indian expeditions to harass them, furnishing the Indians with guns, scalping knives, and tomahawks.

Governor Hamilton, then in command, went forth from here with a force of British and Indians in the fall of 1778 to protect British interests, and was with his whole force captured at Vincennes the following February.

In 1783 Detroit was yielded by the Treaty of Paris with Great Britain, after a seven years' struggle of blood and tears, to the United States, but the British did not evacuate until July 11, 1796, at which time Gen. Anthony Wayne's army, under Captain Porter, took full possession and for the first time raised over the fort the American flag.

The animosities growing out of the Revolution were not allayed by the peace declarations, duly signed at Paris, which declared therein that these colonies "were, and of right ought to be," free and independent States. But the autocratic King George III of Great Britain (himself a German) maintained "That once a subject, always a subject," and thus the treaty of peace became "a scrap of paper," the British regaining possession of Detroit August 16, 1812.

Major General Ross and his torch-bearers attacked the National Capital, wantonly destroying the public edifices, some of these being costly monuments and depositories of the public archives, not only precious to the Nation as the memorials of its origin and early transactions, but to all nations, from a historical standpoint. Of the public buildings only the post-office was saved from the barbarous conflagration. The Britons, "the paragons of perfect men," as sung by their own Spencer, in the nineteenth Christian century plundered the houses and stores, committing acts of vandalism and atrocities against the young republic no less brutal and inhumane than the Jersey prison-ship "martyrs" experienced twenty-five years before, which constituted one of the most frightful chapters in American history. These and many more outrages committed it would wrong history not to record and civilization not to reprobate.

Detroit remained in possession of the British until September 29, 1813, when, as one of the results of Commodore Perry's notable and decisive victory of September 10, 1813, on Lake Erie, the English were driven out of the country and the English flag was replaced by the Stars and Stripes by General Harrison and the city again became American.

But the Detroit of today I may well leave in your hands, as the evidence is sufficient to convince all that she is not only a historical city in a pre-eminent degree, but a progressive city—progressive in population, commerce, manufactures, wealth, education—in fact, in all those elements that constitute a truly great and prosperous city, for more tonnage passes annually through "the Detroit River than in the same time enters and clears the combined ports of London and Liverpool."

The descendants of the soldiers of the American Revolution have truly ascended to protect and preserve the great principle upon which George Washington devoted his life and upon which America is based—liberty. Washington now belongs to humanity.

Faithful to the memory of Lafayette and his country, America went to the aid of France, because France herself was faithful to her traditions, and through unity of action and the noble humanity of America the great victory was won.

A. Howard Clark.

I would pause now for a moment, for during the S. A. R. year just ending, very peacefully, on Thursday, December 31, 1918, passed from earth to his reward the spirit of our late and distinguished Secretary General and Registrar General, A. Howard Clark. Compatriot Clark was born in Boston, April 30, 1850, and became a member of the District of Columbia Society at its organization, in 1890; he was elected Assistant Registrar General May 5, 1890, and was one of its Secretaries from 1891 to 1893. In 1892 he was elected Secretary General of the National Society, and in 1893, at Chicago, he was elected Registrar General, serving in that capacity over a quarter of a century.

At the St. Louis Congress, in 1904, he was elected Secretary General, performing the joint duties of Secretary General and Registrar General until his death. Educated at Boston and at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., the university in 1906 gave Compatriot Clark the honorary degree of Master of Arts.

From 1867 to 1875 he was engaged in the mercantile business in New York City, in 1879 was assistant on the U. S. Fish Commission, and later expert on the Tenth Census.

From 1881 and to the time of his death he was connected with the Smithsonian Institution as Curator of the Division of History in the National Museum and as editor of the publications of the institution.

In 1883 he served on the executive staff of the U. S. Commission at the International Fisheries Exposition in London, and was a U. S. expert commissioner to the Paris Exposition of 1889 by appointment of President Cleveland, when he was honored by order of President Carnot with the decoration of Officier du Merite Agricole of France.

Compatriot Clark held membership in many patriotic societies, his life was one of great activity and usefulness and his prominence in national and international affairs and in social and patriotic societies brought around him a large circle of acquaintances. Firm in his convictions of duty, he maintained the principles for which he stood with an adherence and persistency that emulated the sturdy spirit of his ancestors.

Compatriot Clark is survived by a widow and two sons. The oldest son, Chester Morrow Clark, is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, and the youngest son, Howard Sears Perry Clark, is a member of the Washington Guard. His wife, Alice Morrow Clark, was one of the 18 original organizers of the Daughters of the American Revolution, October 11, 1890; its Registrar General from 1890 to 1892; Vice-President General in 1894, and in 1895 was elected Honorary Vice-President General for life.

Numismatics.

My interest in numismatics prompts me to record briefly President Washington's personal supervision of the first United States mint, the building being the first ever erected by authority of Congress for a public purpose.

By the act of April 2, 1792, a mint for the purpose of national coinage was authorized to be established in Philadelphia (then the capital of the United States); the names the coins were to be known by, also their values, weights, and finenesses, were adopted, and thus were banished from the free Union of States the English pounds, shillings, pence, and farthings forever.

The national coinage was a subject in which Washington exhibited the greatest interest, and immediately after the act of April, 1792, he caused the purchase of an L-shaped piece of ground on Seventh Street, midway between Arch and Market streets, and now known and numbered 37 and 39 North Seventh and 631 Filbert street.

On the 31st the foundation stone of the mint was laid and early in October President Washington gave some of his private plate to furnish the silver from which the first half dimes were coined. All bore the supposed portrait of Martha Washington on the obverse and date 1792, of which your historian has taken from his cabinet a specimen, which he will be glad to exhibit to the compatriots after the meeting.

In Washington's fourth annual address to Congress, November 6, 1792, he makes mention of this first coinage as follows:

"There has been a small beginning in coinage of half dimes," etc.

Washington made the mint almost a "hobby," referring to it frequently in his official communications, visiting it constantly, and supervising its every detail. The regular series of the United States coinage commenced the following year, 1793.

Respectfully submitted,

Geo. C. Arnold,
Historian General.

The CHAIR: Our Historian General merits the thanks of the Congress. The report is received, and referred to the Committee on Official Reports, unless otherwise advised. It is so ordered.

In the reading of the President's report this morning, the statement was made that your Executive Committee had presented a memorial on the death of our late Secretary General, A. Howard Clark. It was ordered printed in the BULLETIN and a copy sent to Mrs. Clark. There was no engrossment ordered of that memorial. It was thought that if it were the wish of this Congress, that that resolution should be your spoken word of sympathy and esteem, you would pass a motion for it to be engrossed. Perhaps you would prefer that another resolution should come from the floor of the Congress and be engrossed and sent to Mrs. Clark as your expression of sympathy. That is the reason why the engrossment was not made, and I call the same to your attention at this time.

Compatriot BACON (N. Y.): It seems to me that the services rendered by Mr. Clark should be recognized by us as suggested by the Executive Committee, and, further than that, the memorial should be engrossed and presented to his wife in testimony of our respect for him. I move that the resolution be engrossed and presented to the widow of Mr. Clark.

(Motion seconded.)

Compatriot TORBERT (D. C.): I appreciate the dignity of the memorial that was gotten up by the Executive Committee. I also appreciate that, on such occasions as that, the death of a beloved husband means much to his widow. I think I am heartily in sympathy with the motion to have those resolutions or that memorial engrossed handsomely and presented to the widow from the Executive Committee of this Society. It is their work, their sentiment, etc. I also think that this body, as a Congress, should take some separate action, and I think the memorial and the separate resolutions presented from the Congress would have an added weight with the widow; so I would suggest that not only the memorial gotten up by the Executive Committee be engrossed, but also that this National Congress now assembled draw up suitable resolutions to present to the widow.

Compatriot BACON: My idea in making the motion was that the resolution as drawn by the Executive Committee should be endorsed by this Congress and be engrossed, which would cover the points that our friend from Washington makes. That is my idea of it and that is the reason that I made the motion.

The CHAIR: The vote is on the motion that the resolution passed by the Executive Board be engrossed and the copy forwarded to Mrs. Clark as the expression of this Congress.

(The motion was unanimously adopted.)

The CHAIR: I now ask for the reading of the minutes of the last Congress. The minutes of the last Congress were printed in the Year Book, but the Constitution provides for the reading of a draft of those minutes, if it is the desire of the Congress.

It was moved and seconded that the reading of the minutes be dispensed with, inasmuch as they had already been printed.

The CHAIR: I presume that motion will carry with it the adoption of the minutes as printed. Do I so understand?

(The maker of the motion assented.)

The CHAIR: The Chair understands that the motion is that we omit the reading of the minutes of the 29th Congress, and that the minutes stand approved as printed in the Year Book.

(The motion was adopted.)

The CHAIR: We will take up the report of the Memorial Committee, of which Past President General R. C. Ballard Thruston is chairman. (Applause.)

REPORT OF THE MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

Compatriot THRUSTON: Some two years ago or a little over I was made chairman of our local Chapter, in Louisville, of the Red Cross, and a year later Assistant Manager Lake Division, A. R. C., for the State of Kentucky. The past two years of my life have been given up to Red Cross work. I have allowed nothing whatever to stand in the way—social, family, nor anything else; so my entire time has been devoted to that instead of to the work of the Memorial Committee.

When I was named, two years ago, as chairman of this committee I declined. Mr. Clark wrote me, urging me to reconsider. I again declined. Mr. Clark again put it to me in a way that I could not decline, and he said, "If you will allow your name to be at the head of the committee, I will promise you that I will do the work." Now he was Secretary of the American Historical Association for twenty years. I was very, very close to him and one of his most sincere admirers in our whole organization, and as a result I was willing to lend my name to any work that Mr. Clark would do, and there is no one, aside from his own immediate family, who will miss him more than I will. I sincerely regret his death.

I made a trip into Virginia recently, a trip really for a rest, as a rest is a change of occupation and a change of scene. In my case it was a change of scene, and the use of different brain cells from those I had been using before, and I will promise you they were used just as actively as the others were. On this trip I tried to locate the birthplaces and the burial places of some of those Signers of the Declaration whose burial places are unknown.

It is rather singular, but of those whom Virginia had as the Signers of the Declaration, the burial place of Carter Braxton is not known. I visited his birthplace, on the Mattaponi River, with a beautiful lawn in front, extending for nearly half a mile. The old house is gone. It was built by his grandfather and inherited by his father and by his elder brother; and in this connection let me state that in the general genealogies of that period there is a generation missing; his father is left out. From them he acquired this place considerably later in life. Just about the period of arriving at the age of 21 he bought a place known as Ensing Green. Shortly afterward he went over to Cambridge University. While he was gone, Ensing Green was burned, or rather the interior. The walls in the basement were forty inches thick, so they are still standing. On two occasions that house was burned and has been rebuilt without having to rebuild those walls. He bought it in 1758 and on one of the bricks are the marks of his initials and the date. But he did not like it after he returned from England and sold it. His grandfather was buried at Mattaponi Church, which was abandoned during the Revolutionary War and not reoccupied as a church until 1828. It is not probable that he was buried there.

I have succeeded, therefore, in eliminating three of the supposed burial places of Carter Braxton. He built, after selling Ensing Green, only a few miles distant, a beautiful place. There are two burial grounds, one down near Pamunkey River, in the bottom, which is quite wet in damp weather and in which many of the family were buried. Another on higher ground, in which Carter Braxton's own son was buried, but his remains were later removed to Richmond. I find no evidence of Carter Braxton being buried there.

The facts are that he was a member of Congress until 1795; then he returned to find his home burned down. He lived in Richmond and died there in 1797. I want to state that the President of our Virginia Society, the Hon. Arthur B. Clarke, who is here today, is making a search to see if in one or two of the old burial grounds in Richmond he cannot find evidence of Carter Braxton's burial.

It is singular that his descendants, proud of the fact that they are Braxtons, carrying the Braxton as a part of their name to this day, do not know where their Revolutionary ancestor was buried.

The grave of George Wythe is located in St. John's Church. There is a little dispute as to which of two spots is the identical one. It makes very little difference, because the head of one spot will be the foot of the other. I have reason to believe that in the reasonably near future our Virginia Society will make efforts to locate the exact spot of the grave and erect there a headstone, suitable to the other headstones in St. John's Churchyard, to the memory of Wythe, one of the greatest chancellors Virginia ever produced.

I went out to Berkeley, the home of Benjamin Harrison, where five generations of that same name resided, and there I failed to find any evidence of the burial spot of the Signer of the Declaration. His grandfather was buried not far away, at Westover Church—the old site of that church. The river has infringed and was undermining the old church, and it was moved two or three miles away. It is at the old site of the church that old Benjamin Harrison is buried. There are the slabs covering the remains of him and his wife, and also William Byrd, of Westover, and his wife and granddaughter, Evelyn.

I hope through our Virginia Society and through our friends in Virginia to obtain information as to where the family papers are, in order that this committee in the future may be able to work out that history of which we now know so little. Again we will have to have the current newspapers of the day searched.

Unfortunately, in the Civil War there were so many papers and family residences destroyed, and county residences and county records and State records, that we are having great difficulty in obtaining that information which sixty years ago was so prevalent throughout that whole section; but I believe the results will be accomplished in the future.

At Yorktown, old York Hall has been bought by Mr. Blow, whose ancestral home is adjoining it. He has fixed it up as a residence in the old Colonial style, and it is one of the most fascinating places that I have ever seen. He has in it paintings of great value. Nothing is overdone. There is no museum about it; it is his private residence. He received me most hospitably and showed me the cannon balls that were fired in there by the Americans during the siege of Yorktown. There are two of them imbedded in the exterior walls of the house, and one which passed through a window and is imbedded in the interior walls. Old Nelson himself offered a reward for battering down his own homestead, which was the headquarters of Cornwallis during that battle.

The grave of Nelson is covered by a granite slab, 3½ feet by 7 feet, bearing his name and the inscription. That is in the churchyard, not far distant.

I told you the trip I made was one for rest, and I enjoyed it, every bit of it, and I was accused of enjoying work more than play. Well, I believe that the accusation is correct. I neither deny it nor do I defy the accuser.

The graves of the two Lees I did not attempt to locate on this trip; it will require another. Nor did I go to Monticello, to visit the grave of the great Thomas Jefferson, as that is so well known and so well marked that it would not be necessary to go there in order to locate it.

One of my most intimate friends, of South Carolina, is a descendant of two of the Signers. He was one of my predecessors as President of the Kentucky Society, Mr. Arthur M. Rutledge, and through him I hope to obtain access to the Rutledge and Middleton papers for study, and at a future date I will endeavor to visit the graves of the Signers from North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, as well as from Maryland.

But for the present you will have to accept this verbal report. I had no time and no opportunity to give you a written one, but I have from Mrs. Clark the statement that Mr. Clark during his lifetime took a tremendous interest in it. He has a vast volume of papers, copies of wills and other documents bearing on the Signers, a number of which as yet I have never had the opportunity of going over, and I hope that my successor, with what assistance I may be able to give to him, will be able to bring out the history of these Signers in a way that will make it as charming and interesting to us as have been those prepared by our other State Societies. I thank you for your attention. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: That report has a personal charm and the copy taken down by the stenographer will be furnished the Committee on Official Reports. You have all expressed your own thanks of the Congress to the chairman of that committee.

The CHAIR: I will ask the Secretary to give a notice now, and at the same time the Secretary of the Maryland Society will make distribution of some documents that will bear upon a future report from one of the special committees.

The SECRETARY GENERAL: Compatriots, there is a limited number of rosettes and also service bars in the possession of the Secretary General, and if any member of the Society desires either he can consult the Secretary during one of the recesses and he will be glad to furnish them. At the last Congress emphasis was placed on the request to wear your rosette, show your colors as a member of the National Society and the State Society to which you belong, and that rosette is distinctive, and we will endeavor to supply those who haven't them.

The CHAIR: The distribution is going on so very quietly that I am going to take the opportunity of calling upon the chairman of the Committee on Patriotic Education to also report for the Special Committee of the Executive Board on the American's Creed. Will Judge Reifsnider kindly come forward at this time. (Applause.)

Judge Reifsnider presented the following report, and in connection therewith made the following statement at the conclusion of the report:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PATRIOTIC EDUCATION.

Mr. President General and Compatriots:

When we look at the list of members of the Committee on Patriotic Education, of which I have the honor to be the chairman, and see how widely separated in place of residence they are, it is hardly necessary for me to say that no meeting of the committee has been or attempted to be held.

However, desiring to offer something deemed worth while in the discharge of our duty and having in mind that some of the objects and purposes of this Society are to inspire not only the descendants of those men who by their services and sacrifices during the War of the American Revolution achieved the independence of the American people, but the community at large, with a more profound reverence for the principles of the Government founded by our forefathers; to foster true patriotism; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble of the Constitution of our country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people, the idea occurred to the chairman and was concurred in by at least a majority of the committee—i. e., unanimously by all from whom he has heard—that we recommend the promulgation of the American's Creed and the lessons to be learned from this brief epitome of true Americanism, based upon the political principles which have made this country great, in the public, parochial, and private schools throughout the country, to the favorable consideration and prompt action, we hope, of every State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution as a work than which none seems more important, and in thorough accord with the objects and purposes of this Society which we have just quoted.

Especially important does it seem to us in times like the present, fraught with so many dangers to our Government from within, equal if not greater than those with which we were confronted from without in the momentous period through which we have so recently successfully passed, not only as a means of imbuing our own members with a more profound reverence for those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes, but the community at large, thereby tending to perpetuate for all time, please God, that which has been won, maintained, and extended at such tremendous cost of blood and treasure.

The history of the American's Creed is fairly well known to the members present, but a brief résumé will not be out of place at this time. As most of you know, the Creed idea originated with Henry Sterling Chapin, of New York, who was managing editor of Educational Foundations and who is himself of Revolutionary stock of New England.

When the contest for the writing of the American's Creed was announced, the active manager of the contest was Compatriot Matthew Page Andrews, supported by a representative group of literary critics and editors throughout the country.

The prize or Creed award was offered by Compatriot James H. Preston, then mayor of the city of Baltimore, who offered it on behalf of Baltimore as the birthplace of "The Star-spangled Banner."

No proceeding ever undertaken in America received such wide and favorable publicity, both in regard to the progress of the contest and the announcement of the Creed when chosen; but it must give all loyal Sons of the American Revolution genuine and lasting pleasure to know that William Tyler Page, the author of the successful Creed, is not only of Revolutionary stock and a descendant of one of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, but that he is also one of us—a member of the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

From this it is seen that the Creed is almost exclusively a product of our great Society, not by any prearranged program, but by a most remarkable connection of circumstances most creditable to the faith of those who are descended from the founders of this Republic.

It will be seen by our National Year Book for 1918, pages 99 to 103, that the American's Creed was endorsed at our National Congress at Rochester. At the time the Secretary General was instructed to convey to each of the Secretaries of each of the State Societies a copy of the resolution, with instructions to read the same at the next general meeting of their respective State Societies. Apparently this was not fully carried out, due, no doubt, to the illness and death of our lamented Secretary General. At least one State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, that of Maryland, has outlined a course of action and the results are here noted to illustrate, by just this beginning, the apparently unlimited possibilities in the use of the American's Creed, and a plan which the committee recommends and urges every State Society to adopt:

1. The Society itself has made the recitation of the Creed a part of its opening ceremonies.

2. It induced the Maryland State Board of Education to adopt a resolution in February last making the Creed part of the curriculum of the public schools throughout the State and urging the local boards of education to purchase enough copies to furnish each pupil with a copy.

3. It presented framed copies to the public high schools of the State (about one hundred) in the name of the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, on Maryland Day, being the 25th of March last. These were presented with appropriate ceremonies and in many instances through the medium of a member of the Maryland Society.

4. It procured three thousand unframed copies to be presented to the local boards of education in the twenty-three counties of the State and Baltimore City, with the understanding that they will be framed by the expenditure of public moneys, the pupils in the respective schools, patriotic citizens, or other means and hung in the schools. A number of local boards in the counties and Baltimore City have already been presented these copies.

5. The local boards of education of the counties particularly were urged to procure a sufficient number of an authorized educational and illustrated edition of the American's Creed for at least the eighth grade of the grammar schools. Some responses were made even this year—one county, Allegany, procuring 13,000 copies of this artistic edition of the Creed for distribution among the pupils—and it is particularly to be noted that this county is a mining county, with many foreign-born inhabitants.

6. Plans have also been made for co-operation with the parochial school authorities of the Catholic Church for the use of the Creed in these schools and for presentation of framed copies to those of high-school grade and unframed ones to all of the others.

Finally, Compatriot Matthew Page Andrews, chairman of the National Publicity Committee of the American's Creed, after answering thousands of letters of inquiry from every part of the Union, prepared a little pocket volume entitled "The American's Creed and Its Meaning," for Americanization purposes and for use in the schools. This little volume contains the complete story of the Creed and the doctrinal authorities upon which it is based and the historical or political explanations of its various phrases. The volume is also illustrated by pictures of Washington, Hancock, Jefferson, Madison, Lincoln, Webster, the United States Capitol, the Great Seal of the United States, the scene at announcement of the Creed in the National Congress, etc. The committee believes that the adoption and use of this book by the school authorities would make the teaching of the Creed more effective in accomplishing the desired results. Baltimore City has already done so. Of it our distinguished President General has written to Compatriot Andrews as follows:

"There has been no finer expression of the sentiments that should actuate the true American than those expressed in The American's Creed, compiled by William Tyler Page. You have done well to write a book on 'The American's Creed and Its Meaning,' and I trust this book will find its way into every educational institution of the land. It ought to be a text book in every school, for it breathes on every page not only the spirit of patriotism, but the spirit of 1776, that established the independence of the United States of America.

"We need have no fear of a lack of national spirit in our land if our citizens adhere to the principles of this Creed. There is no nobler work that can be done for the youth of our land than to have them memorize the American's Creed and become familiar with the authors of the various phrases embodied in that Creed, and to learn of their character and their service to our Nation."

And, again, to the publishers, Messrs. Doubleday, Page & Company, under date of April 3:

"Yesterday I received a most courteous letter from you announcing that you were sending under separate cover, a book entitled 'The American's Creed and Its Meaning,' by my friend, Mr. Matthew Page Andrews, chairman.

"The book arrived this morning and I am deeply grateful to you for your courtesy. I assure you that this publication ought to be used as a text book in the grammar schools of the United States, and it should be the duty of all patriotic societies of America to advocate the use of the book in such institutions, and particularly would it be advisable for municipalities to present a copy of the book at the time that final papers are given to aliens as naturalized citizens."

The Committee of the Maryland Society, of which I also have the honor of being chairman, has been co-operating with the National Creed Committee, composed of Matthew Page Andrews, chairman, 849 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md.; Porter Emerson Browne, Henry Sterling Chapin, W. B. Chapman, Irvin S. Cobb, Hamlin Garland, Ellen Glasgow, Hermann Hagedorn, Julian Street, Booth Tarkington, Charles Hanson Towne, and Richard Gwinn, treasurer, together with the advisory council, representing men prominent in both public and private life. It has consequently avoided making the mistake made by this committee in the beginning in furthering the promulgation and teaching of the Creed printed on cheap and unattractive folders. Hence, in Maryland it recommended the authorized editions of the Creed only, which are not only artistic, but at the same time give something of the history of the Creed, except in the case of large posters for display in school-rooms or offices, the idea being that, attractive and worth preserving, they will be carried into the homes by the pupils and thousands—yes, millions—outside the schools reached in this way.

It may be readily recognized that a knowledge and appreciation of The American's Creed represents in itself a certificate of good citizenship. Its use throughout the country may carry on to a successful conclusion ideals of accomplishment that might well have been deemed impossible prior to the creation of this wonderfully brief summary of American political faith.

It so happens that the chairman of the Committee on Patriotic Education was also appointed by the Executive Committee at its meeting in Newark on January 31 last, together with Compatriot David L. Pierson and the Secretary General, as a Special Committee to Exploit the American's Creed, and this committee now desires to concur in the recommendations of the aforegoing report.

Respectfully submitted,

JNO. MILTON REIFSNIDER,
Chairman.

With your permission I desire at this time, on behalf of the Maryland Society, to present to the Detroit Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution a framed copy of this American Creed, of which I have just spoken, and I also desire to announce, on behalf of the Maryland Society, that we have here, I think, a sufficient number of unframed copies which we desire to present, with the compliments of this Society, to the representatives of the State Societies represented at this Congress. We also present, in the name of the Maryland Society, the copies of the Creed which have just been handed you, together with a printed copy of the report of the committee. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: Dr. Knight would like to receive that from your hands.

Judge REIFSNIDER: Coming from such a proud State in the great galaxy of the States composing this Union of ours, it is with some hesitation, after hearing how ancient Detroit is, that I undertake to make this presentation. It is with a great deal of pleasure on the part of the Maryland Society that we present this, hoping you will accept it, and at the same time, for further information, we desire to present a copy of the book of one of our members giving information on the American Creed.

Compatriot KNIGHT: In accepting this for the Detroit Chapter, I wish to say that, although this city of Detroit may be quite ancient among the cities of the West, the Detroit Chapter is a very young Chapter; so we can readily accept something from an older chapter and an older State than the State of Michigan. I would say, in accepting this, that the Americanization idea is not a strange one to us. I think the Detroit Chapter and possibly the Michigan Society, before the Detroit Chapter was organized, was early in the field in Americanizing our people here.

You know, Detroit is a large manufacturing city, and consequently has drawn here men from all over the world. The national types represented here, I imagine, are as varied as in any city of the country. We have them of all kinds, all religions, and all shades; but they work together here, in one harmonious body.

The Detroit Chapter and, as I said, the Michigan Society took this matter up early, and from our beginning it was transferred to larger agencies. The Board of Commerce here in Detroit has undertaken that work very extensively, and not only the Board of Commerce, but the various manufacturers have done a great deal in that line. They have educated their people; they have taught the American language; they have taught them the American spirit. We have had the social service among all our large manufacturers. They have provided various means for the entertainment and for the education of their workmen.

As you go about the city, if you do, you will see many evidences of it, one of which I will call your attention to: As you pass along the boulevard tomorrow on your ride, you will see one large sign in which the company says to the people that work for them, "One country, one flag, one language," and that is what we are endeavoring to teach here in our Americanization. Proof that we are a harmonious people, proof that there are many Americans here who have come to us from other lands, exists in the gold stars that you will see spread up and down the streets. If you look at those names there, you will find that not one out of six—perhaps even a smaller percentage than that—not one out of ten or twelve—is a familiar American name. They are the names that carry you to Italy, to Poland, to Russia, to Germany, and other places so strange to us who have not traveled. They are names of those that were not born in this country, although their holders may have been born in this country, but they have become American and they have proved that they are Americans by going across the water and laying down their lives for the defense of our country and their country. (Applause.)

President FRANK DREW HALL, of the North Dakota Society: I wish to say for your information, in regard to this Creed, that I come from the State of the Non-Partisan League. A great many of them really ought to be denationalized, but we have a heavy percentage of foreign population, and in the naturalization process our district judges are accustomed to have addresses by prominent, well-known citizens on the flag and upon the nature of the act in which they are about to participate in becoming naturalized citizens of our country. That has become quite a custom in the last two or three years, and the point of information I wish to ask for is whether this organization could in some way provide that one of these small copies of the Creed could be furnished to these courts that are about to naturalize these foreign-born citizens, that they might put one of these into the hands of every man as he is naturalized? That is just a suggestion or a question. I do not know whether they are for distribution in any way like that, but it strikes me that it would be one of the finest things we could do for our new citizens.

The CHAIR: You are the President of your State Society.

PRESIDENT OF THE NORTH DAKOTA SOCIETY: Yes, sir.

The CHAIR: You will kindly get into communication with the chairman of this committee and he will tell you how the various State Societies are taking it up with these various organizations throughout their individual States.

PRESIDENT OF THE NORTH DAKOTA SOCIETY: Thank you.

Compatriot KNIGHT: Before I leave the stand, I would like to say a word about the reception tonight. There will be automobiles at the Bagley Avenue entrance of the hotel, so that those who wish to go that way can do so; and also on Elizabeth street, Elizabeth street being one block north of the Methodist Church, over on the corner, there will be a street car on a siding, and any who wish to go that way may do so. That car will be there until half-past seven. The car will take you directly to Colonel Alger's house. Those who miss that car and the automobiles can go at any time in the street cars, which go directly to Colonel Alger's house. Those who do not take the automobiles can go by the special car. Those who are too late for the special car, which leaves at half-past seven, can take any car which goes to Grosse Pointe. The Chamber of Commerce in Detroit has a fine building and has sent a communication saying that it will be glad to see any of the members here. It is very unusual in its methods of distributing information, furnishing manufacturers and others interested in that line with information about anything in the city or country, and will be glad to have a visit from any one here.

The CHAIR: The question before the house is the report of the Committee on Patriotic Education. That is also one for which you have expressed your thanks, and it will be referred to the Committee on Official Reports. I am sorry that time does not permit of our expressing our approval from the floor of the various reports that have been made today. They have all been magnificent. Before we proceed with the next report I desire to make an announcement, which is that the invitation extended from the Chamber of Commerce has been referred officially to the Committee on Recommendations, and individually you accept the invitation.

Compatriot CLARK (Va.): At our Congress at Rochester last year Mr. Andrews, of Baltimore, read this Creed and also a paper telling the source from which these expressions were taken. I think I called his attention to the fact that I did not think he gave the proper credit for the expression used, "government of the people, by the people, for the people"; so I wrote him a letter, as he had asked me to do. I wrote this letter:

420 MUTUAL BUILDING, May 28, 1918.

Mr. MATTHEW PAGE ANDREWS,

849 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md.

MY DEAR MR. ANDREWS: Referring to our conversation in Rochester as to the origin of the words in the "American Creed," "A government of the people, by the people, and for the people"—

(1) In the opinion of Chief Justice Marshall in the case of McCullock vs. The State of Maryland, delivered in February term of U. S. Supreme Court, 1819, the sentiment of these words runs through the 120 pages of this far-reaching opinion. (See Wheaton's Reports, Vol. 4, pages 315–435, edition of 1883.)

On page 404 are these words:

"The government of the Union, then, is emphatically and truly a government of the people. In form and in substance it emanates from them. Its powers are granted by them and are to be exercised directly on them and for their benefit."

I am indebted to Hon. Lunsford L. Lewis for this reference. Judge Lewis is a retired Associate Judge and President of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals and was a United States district attorney for this district. He is an ex-President and Historian of the Virginia Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

(2) Daniel Webster, in a speech in the United States Senate, January 26, 1830, said:

"The people's government, made for the people, made by the people, and answerable to the people." (Bartlett's Quotations, p. 532.)

(3) Theodore Parker, in a speech delivered in Boston, May 29, 1850, said:

"This is a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people." (Bartlett, p. 639.)

(4) President Abraham Lincoln, in his speech at Gettysburg, November 19, 1863, said:

"A government of the people, for the people, and by the people." (Bartlett, p. 622.)

In the article accompanying the Creed, it is stated that these words are from the preamble to the Constitution. I am unable to find such in either the Constitution or the brief preamble. I have examined several publications of that document.

Please kindly understand that I have not brought up this matter in any spirit of criticism or unfriendliness—not at all—but only to assist in locating the real origin of the words and giving credit where it belongs.

Trusting this may aid you in further search for the truth, and hoping to have the pleasure of meeting you again, I am,

Yours truly,

ARTHUR D. CLARK,
President Virginia Society, S. A. R.

In subsequent publications the same words are contained, that it is from the Constitution, which I am utterly unable to find. John Marshall is really the author of the words.

The CHAIR: We have a report from the Committee on Americanization, Mr. Chancellor Jenks. (Great applause.)

Compatriot Chancellor Jenks presented the report as follows:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON AMERICANIZATION AND ALIENS.

DETROIT, MICH., May 19, 1919.

To the Thirtieth Annual Congress of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution:

This committee came into existence ten years ago, in response to a patriotic ambition to hasten the amalgamation of the foreign-born into the ranks of desirable citizens. Our Society was the first to define and enter this field of labor. The word "Americanization" then received a somewhat restricted interpretation. It was confined to instructing the new or prospective citizen of foreign birth in the practical and material advantages of the American form of government and its protecting power. Rapidly its scope has broadened, until it now embraces every effort made to build up, strengthen, and fortify the American Government through implanting and fostering a higher ideality in the individual citizen, whatever his birth. As a consequence the activities of this committee are covering a larger field. Its members are gladly reaching out welcome hands of co-operation with other agencies of patriotic uplift, in order that the results may be multiplied and made more universal. We have found a great truth, which may be expressed in a biblical paraphrase: "America, if it be lifted up, will draw all men unto it." Wherever we find America being so lifted up, there this committee finds its congenial work. Whoever seeks this aggrandizement of our country's institutions and ideals we join hands with in a common cause. Yet we do not forget that our Society first announced and entered upon this important work, nor do we suffer the laurels which rightly belong to the Sons of the American Revolution to be wrested from our brow.

Every member of this committee has been engaged during the last year in absorbing war work. Some have been so fortunate as to don the uniform of the American soldier or sailor; others remained in the files of the plain-clothes men who served behind the firing line. All were essential parts of a great Americanization machine, which needed every part to be effective. From every portion of the United States come reports of the activity of members of this committee in the great Americanization movement. It is interesting to note the characteristic style of these several chronicles. Those of us who know the writers are enabled to visualize them through their reports.

Alfred Coit, of New London, Conn., modestly regrets his inability to do much in the Americanization way because of his duties as Government appeal agent, as director of forty "4-minute" men, and as major in the Liberty Loan campaigns. Can better Americanization work be imagined? It is purely inspirational. The scholarly Judge Harvey F. Remington, of Rochester, multiplied his strength by co-operation with the Americanization Committee of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce. On Washington's birthday his committee, in the presence of 4,000 applauding Americans, conferred citizenship certificates upon more than a hundred students of American institutions. They brought to Rochester James W. Gerard and Job B. Hedges, to picture America's ideals and ambitions to twenty thousand people. They organized and carried out flag-day celebrations in many industrial plants, thronged with prospective voters, and infused enthusiasm and vim into societies and social and industrial groups without number.

Dr. Samuel Judd Holmes, a vice-chairman of this committee, carried his untiring zeal and loyalty into the Y. M. C. A. classes of Seattle, and in his own striking personality furnished proof of the inspirational value of a line of loyal American forebears.

Another distant committeeman, Dr. Rawlins Cadwallader, of San Francisco, unspoiled by his new entitlements of captain of Medical Corps and assistant commanding officer, was engaged in the work of completing the naturalization of alien soldiers. At Pittsburgh, Thomas Stephen Brown found time, despite the pressure of his professional duties, to impress the Americanism of our Society upon half a score of important committees whose functions were to hold up the hands of the Nation and to guard it from disloyalty and treason—in a word, to insure the fruits of solid Americanism.

Compatriot J. H. Weston, of Logtown, Miss., in a district untouched by any foreign strain or suspicion of disloyalty, found in the prestige of membership on this committee the opportunity to awaken into definite expression the dormant patriotic spirit of his community.

From Montclair, N. J., W. J. Lincoln Adams writes that his Americanization activities were nil because he was in active military service! Active military service is practical Americanization. Our soldiers and sailors have been engaged in Americanizing the world. How many thousands of Germans were persuaded to throw up their hands and voice their complete conversion in the cry, "Kamerad."

Edwin S. Crandon, of Cambridge, sees the word of this committee looming into greater importance as peace tries to hover over a nation aroused to the highest degree of pugnacity. Concerted effort of all agencies which seek to touch the hearts and minds and consciences of men with the appeal of American ideality is needed to offset in the mill centers of Massachusetts the socialistic, anarchistic propaganda which is so rife. But first the alien must learn English, so that the requisite contact may be made.

Frank B. Steele, of Buffalo, carried his Americanism into his work as the executive secretary of the Home Defense Committee of Erie County. He took the census of the aliens and illiterate. A Subcommittee on Americanization and Naturalization operated in the public schools and with the U. S. Bureau of Naturalization; classes were formed for the study of our institutions and laws, and the certificates presented to the students were accepted by the naturalization officer without further examination. His committee conducted a great celebration on July 4th in connection with the conferring of these certificates. As in many other districts, employers of labor were induced to advance men as a reward for learning English. Prominent in this activity is Mr. George W. Whitehead, assistant superintendent of the Lackawanna Steel Co., a member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Prof. Vernon P. Squires, of the University of North Dakota, has made many addresses at Grand Forks and elsewhere on American ideals and America's part in the war.

In Milwaukee, Walter H. Wright plainly rose to the urgent necessity of the perilous situation and, as member of the Wisconsin Defense League, the Wisconsin Loyalty Legion, the County Council of Defense, the Patriotic Speakers' Bureau, the Draft Board, the "4-minute" men, and many other emergency groups, has been furthering the objects of our committee.

Many and momentous have been the problems which have arisen out of Wisconsin's complex citizenry. The State Society of the S. A. R. has maintained an alertness which has contributed to the solution of them all. It spoke a ringing note of fealty when our Nation entered the war. It circularized the schools and colleges of the State in advocacy of the observation of Constitution Day. It awarded medals to high-school students for the best essays on these subjects: "America, the Melting Pot of the World," and "The Constitution of the United States." It inaugurated a successful protest against the presentation of plays in German, and only last week was an active promoter of a tableau representing Trumbull's famous painting, "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." All this is Americanization work of the highest type.

Last, but by no means least, I would mention the work of our much-loved and respected compatriot, Commander John H. Moore, of Washington, D. C., who, notwithstanding the increased responsibility and labors incident to higher rank and honors, has been distributing broadcast the three pamphlets issued by our Society, entitled "Information for Immigrants," "Naturalization," and "The Constitution of the United States," Requests for these have come from public and technical schools, State Societies and Chapters, Y. M. C. A.'s, Americanization committees in different cities, the Bureau of Naturalization, and the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior, etc.

On account of the action of our Executive Committee in discontinuing the publication of these leaflets, it was decided that the remaining copies should be divided between the Bureaus of Education and of Naturalization. During the past eleven years this committee has sent out hundreds of thousands of our leaflets to all parts of the country, and it is believed that they have had stimulating effect upon the Americanization movement.

If, as I have rehearsed the labors of the members of this committee, you have said to yourselves, "Why, we've all been doing these things ourselves," I can reply, "So much the better for our land and for our Society." The Sons of the American Revolution, when they rise to their highest worth, are only a Committee of the Whole on Americanization and Aliens. As American citizens, as members of this Society, we all have the same work to perform, the same road to traverse. We must study American ideals until we understand, love, appropriate, and live them. Then will we be fitted to impart them to others, and to make our own lives an object-lesson of their worth. As lovers of our country, let us first to our own selves be true; then will it follow, as night the day, that we cannot be false to any man.

CHANCELLOR L. JENKS,
Chairman.

The CHAIR: We owe thanks to Chancellor Jenks for his magnificent report, which is referred to the Committee on Official Reports. We will now have the report of the War Service Committee—President Carl M. Vail, of the New Jersey Society, chairman.

Compatriot Vail: Mr. President General and Compatriots, the data contemplated regarding the war service work of our National Society and its members is far too voluminous to read at this time. I have the report prepared, a very brief report, to give you a few of the high spots. I will say also that as yet I have received returns from scarcely half the States, so that I could not in any event make a complete report at this time.

Compatriot Vail then presented the following report:

REPORT OF THE WAR SERVICE COMMITTEE OF THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

The War Service Committee of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution consists of the Presidents of all the State Societies. After due consideration it was decided that better results would be obtained by each State Society caring for its own war service work than by handling it all through one central committee. The President of each State Society, therefore, became practically a sub-committee chairman for his State. Due to some kind of war service being still in progress as well as to other causes, rather less than half of the States have so far reported to the national committee. Therefore, at this time, only a partial report is submitted. The period covered is from the entrance of America in the World War, on April 6, 1917, to date.

The war service activities of the Society and its members have been so varied and extensive that it is not possible to tabulate them under a limited number of specific heads. The detail work of each State is separately reported as exhibits attached hereto.

The following illustrations are given, not as a complete list of important services rendered, but to indicate the extent and variety of the work done by our Society and its members:

The Massachusetts Society as an organization collected and distributed goods to soldiers passing through Boston to the value of $120,000. In addition to their many other activities, three ambulances were sent abroad by the Empire State Society, one by the Illinois Society, and one by the New Jersey Society. The members of the Empire State Society subscribed to over $153,000,000 worth of bonds of the first four Liberty Loans. The returns for the Fifth Liberty Loan are not in, but will probably bring their record to about $200,000,000. What the total of loan subscriptions by all the members of the National Society is cannot as yet be said, but it will run into many hundreds of millions of dollars.

Of the 248 members of the Utah Society, 55 enlisted in the Army and Navy.

About 25 per cent of the membership of the Wisconsin Society served in the Army and Navy.

Many State Societies presented service bars to their members who enlisted and will present bronze medals to them.

Individual services of members cover work on exemption boards, local advisory boards, Liberty Loan committees, in Thrift Stamp drives, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., in Department of State, in Department of Justice, American Protective League, Armenian Relief, as four-minute speakers, getting up public meetings, Home Guard, fatherless children of France, as food administrators, as coal administrators, and in fact in practically every form of war service. In a large number of instances, the chairman of not only local but of county and State committees were members of our Society.

Lieut.-Col. C. Seymour Bullock, of Connecticut, organized the American Legion of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces.

Compatriot Noyes, a former President of the Illinois Society, gave property to the University of Chicago to the amount of $3,500,000, as a perpetual educational fund for American soldiers and sailors who served in the great war for liberty.

Important and splendid services were rendered by every State Society, and the details of such service will be found in the reports attached, or to be attached, hereto.

Exact figures as to the number of our members who were enlisted in the Army and Navy are not as yet available, but in excess of 12 per cent of the total membership of the Society, or, say, about eighteen hundred, so served. They were in all branches of the Army and Navy and of all ranks up to and including major general and rear admiral. The record of those who gave their lives for their country is as yet by no means complete, but the following have so far been reported:

Capt. Merritt U. Lamb, of Michigan.
Lieut. Edward H. Locke, of Michigan.
Lieut. Clarence F. Conner, of Michigan.
Lieut. Harry Hastings Melick, of Nebraska.
Lieut. Walter Stillman, of Nebraska.
Lieut. Harrison Cummins McHenry, of Iowa.
Lieut. Burr Budd Boies, of Iowa.
Lieut. Charles Cedric Seevers, of Iowa.
Brig. Gen. Lyman W. V. Kennon, of District of Columbia.
Lieut. Louis Hamilton Bayly, of District of Columbia.
Capt. Waterbury, of Illinois.
Lieut. George R. Sutherland, of Wisconsin.
Lieut. Macnish, of Wisconsin.
Lieut. Gormley, of Wisconsin.
Lieut. Richard Earle Beall, of Idaho.
Lieut. Briggs K. Adams, of New Jersey.
Lieut. William W. Punchard, Jr., of New Jersey.
Lieut. Frank J. Selbel, of New York.
Lieut. L. W. Bates, Jr., of New York.
Lieut. Edward C. Kimble, of New York.
Lieut. Edgar B. Lowerie, of New York.
Lieut. Henry B. Palmer, of New York.

Data as to those decorated or commended in general orders is also incomplete, but advices as to the following have been received:

Sgt. John Lamb, of Michigan—Distinguished Service Cross.
Lieut. Robert L. Nourse, Jr., of Idaho—Croix de Guerre.
Lieut. Norman C. Nourse, of Idaho—Croix de Guerre.
Lieut. Gustavus B. Appelman, of Idaho—Commended.
Major Samuel Dickinson Rockenbach, of Virginia—Croix de Guerre.
Brig. Gen. Charles C. Dawes, of Illinois—Decorated.
Col. Joseph B. Sanburn, of Illinois—Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Order of Great Britain, Order of Leopold of Belgium, Rosette of Legion of Honor, France, and Croix de Guerre.
Major George S. Ballard, of Illinois—Croix de Guerre.
Major T. R. Littlefield, of Utah—Distinguished Service Cross and Croix de Guerre.
Major Girard V. B. Hale, of Utah—Croix de Guerre.
Major Julian Burton, of Utah—Decorated.
Major Carl Waldemar Vail, of New Jersey—Croix de Guerre.

Your War Service Committee asks that, in addition to submitting the present report, it be permitted to turn over to the Secretary General further data as rapidly as it is collected, until such time as the war work record is completed.

Respectfully submitted,

CARL M. VAIL,
Chairman.

The CHAIR: The partial report of the committee is received with thanks and will be referred to the Committee on Official Reports. I ask you to remain just for a few minutes longer, that we may complete the receiving of the reports so as to have the morning free for unfinished business and new business. Is there a report from the Flag Committee, of which Compatriot William V. Cox is chairman?

The Secretary General submitted the report of the Flag Committee, Mr. Cox, the chairman, being unable to be present. It was as follows:

REPORT OF THE FLAG COMMITTEE.

The Flag Committee, National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, begs to report that American manhood successfully defending the Flag of the United States on and beyond the seas has made the flag more glorious in the eyes of the world.

On this side of the Atlantic, the great German invasion in Europe has made the flag more precious; Americans everywhere reconsecrating themselves to it and the principles for which it stands and for which our sons fought and died.

Never before have there been so many flags triumphantly waving, nor so many tributes written in prose and poetry to the glory and honor of the flag, at the same time so little said of the needs of a Federal law to protect its sanctity as the symbol of the Government of the United States.

As a people we honor the flag, but there are men and women living under its protective folds who are not in sympathy with our institutions and who love another flag that has no place in the Republic established by our fathers. Anticipating conflicts, riots, and possibly bloodshed with these un-Americans, the Honorable Henry Zenas Osborne, of California, introduced a bill on December 3, 1918 (H. R. 13195, 65th Congress, 3d session), to prohibit the public or private display of certain flags and emblems and prescribing for violation thereof. This bill, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives, was not acted on.

There is room for but one flag in the United States, and that the flag of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution—the flag that stands for order, justice, and peace.

In recent years this flag has been torn down and trampled on. It has been abused and commercially misused by promoters, fakers, and others, who for business purposes have taken advantage of its beauty and made it an advertising banner.

The records show that the Sons of the American Revolution and other patriotic societies have petitioned and urged the Congress of the United States to enact a law to protect its flag from every kind of degredation. All efforts have failed to secure the passage of such a bill in both bodies of the same Congress. If individuals and societies would agree on a measure and unitedly present it to Congress, as recommended in previous reports of this committee, it seems rational to believe that the creators of the flag would protect that which they created. Mr. Justice Harlan has said in legal dictum:

"To every true American the flag is the symbol of the Nation's power, the Emblem of Freedom, in its truest, best sense. It is not extravagant to say that to all lovers of the country it signifies government resting on the consent of the governed; liberty regulated by law; the protection of the weak against the strong; security against the exercise of arbitrary power, and absolute safety for free institutions against foreign aggression."

Thoughtful Americans believe that a Federal flag law is needed to prevent desecration, intentional or otherwise. Experience has shown that merely the sense of propriety and knowledge of fitness cannot always be relied on, an additional reason why offenders against the flag and Federal Government should be restrained by due process of law. Absence of well defined legal protection of the flag has caused violence and disorder, as witnessed in many of the States of the Union. In a large number of cases indiscriminate physical punishment has been inflicted on those outraging the flag by infuriated citizens and soldiers who had upheld that flag on the battlefields of France.

The committee believes that the foreign-born enemies of our country who dishonor the flag should be deported from our country for our country's good. American-born enemies should be imprisoned, and thus prevented from spreading treason.

To force a traitor to kiss the flag as a punishment is a mistake that should not be repeated. Unworthies should never be permitted to place their lips on the flag that represents American civilization, a flag which should be kept clean and free from pollution. If such willful abuses of the flag are not punished by law, would it not be a more fitting punishment to force foul-mouthed desecrators to kiss the shadow of the flag in the dust of the street?

The flag is more frequently desecrated unintentionally, thoughtlessly, and through ignorance than maliciously, which shows the need of further inspiration as to what the flag stands for, its proper use and abuse. Mrs. Isabell Worrell Ball, the well-known patriotic writer, tells the following, illustrating ignorance and lack of propriety by well-meaning persons: "In a haberdasher shop there posed a clay figure, dressed presumably as a gentleman. On the corner of his turned-down collar two flags were woven; his necktie had two flags on it, worn upside down (a signal of distress in the language of the flag); a bow-knot flag, upside down, ornamented the lapel of his coat. A flag handkerchief, also upside down, was in his breast pocket. Conspicuous blue socks with two white stripes, between which two flags were woven, covered the feet. Two young ladies appeared. Looking at the grotesque figure, one, who also wore a flag hat and flag stockings, exclaimed, 'Oh, isn't it just too sweet the way that figure has the flags arranged. I am just crazy about the flag.'" The bad taste here displayed confirms the diagnosis. Fortunately cases like this grow fewer each year as the result of the campaign of education carried on by teachers, patriotic instructors, organized and unorganized, and by the various patriotic societies.

President Wilson in his Flag Day Proclamation said, "Let us on that day (June 14) rededicate ourselves to the Nation * * * for an America which no man can corrupt, no influence draw away from its ideals, no force divide against itself—a Nation signally distinguished among all the nations of mankind for its clear individual conception alike of its duties and its privileges, its obligations, and its rights."

Among patriotic instructors may be mentioned Capt. E. R. Lewis, of Chicago, President of the American Flag Day Association, who has a large collection of examples of flag desecrations, which he uses with telling results when addressing meetings in American cities on the proper use of the flag. Captain Lewis wrote President Wilson asking him to have war-workers keep the flag at the front, protesting against it being in the background of uncensored war posters.

The National Association of Advertising Specialty Manufacturers of Chicago is to be highly commended for the advanced position taken in protecting the flag in advertising and for its publication and distribution of flag laws of the States.

The District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution recites the American's Creed at all its meetings. At two functions this year the Creed was recited by its author, William Tyler Page, of Maryland, as follows: "I believe in the United States of America as a Government of the people, by the people, and for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed, a democracy in a Republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies."

Rules as to the use of the flag, prepared by our associate, General James Rush Lincoln, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, Iowa State College, have received the approval of the committee and may be found in the appendix.

The form of respect due the National Anthem has also greatly improved. This is ascribed largely to the training of our sons in the cantonments and by patriotic instruction by willing war-workers. The regulations of the War Department provide that, "Whenever the National Anthem is played at any place when persons belonging to the military service are present, all officers and enlisted men not in formation shall stand at attention, facing toward the music (except at retreat, when they shall face toward the flag). If in uniform, covered, they shall salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining the position of salute until the last note of the anthem. If not in uniform, and covered, they shall uncover at the first note of the anthem, holding the head-dress opposite the left shoulder and so remain until its close, except that in inclement weather the head-dress may be held slightly raised.

"The same rules apply when 'To the Color' or 'To the Standard' is sounded as when the National Anthem is played.

"When played by an Army band, the National Anthem shall be played through without repetition of any part not required to be repeated to make it complete.

"The same mark of respect prescribed for observance during the playing of the National Anthem of the United States shall be shown toward the national anthem of any other country when played upon official occasions."

Attention being called to the condition of flags that had become discolored, weatherbeaten, and torn by long usage, as not properly representing the pride of the Nation's Capital, those responsible immediately substituted new ones. In this connection, the committee calls attention to the action of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, representing over a thousand plants in various cities, which adopted a resolution at its last meeting at Atlantic City, tendering its plants to the Government for whatever use the Government might put them, and volunteering to clean free of expense every flag in home localities. This patriotic offer, novel in character, is highly commended.

Bills protecting the Flag of the United States will be introduced again at the coming session of the Sixty-sixth Congress of the United States and with your approval will receive the active support of your Flag Committee, emulating the example of General Omar Bundy at Château-Thiery, when he said, "The American flag has been forced to retire. This is unendurable. * * * We are going to counter-attack."

W. V. Cox,
Chairman.

APPENDIX.

The following rules will be complied with in the use of the United States Flag:

When the flag is displayed from a staff the upper halyard will be attached to the upper corner of the flag, or upper corner of the union, and drawn up tight to the pulley. The lower halyard will be attached to the lower corner of the flag and will be allowed to be loose so as to not unnecessarily whip out the flag. The flag should be raised in the morning and lowered before sundown. When the flag is to be displayed at half staff it will first be raised to the top of the staff and then lowered to a position not more than one-third the distance from the top of the staff. When it is to be lowered from half staff it will first be drawn up to its position at the top of the staff and from there lowered. Never raise the flag and stop at half staff or lower it direct from half staff. On the Fourth of July the flag flies at full staff, and at 12 o'clock a salute to the Union is fired when artillery is available. A salute to the Union consists of one discharge for each State, at present being a salute of forty-eight guns. Memorial Day the flag is raised to the top of the staff and dropped to half staff. At 12 o'clock the flag is raised to full staff, from which position it is lowered at sunset. The flag at half staff is in honor of the dead. At full staff it is in honor of the living. When it is changed, on this occasion, from half to full staff, if practicable, the Star-spangled Banner should be played and followed by other patriotic airs, if desired.

The flag represents the Nation and should be saluted when carried by a color-bearer with a guard of at least two men. When the flag is carried without being in charge of a guard it is not a representative of the Nation. It requires a guard to give it its full dignity. When carried as indicated, when the flag passes, it should be saluted by facing toward it, and when in uniform and covered, by coming to the position of salute, the hand held at salute until it is passed, when the hand is smartly dropped to the side. If passing the flag, the salute is rendered as you pass it in the same manner. If in civilian clothes, face toward the flag, remove the hat and hold it in front of the left shoulder for the time, as indicated in the preceding instructions. If uncovered, stand at attention, facing the flag, and salute. If passing the flag uncovered, salute with the hand in passing. The flag carried on a lance as indicated with a guard is called "colors," and should never be witout a guard unless it is placed where it is kept for safe-keeping.

The Flag Used in Decorations.

The flag, when displayed from a window or a door of a building, should have the union on the side opposite the building. When suspended from a rope in the center of the street, in streets running east and west, the union should be to the north; in streets running north and south, the union should be to the east. When used for interior decorating the flag should be displayed on the wall, the union on the left. In this position the flag can be draped as desired. If it is desired, can be draped with their unions approximately together, the stripes being draped to the right and left. The "National Colors" render no salute; hence in decorations the flag should never be drooped which brings the stripes perpendicular. Flags should never be used as a covering for tables or stands or placed in any position that they can be soiled by contact.

JAS. RUSH LINCOLN.

The SECRETARY GENERAL: I wish to say, in connection with this report, that if the program of the National House of Representatives was carried out as expected, the Hon. William Tyler Page was elected Clerk of the National House of Representatives today, a position in the National House of Representatives second only to that of the Speakership itself.

The CHAIR: The report will take the usual course. We will now have the report of the Special Committee on Increased Membership, of which Mr. Lewis B. Curtis is chairman.

Compatriot CURTIS: I think my report is unique in one thing—it is all on one page. I might state, in connection with the report, that in some of the smaller States having a smaller membership the percentages ran very much higher than in States with a large membership. One State gained over 100 per cent, but it was due to its small membership. New Jersey made the banner gains of the larger societies.

Compatriot Curtis then presented the report as follows:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON INCREASED MEMBERSHIP.

Immediately on your committee receiving their appointment at the close of the last Congress, the undersigned, as chairman, wrote all the members of the committee and suggested to them that, on account of their being so widely scattered, it would probably be impossible to hold regular meetings and direct the work as a body, and suggested that of necessity some one member must carry on the work under general supervision of the committee. The undersigned was unanimously elected to carry on the work and most of the correspondence has been done by him. This statement is made without any idea of claiming credit, but rather to assume responsibility and to show that any defects in the carrying out of the purposes for which the committee was appointed should not be chargeable to the other members of the committee.

After this preliminary, the writer at once got in correspondence with all the Vice-Presidents General, urging them in turn to work on the presidents of the various Societies and endeavor to get the membership committees appointed and a campaign started in each of the State Societies. This correspondence has been carried on continuously throughout the year, supplemented by personal visits in as many places as possible. In many parts of the country the results have been very gratifying, as the following figures will show, but still we feel that our efforts would have been crowned with still greater success had we have been working in normal times and under ordinary conditions. During the past year we have been working in the midst of war excitements, when campaigns for all kinds of things were being carried on, and we found that so many people were interested in war work and societies pertaining to the war that it was difficult to arouse interest in our Society.

The figures of the year are before us, but we will not repeat them here, as they probably will appear in the report of the Registrar General, excepting to state that, in spite of the above adverse conditions, we have added 1,220 members, or an increase of 8 per cent in our total membership. In many States the percentage has run much higher than this, as in the case of New Jersey, where the percentage of increase was approximately 14 per cent.

We found that this work was much greater than any ordinary busy man could do justice to. We found that, to do it right, it was a man's size job, which would take the entire time of the very best man who could be secured. To do it properly, a man should devote his whole time to it and be prepared to devote a large part of his efforts as a field secretary, working out local problems for the various State Societies, conducting meetings, campaigns, etc., in the localities where the Societies need strengthening. In fact, we believe that several such men could be used to advantage.

Respectfully submitted,

LEWIS BEERS CURTIS,
Chairman of Committee on Increased Membership.

The CHAIR: The report is received with the thanks of the Congress and referred to the Committee on Official Reports. Have we a report from the Committee on Local Chapters, of which Past President General Woodworth is chairman? From the Committee on Naval and Military Records, of which Compatriot Charles W. Stewart is chairman? From the Committee on National Archives, of which Major Frederick C. Bryan is chairman? From the Committee on Colors? I presume Col. George V. Lauman in the presentation of the colors made the report. We will so accept it. There is no report from the Legal Aid Committee, because nothing has been referred to that committee during the year. Is there a report on The Washington Guard, of which Compatriot Merrill is chairman, or from the Publicity Committee, of which Compatriot Pierson is chairman?

The SECRETARY GENERAL: Mr. Pierson wrote and said that he would be unable to be present at this Congress. All of you know him. He was for years Historian General of this Society.

The Secretary read the following letter from Mr. Pierson, chairman of the Publicity Committee, as follows:

REPORT OF PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT.

Compatriots of the Thirtieth Congress of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, Greeting:

It was the intention of this department the moment it was created by appointment of the President General, Compatriot Louis Annin Ames, to conduct a vigorous campaign in behalf of the society, and to stimulate, where necessary, the compatriots to a keener realization of the duty involving upon them as citizens as well as members of our beloved organization.

With this object in view, we began to prepare the plan for the anniversary remembrance of Constitution Day, on September 17. The proclamation of the President General calling upon the members to celebrate the day was anticipated by a letter sent out by this department on August 15, 1918. This was sent to all the general officers, presidents of Societies and Chapters, to a number of governors of States, mayors of cities, and also to many newspapers. Through the kindly offices of Compatriot Arthur S. Thompson, an article prepared by the chairman was sent over the wires to every newspaper patronizing the Associated Press for release on the morning of September 16, the day preceding the anniversary.

Gratifying reports were received from many of the Societies and individual compatriots of the success attending the celebration, the second in the history of the country, and which was inaugurated by our Society.

The epidemic of the fall and early winter, with the many important happenings in the country and the world, forbade any active work after that date till the thirtieth anniversary of our Society, on April 30.

On April 30 a circular letter was sent to the presidents of Societies and Chapters, and to others, by direction of our President General, calling attention to the forthcoming anniversary of our National Charter and Guide, and requesting immediate action by the societies for promoting the movement in their respective communities and localities for its nation-wide observance. The attention of the compatriots was also called to the importance of this Congress.

Please let me ask each and every member of this Congress to use every honorable means at his command to bring about an enthusiastic and inspirational celebration of this most notable day in our national life. Individual participation in the movement is absolutely necessary if we are to make it more impressive than the two previous ones. Let us send up our prayer of thanksgiving to Almighty God that He has safeguarded us on our journey of nearly a century and a third; let us proclaim to the world our belief in the true American spirit of loyalty to the principles of the Founders as enunciated in the two great documents; let us reaffirm our allegiance to the flag and to the glorious institutions it represents; let us, through the mediums of public meetings and individual missionary work, impress upon the new-comer and the indifferent citizen the mighty responsibility devolving upon all who claim protection of the best and most enlightened government in the world.

Respectfully submitted,

DAVID L. PIERSON,
Chairman.

The CHAIR: The report is received with the thanks of the Congress and will take the usual course. That concludes all the reports of the officers and committees. There is but one item of unfinished business I know of. If it is your pleasure, we can transact that in two minutes, so as to close about five o'clock and leave the morning session free for the transaction of new business and hearing reports from the two important session committees. Is it your pleasure to take up unfinished business, which refers to proposed amendments to the constitution? I will read the proposed amendments, which are as follows:

The Massachusetts Society gave notice at the last Congress and also through the OFFICIAL BULLETIN, thus complying with the necessary requirements asked for by our Constitution. The Massachusetts Society offers this amendment to Section 1, Article 3, of the Constitution of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution:

Amend Section 1 of Article III of the Constitution of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution by adding thereto after the words "Great Britain" the following words and figures:

"Provided, however, that any male person, above the age of 18 years and under the age of 21 years, whose qualifications in regard to ancestry and personal character are as above prescribed, shall be eligible to a qualified membership to be known and designated as junior membership, said junior membership to permit to each junior member all privileges granted to full membership except those of holding office, of voting, of holding any interest in the property or funds of the Society or of any Chapter thereof, or of receiving a certificate of membership except as hereinafter provided, or of wearing any insignia of the Society other than the rosette; a special certificate may be issued to such junior member in such form as may be prescribed by the Board of Trustees: providing such junior member shall not be in arrears for dues, on attaining the age of twenty-one years he shall automatically be vested with full membership in the Society."

The CHAIR: I recognize the President of the Massachusetts Society.

Compatriot HENRY FULLER PUNDERSON: Our members, many of them, obtain membership in this Society from ancestors whose service was performed when they were very much under 21 years of age, and we think it is unfair that men of Revolutionary ancestry who are considered of military age in the present war should not be associated with us because of the age limit in our By-Laws. The present motion is in the way of a compromise. Our original idea was to admit the men of 18 years of age into the same membership that all of us enjoy, but this was found to have some legal difficulties which made it inadvisable, because it would require a change in the charter. As a consequence, the present measure is drawn, which I am told by various members of the legal fraternity who are members of our Society, amply gets around that from the fact that the junior membership proposed denies to the man any voting power or property rights in the Society and in nowise invalidates the charter of this Society. We are anxious to have this resolution adopted by the National Society, and I so move.

(Motion seconded.)

A MEMBER: Has the committee passed on this?

The CHAIR: It has been passed upon by the Executive Committee, who recommended it for adoption, and by your trustees, who recommended it for adoption. Are there any remarks?

(There being no discussion, the motion was unanimously adopted.)

The CHAIR: The other proposed amendment was offered by the Maryland State Society and seconded by the Empire State Society, and reads as follows:

Amend Section 4, Article V, of the Constitution of the National Society by adding a new paragraph to the section:

The members of the Executive Committee other than the President General shall be known as Directors General, and by virtue of their office shall be members of the National Congress and entitled to vote at the annual meeting of the National Congress during their terms of office.

The CHAIR: I recognize the representative from the Maryland Society on our Executive Board, who was the former President of the Maryland Society, Judge Reifsnider.

Compatriot REIFSNIDER: I will not undertake to comment upon this amendment, which has been before the compatriots and was published in the publication from which you have just read. I move the adoption of that amendment, making the change in the Constitution.

(The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted.)

The CHAIR: Is there any other item of unfinished business that you would like to take up at this time?

Vice-President General READ: Mr. President General, I noticed as you were presiding over the deliberations of this Congress that you moved the gavel as if it were something which had no special significance. I come from a State which is rich in historic memories, and without going into further details, compatriots, I have the consent of the President of the Society to present this motion, that the State Society of Massachusetts will present the National Society, in order to have it produced at the next Congress, with this historic gavel, which contains pieces of wood from buildings which are memorable in the history of this country, and I submit that proposition to you.

The CHAIR: That proposition requires no action by the Congress. The Chair most promptly and graciously accepts this offer of the historic gavel from the Old Bay State. I thank you very much for this kind offer, though I presume the gavel will go in the archives of the Society, as other historic gavels have gone, and that the next President will preside with a gavel similar to this and it may be an inspiration to receive other historic gavels. Is there any other business to come before this session? If not, we will take a recess to the hour that you suggest.

It was moved and carried to take a recess until May 20, 9.30 a. m.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL CONGRESS,
DETROIT, MICH., May 20, 1919.

Congress convened at 9.30 a. m., President General Ames in the chair.

The CHAIR: I ask the compatriots to kindly come to order. Our gavel has disappeared, but I do not believe this gathering needs a gavel. Vice-President General Thomas W. Williams will please take the chair.

(Vice-President General Williams takes the chair.)

The Secretary General read a telegram of greeting from the Washington State Society, and also the report submitted by Mr. John Lenord Merrill on the Washington Guard, the same being as follows:

66 Broadway, New York, May 14, 1919.

To the President General, National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in Congress assembled at Detroit, Mich.

Mr. President General: I regret extremely that I can report little progress in the work of the National Commandery of the Washington Guard of the Sons of the American Revolution. I have given considerable time to the work, but without the active co-operation of the State Societies we can accomplish little. Our work has been handicapped to a considerable extent by war conditions. I rejoice to say that the honor roll of the Washington Guard is of credit to the Sons of the American Revolution, and I trust some day that we may be able to compile a full record of the services of all the sons of our members under age who have so zealously and heroically served their country in the great World War.

May I respectfully urge upon this Congress that instructions should be issued to each State Society to compile a list of the sons of members in the respective States. With such a list and full data accompanying the same, we can proceed to thoroughly organize the Washington Guard. Without it we can do little.

I consider the Washington Guard a valuable asset to our Society and my services are always at your command. I trust, however, that it may be possible to interest a number of younger members in the work, appointing them to the general offices and allowing us to aid them in the work.

Respectfully submitted.

John Lenord Merrill,
Governor General.

The Chair: You have heard this report. What is your pleasure? If there are no objections, it will take the usual course and be referred to the Committee on Official Reports. Will the Secretary General kindly read a letter just received from Vice-President General Frank W. Rawles?

The Secretary General read the letter, as follows.

Little Rock, Ark., May 17, 1919.

Mr. Louis Annin Ames,
President General, S. A. R., Detroit, Mich.

Dear President General: I regret very much to find, at the last moment, that I cannot attend the National Congress at Detroit this year. I had looked forward to this with a great deal of pleasure.

I had hoped to be able to report something as to all the Societies in my district, but am unable to do so, owing to many of them not giving me the data.

The State of Louisiana, reported last year as having 102 members, now has 215 members, with six applications pending—an increase of 113 members, or over 110 per cent. This will not only entitle her to one of the "Ames Banners," but also to the Traveling Banner.

I regret that President C. Robert Churchill cannot be there. The Society will be represented by delegates, however.

I am informed by President E. G. Spilman, of the Oklahoma Society, that they have surpassed the requirements necessary to win one of the Ames banners, though I cannot give you the exact figures.

This Society has been active in war measures, and, through a petition presented to the legislature, steps have been taken toward the erection of a suitable soldiers' and sailors' monument for those who gave their lives to their country. Constitution Day was observed.

North Dakota has been doing good work, though their increase will probably not entitle them to a banner.

Minnesota has been doing good work, though I have not been informed as to late activities.

Arkansas has had the best year in her history. Though her report last year showed 61 members, in reality it was only 59, as one of the members reported had died the year before, and another member was counted who did not complete his papers nor pay his dues until last February. She paid on 74 members this year, or an increase of 15 members net.

Arkansas observed Washington's Birthday, La Fayette's Birthday, and other events. Our Society, unaided, secured the passage of a flag law last winter, modeled after the national bill. It was signed in the presence of members of all the patriotic societies.

Her members took active parts in all war activities, eleven of her members were officers in our National Army, and several of them were wounded on the field of battle. Mr. Marc F. Sanderson will represent Arkansas at the Detroit Congress.

Regretting that I have not further data as to the Mississippi Valley, West District, and wishing Detroit a most successful Congress,

I am, most cordially,

FRANK W. RAWLES,
Vice-President General.

The CHAIR: If there are no objections, the report of Vice-President General Rawles will take the usual course and be referred to the Committee on Official Reports.

(President General Ames takes the chair.)

The CHAIR: We are ready to receive the report from the Committee on Official Reports and Recommendations. Is the chairman ready to report? Past President General Nelson H. McClary is chairman of the committee.

Compatriot MCCLARY: Mr. President General and Compatriots, your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Secretary General be accepted and placed on file and entered as part of the minutes of this Congress.

The CHAIR: You have heard the resolution offered by the chairman of the Committee on Official Reports. What is your pleasure?

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports moves that the report of the Registrar General be accepted, placed on file, and made a part of the minutes of this Congress.

The CHAIR: You have heard the resolution from the Committee on Reports. What is your pleasure?

(The resolution was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Treasurer General be accepted, placed on file, and made a part of the minutes of this Congress, accompanied by the report of the Auditing Committee.

The CHAIR: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Treasurer General, accompanied by that of the Auditing Committee, be accepted, placed on file, and made a part of the record. What is your pleasure?

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot McCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Historian General be accepted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress.

The CHAIR: The Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Historian General be accepted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress. What is your pleasure?

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot McCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on Patriotic Education be adopted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress, and that the Executive Committee be, and is hereby, authorized and instructed to adopt the methods therein suggested for the promulgation of The American's Creed, in so far as it shall be deemed practicable to do so.

(Motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot McCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Flag Committee be adopted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress.

(Motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot McCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on War Service be adopted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress.

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot McCLARY: In further reference to this report of the War Service Committee your Committee on Reports and Recommendations offers the following resolution:

Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on War Service be accepted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress.

In further reference to this report of the War Service Committee, your Committee on Reports and Recommendations offers the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, Compatriot La Verne Noyes, a former President of the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution and Past Vice-President General of the National Society, has by a gift of three and one-half million dollars ($3,500,000.00) to the University of Chicago established an educational fund for the benefit of the soldiers and sailors of the great World War; therefore be it

"Resolved by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in Congress assembled, That the thanks and congratulations of our entire membership are hereby tendered to Compatriot Noyes for his generous and patriotic action, and that a certified copy of this resolution be sent to him by the Secretary General."

(On motion, the foregoing resolution was adopted.)

The CHAIR: The adoption of this resolution carries with it also the adoption and the resolution that it shall be sent to Compatriot Noyes.

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on Increased Membership be accepted and entered in the minutes of this Congress, and that the recommendations therein made be referred to the Executive Committee.

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on Publicity be accepted, placed on file, and entered in the minutes of this Congress.

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on Americanization be adopted, placed on file, and entered as part of the minutes of this Congress.

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of the Committee on the Washington Guard be adopted, placed on file, and made a part of the minutes of this Congress.

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

Compatriot MCCLARY: Your Committee on Reports and Recommendations moves that the report of Vice-President General Rawles be accepted, placed on file, and made a part of the minutes of this Congress.

(The motion was seconded and adopted.)

The CHAIR: We thank the committee and its able chairman for the delightful manner and the efficient way in which he has disposed of all of yesterday's official reports of the officers and committees.

We will now have the report of the Committee on Resolutions, of which Past President General R. C. Ballard Thruston is the chairman. Is Past President General Thruston in the room or has he designated some other member of the committee to report? While we are waiting for the report of that committee I ask if there is any new business to come before the Congress at this time? If not, it is my pleasure to call to the platform the Presidents of the Massachusetts and New Jersey Societies. Last year, as you know, New Jersey had the honor and the distinction of presenting to the Massachusetts Society the Syracuse banner, to be awarded to the Society showing the largest increase in membership during the year. This banner was won the previous year by New Jersey, and presented to Massachusetts, who will now return it to New Jersey, that State having a record of 141 new members during the past year. Will the representative of Massachusetts, Compatriot Silsby, kindly come forward, and I call upon President Punderson to make the presentation. Will President Vail, of New Jersey, come forward and receive the flag in trust for another year? Compatriot Punderson has the floor.

Compatriot PUNDERSON: Mr. President General and Compatriots, it becomes my duty to present to the representative of the New Jersey Society this beautiful banner, known as the Syracuse Traveling Banner. The Massachusetts Society worked hard to obtain this banner and we strove manfully to retain it. The New Jersey Society could not be overcome. I want you to take this banner and keep it carefully, for we are determined to take it from you next year. (Laughter and applause.)

Compatriot VAIL: Mr. President General and Compatriots, a year ago I stood at the Rochester Congress opposite the President of the Massasachusetts Society and I was obliged then to pass this banner over to Massachusetts. New Jersey worked hard to keep it, but failed; but at that time I said to the President of the Massachusetts Society that New Jersey was not going to be without it for more than one year. I wish to call attention to the fact that New Jersey has made good. (Applause.) The President of the Massachusetts Society has said that we should keep it carefully, for Massachusetts was going to make a desperate effort to get it back. If Massachusetts gets it back, it will have to run for its money, for we are going to keep it more than one year. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: A Traveling Banner was presented by the Colorado Society, to be awarded each year to the State numbering one hundred or more which can now show the greatest net percentage of increase in membership. This banner has never been won by any State in the Far South. This year, however, Louisiana will have the honor of receiving this trophy, having made the enormous percentage of increase of 108.8 per cent. This Society has more than doubled its membership during the past year, and I ask the representative of the Louisiana Society, Compatriot J. H. Weston, to come forward. (Applause.) And I ask the President of the State who won this banner last year to kindly come forward, the loyal representative of the loyal State of Wisconsin.

Compatriot WALTER H. WRIGHT (Wis.): I trust that the compatriots will not think that Wisconsin has kept the banner up there, for we shipped it down here, but it has not arrived.

The CHAIR: I am sorry we cannot find this banner, and I ask Compatriot Robinson to bring forward the brightest and best banner in the world, and we will use that as the presentation banner. President Wright, of the Wisconsin Society, will make the presentation.

Compatriot WRIGHT: Mr. President General and Compatriots, Wisconsin, very much to its surprise, received this banner last year for having the largest percentage of gains. This percentage question, if you gentlemen have ever figured it out, works very peculiarly. I recall the story of a gentleman who was representing a nursery. He sold a friend of his some very choice grape settings, and after the trade had been made, the gentleman asked him what percentage he had made on the sale. He said, "Well, my friend, I have charged you three dollars a root; I know nothing about figuring percentage, but they cost us 6 cents apiece. If you can figure the percentage, please do so." After figuring for a long time and covering two pages of paper, he said, "It can't be done; it runs away out of percentage into highway robbery." (Laughter.) I do not mean to intimate that my friends from Louisiana have committed highway robbery, but Wisconsin has been very proud to be the possessor of this flag for the past year, and we take great pleasure in handing it over to our good brothers in the Southland. (Applause.)

Compatriot WESTON (La.): As long as the Wisconsin people have failed to produce the Traveling Banner, I am very proud to receive the true banner of all Americans, our American Flag. (Applause.) I wish to state to the compatriots that we in Louisiana and throughout all the South value our citizenship in this country very highly. We are jealous of it; we have tried to guard our ballot. We have tried to make it an American country, and I think that the Louisianians who were in the Marines at Château-Thierry and the other points did their service to this flag the same as the man from Wisconsin or Michigan did. I thank you, compatriots. (Applause.)

[The Traveling Banner was found in the care of the Secretary of the Michigan Society and presented to the representative of the Louisiana Society.]

The CHAIR: I ask Vice-President General Charles French Read to kindly come forward and take the chair.

(Vice-President General Read takes the chair.)

The CHAIR: Mr. President General and Compatriots, I esteem it a great honor to preside temporarily over the affairs of this Congress and accept it as a great honor for the Old Bay State, which I represent.

President General AMES: May I have the floor for a few minutes?

Mr. Vice-President General and Compatriots, It is a very pleasant duty that I have before me. Some of you will recall that a year ago, at the Congress, when so many of our compatriots had answered the call to the colors, when so many of our compatriots were engaged in activities that were necessary for the faithful carrying out of the enterprise that our Nation had entered into, I offered a banner, to be presented to each State Society who during the year which is now closed had achieved at least 20 per cent in increased membership, a banner to be held in perpetuity by the State Society. And now that we have achieved the desired goal, a victory for the world and for the principles which this Nation holds most dear, it is my privilege to make good on the offer that I made at that time. There is one disappointment, however, and that is that there are not to be 48 banners to be presented today instead of seven banners. I am very happy to say that quite early in the year I knew that Louisiana would win a banner, and the banner is here. I did not know until the latter part of last week what other State Societies would be entitled to these banners; consequently they are not here in completed form; but they are here in sufficient condition to be presented, and my good friend, Compatriot Robertson, the Secretary of the Maryland Society, has consented to assist me in the presentation. I ask him to bring forth the banners as called for.

Compatriot Weston, the representative of the Louisiana Society, please kindly come forward. I have the great honor and pleasure of presenting to you, Compatriot Weston, as the representative of the Louisiana State Society, this banner for having gone over the top, Louisiana having increased the membership of its Society over 108 per cent, and there is no happier duty devolving upon me at this Convention than to present this banner. I trust that Louisiana will keep the banner, not only as a memento of the great increase in membership that it has made, but of its devotion and loyalty to the ideals of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and particularly the interest it has in the National Organization. (Applause.)

Compatriot WESTON: Mr. President General, Mr. Chairman, and Compatriots, in receiving this banner in behalf of the Louisiana Society, we will always remember Detroit, Mr. Ames, and all the members we have met here very pleasantly. I say we; I speak for our whole Chapter. I would like to call the attention of the Society to the absence of representatives of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and the Carolinas. The Daughters are strong in those States. Why is it that there is no representative of those States here? There are, I think, in New Orleans descendants of the Signers of the Declaration. We tried to get them to come into our Society, but we have failed. Now I think that there is a very large field in those States that is being opened up as a new country. I would like to invite every man's and woman's attention to our South. In Louisiana we have some of the greatest salt mines. We have the largest sulphur mine, one of our principal assets during this war. We contributed largely to the oil and gasoline supply. We contributed sugar and cotton. Louisiana is the second lumber-producing State in the United States. We were not dependent upon any foreign country for sulphur. We furnished the bulk of the lumber for the cantonments. The South furnished about 300,000 cars of lumber in about ninety days for the cantonments, and that is some feat for any people to do. Even if they do have the hookworm down there and mosquitoes and things like that, I don't think we are so very slow. I thank you all. (Applause.)

President General AMES: I would like to have come forward the representative of Oklahoma. Oklahoma has the distinction of having increased its membership 28 per cent during the past year. Is there any representative from the State of Oklahoma present? I ask President George Albert Smith, of Utah, to come forward. (Applause.)

It is a pleasure, on behalf of the National Society, to present this banner to the Utah Society for its interest in the National Society. The National Society asks you to accept this banner, when completed, as showing what a deep affection we have for the Utah Society, of which you are the worthy President. (Applause.)

Compatriot GEORGE ALBERT SMITH: Mr. President and Compatriots, this is a very auspicious occasion to me. I have been coming to these meetings regularly, and last year we thought we had the Traveling Banner, but we missed it by just three members, and I think that we missed it because we figured that we would keep it another year and we did not get all the members we might have had; so we blame ourselves. This year we started out with a determination to have one of these banners, and I am grateful, on behalf of the Utah Society, to receive this, and accept it with the feeling that it will be one of our treasures. Utah is one of the newest States of the Union, way out in the mountains, but we always feel at home with our compatriots, and I take this opportunity, as a representative of the Utah Society, to thank the members who are here for their uniform kindness to the delegates from Utah who have attended the Congress. I have come farther than any other member here to attend the Congress, and I believe I have got as much out of it and as good a time as any of you. (Applause.) I accept this banner from President General Ames, and desire to say to him that there are a number of our associates in Utah who are interested in him, and it gives us a special pleasure to receive at his hands this beautiful gift. I would like to say further that the Utah Society pledges itself not to be satisfied with 20 per cent, but to continue to increase the membership of the Society out there as we find members in different places. And now I would like to say that the last time we calculated Utah was sixth among the States of the Union in membership in proportion to her population. We take this back with the hope that we will carry off the Traveling Banner next year, and we would like the two contending States to take notice that we are after it and that we intend to carry it off. (Applause.)

President General AMES: The representative of the State of Arkansas. Arkansas has an increased membership of 25 per cent. The banner is here. I regret to say the representative from Arkansas is not here. The banner will be sent.

Will the representative from the State of Idaho come forward? Idaho increased its membership 24 per cent, and the banner is here and will be forwarded to Idaho. Is there a representative present? I know there is one from Wisconsin, and I ask President Wright to come forward. "To him who gives, he shall receive." (Laughter and applause.)

Compatriot WRIGHT: Mr. President General and Compatriots, you see what you can do with percentage. (Laughter and applause.) We will take this banner to Wisconsin, Mr. President General, and with it we will take the recollection of your generosity in presenting it, and we shall always hold you in grateful memory, and we trust at some time in the future that we may have a visit from you in person. I thank you. (Applause.)

President General AMES: It will be a pleasure and an honor to visit the State of Wisconsin and the S. A. R. Society and look upon their consolation banner in their own home. (Applause.)

Will the representative of the Missouri Society, Mr. Linn Paine, come forward? Missouri has the record of having increased its membership 27.5 per cent. (Applause.) I am very happy to present this banner to the representative from the State of Missouri, and I know that he will be just as happy to take it home, and with it the friendship, the fellowship, and the joy of the National Society in the increased prosperity of the Missouri Society. (Applause.)

Compatriot PAINE: Mr. President, it appears that this entire National Congress rejoices with me in the fact that Missouri has won this prize. I assure you that I am very proud of it and very grateful to you as the donor and very grateful to the Society for the assistance that they have given us. I shall convey this to St. Louis and see that it is presented to the State organization with fitting ceremony. This is given to us as a mark of work well done, but we prefer to receive it as a token of work well begun; we have not ended. (Applause.) We believe that this will lead us on to greater achievements. We will see that it is exhibited in the State of Missouri and throughout the Mississippi Valley, and we shall use it as an aid in promoting the great principles of the Sons of the American Revolution, the truest and purest Americanism. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: Compatriots, I think we are all agreed that we are very much indebted to our President General for having introduced this new feature into our Congresses by his courteous and generous offer.

Past President General THRUSTON: Your Committee on Resolutions think that President General Ames has introduced into our proceedings a most interesting and unique feature, one which has never been introduced before except in a smaller way. It was done by the Colorado Society a number of years ago, in the form of the Traveling Banner, and we feel that President General Ames is entitled to special thanks for these beautiful banners and for this beautiful ceremony which he has instituted. We therefore desire to introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution be, and they are hereby, tendered to President General Ames for the banners presented through the Congress to the State Societies of Louisiana, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, Idaho, Wisconsin, and Utah, whose membership has been, during this past year, increased 20 per cent or more.

And we would suggest that, if it meets with the approval of the Congress, this be done by a rising vote.

The CHAIR: Compatriots, you have heard the motion as introduced by Past President General Thruston.

Compatriot CURTIS, chairman of the Committee on Increased Membership: As chairman of the Committee on Increased Membership, I rise to second this motion. I feel a personal interest in it because Mr. Ames made this generous offer not only for the benefit of the Society, but to help me in my work on that committee. (Laughter.)

It is a thing that has never been done before, and he made the offer through my committee. And believe me, gentlemen, it has helped us very much, and it gives me great pleasure to second that motion of the Past President General.

Compatriot BACON: These banners as presented by Mr. Ames have a recruiting value to this Society, and recruiting is what we need. This Society has 17,000 members, I believe, in the whole United States; the Daughters have some 100,000 or 110,000, I believe, and I feel a little bit ashamed of the men, and it seems to me that if the effort is made, as our friend from Louisiana says, in those Southern States, which are very much American, that something could be done in this recruiting line by banners or whatever it might be, not particularly from a personal donor, as Mr. Ames, our President General, has done, but even by the Society, and we could build a Society up to the point that it should reach. We talk about educating the aliens; we talk about the Creed of the American Nation; we circulate that among our people. I want to say that we are a failure as a Society of the S. A. R. if we cannot, in this great United States, produce more than 17,000 members. (Applause.) I am heartily in favor of this resolution of thanks to our President General. It is going to do a great good.

(The motion was then adopted by a rising vote.)

(President General Ames takes the chair.)

The CHAIR: After the rising vote I am here. (Laughter.) Compatriots, I thank you. I appreciate greatly your expression of good-will toward me, but the pleasure connected with the banners was entirely mine. I was thankful that I had the opportunity and that it was my privilege to make this slight contribution as an incentive to increased membership this year. And the joy of it is that all of the banners that have been won have been won by State Societies whose membership at the beginning of the year was less than 200 each. We have strengthened seven of our smaller State Societies. I wish all Societies could have had banners; but, as that was not to be, I am reconciled that the larger Societies, who have memberships sufficient to take care of their interest and to keep them alive, had to go without banners. I only wish that the banners had been here all in completed form, but four days gave very little notice for the workers; but soon the banners will be sent to the State Societies in completed form, like the one that was presented to the Louisiana Society. Is there any new business to come before the house?

Compatriot REMINGTON, President of the Empire State Society: I would move, Mr. President General, that this organization continue giving these banners, and that the expense thereof be defrayed by the Treasury; that a banner be given to each State increasing its membership 20 per cent, at the expense of the National Organization.

(Motion seconded.)

The CHAIR: And I presume that also carries with it the regulation that the increase must be at least ten members.

Treasurer General BURROUGHS: I would like very much to see a resolution like that adopted, but the Treasury of the National Society is not so large as to entail a cost of this character. If the advocates of increased membership should induce all the State Societies to have banners, we would have a bankrupt treasury, I am sorry to say, and I think this motion ought to be presented to a committee and not be adopted by this Congress at this session.

Past President General THRUSTON: Just before Treasurer General Burroughs spoke, I had had the same thought in mind. Having been President General of the Organization and having had the finances to consider, it struck me that it would be better to suggest to the mover of the motion that this matter be referred to the Executive Committee, to take such action as they think the Society can afford in that matter.

Compatriot REMINGTON: I think that is very proper, and I accept that suggestion, and I believe that if we get to work that the question will be properly solved. The increased membership will certainly take care of the finances, but I think it is very proper that this resolution should be referred to the Executive Committee with power.

The CHAIR: The mover of the motion accepts the amendment, and the motion now is that this matter be referred to the Executive Committee with power.

Mr. BACON: I will speak upon the amendment. It seems to me that reference to the Executive Committee is a little too far off. We have in the Congress here representative men who have traveled a good many miles to attend this convention, and it seems to me that we might raise a fund here today, among the members who are assembled, of, we will say, $1,000; it can be done at $25 or $50 apiece, if necessary. Now, if you want to show your Americanism and show your desire for recruiting, that is something that I believe we should do here today. I believe these banners are a great incentive for all the Societies, and I believe that each one of us as individuals should today contribute, if decided by this Congress, toward a fund to have these banners for next year, and I make that as an amendment to this motion, that we take subscriptions from the members here today in order to put this thing in effect.

Compatriot BANKS (N. J.): It seems to me that the prize is the individuality of this beautiful banner, and for this Organization to plan to give a banner to each State which in one year increased its membership 20 per cent I think would be a great mistake. If a State has gained in membership, it should have an order of merit added to it in some way, but the beauty of this banner is its individuality, which would be destroyed by having it given out every year by the Organization.

The CHAIR: There is no second to the amendment, so the motion as first amended by the mover of the motion is now before the house.

Compatriot ARTER: I move to amend by substituting 50 per cent for 20 per cent.

(No second.)

The CHAIR: The amendment is not seconded; so the motion before the house is the original motion as amended, the amendment being accepted by the mover of the motion. The motion is that the Society donate a banner to each State organization whose membership is increased 20 per cent, provided that that increase shall not be less than ten members, and the matter is referred to the Executive Committee of the National Society with power. That is the motion for which the question has been called.

(Motion adopted.)

Compatriot CURTIS (Conn.): It has been suggested by my neighbor that we put an extra star on the banner for each additional 10 per cent they get, very much as they did with the Liberty Loan banner. That question, of course, can be taken care of by the Executive Committee when it comes up.

The CHAIR: Is there any other item of new business to come before the house at this time? The Secretary has an announcement to make.

THE SECRETARY GENERAL: The representative of the Louisiana Society, Mr. John H. Weston, has had prepared, or, rather, the President of that Society has had prepared, a book in connection with the Society. It is not local in its interest, but it is general, and he has brought a sufficient number of copies to supply the delegates. I am somewhat familiar with the contents of this book, and can therefore say that the delegates will be very highly edified if they will read some of the reasons for becoming members of the Sons of the American Revolution. This Louisiana Society during the past year has compiled this book of about 70 pages, containing a lot of useful information in connection with the Society.

I also want to announce, as supplementing the report of Mr. Curtis, of Connecticut, or, rather, Mr. Jenks, in regard to Americanization, naturalization, and the Constitution of the United States, and the copies of papers in reference to those subjects, the Department of Labor, the U. S. Department of Labor, has taken over the distribution of these pamphlets, or pamphlets in reference to these subjects, and any member of this Society or any person interested can get them upon writing to the Department of Labor at Washington. The particular man in charge of these pamphlets and books is the Hon. Raymond F. Crisp, and during the past few months I have had occasion to refer to him probably 25 or 30 applications for these books. They come from all sorts of societies, particularly from societies educating the aliens, and the requests come from schools, private and public.

The CHAIR: I recognize the chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, Past President General Thruston.

Past President General THRUSTON: Those of us who have had the pleasure of entertaining the Congress of the National Society appreciate what has been done here, and what has been done wherever we have been entertained. We know and we realize that in thanking a State Society we are thanking each and every individual member. We know that in thanking the chairman of the committee we are not thanking him personally, but we are thanking the body which he represents; and therefore your Committee on Recommendations has prepared a resolution expressing our appreciation of the courtesies extended to us here and by the various organizations, and with your permission I will read this resolution:

Be it resolved, That the Congress of the Sons of the American Revolution record its appreciation of and extends its thanks to the Governor of the State of Michigan and the Mayor of the City of Detroit, represented by the corporation counsel, for the cordial welcome extended to the delegates and visiting women of the Congress;

To the Michigan State Society and the Detroit Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, for their labors in behalf of and hospitality to the Congress assembled in this city;

To the Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for the delightful luncheon, entertainment, and hospitality extended to the delegates and visiting women;

To Senator and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry for their cordial invitation to the reception for the delegates and visiting women, although the necessary attendance of Senator Newberry at the extra session of Congress required the cancellation of plans for their reception;

To Major and Mrs. Frederick M. Alger for the reception for the delegates and visiting women at their home "By Way," Grosse Pointe Village.

(On motion the resolution was adopted by a rising vote.)

The CHAIR: The chair would state that at this time it would be the pleasure of the Congress to receive invitations for the 31st Session of the Congress, a year from now. We had an invitation that the Congress of next year should be held in Massachusetts; but, as the ceremonies connected with the Tercentenary of the Landing of the Pilgrims has been postponed for one year, it is thought advisable by the Massachusetts Society and by your National Society to postpone the meeting in Massachusetts for a year. Are there any invitations to come before the Congress at this time from any of the State Societies? These invitations will be received and referred to the Executive Committee. The announcement is made so that, in case State Societies would like to entertain the National Society, they may present their invitations by mail or on the floor of the Congress, which will be referred to the Executive Committee.

There seems to be no other item of business at this time, so we will proceed to the election of officers. The chair will be pleased to receive nominations for President General. I recognize on the floor of the convention Senator Henry W. Austin, of Illinois. I am very glad to present him to the Congress. (Applause.)

Compatriot AUSTIN: Gentlemen, three years ago at this time a body of compatriots went from Illinois to New Jersey and had the audacity to put in nomination a candidate for the office of President General. I say audacity, because Illinois has never boasted of more than one Revolutionary patriot, and even George Rogers Clark was born in Virginia. Yet such was our prestige, even at the time of the unpleasantness of 1776, that Mr. Clark wanted to join the Society and, not being able to find the Illinois trenches in any sector of the battle front, he went to the headquarters of the Continental Army and stated his case with such good effect that it resulted in his taking the war out to Illinois, and in that way he accomplished just the same result and became the Revolutionary hero, not only of Illinois, but of the whole Mississippi Valley. But the trouble was that he was the only one we had, and when we went to New Jersey, where the Revolutionary heroes are as numerous almost as the leaves on the trees, it really awed me. We were on territory there made sacred by the blood of the soldiers who suffered at Valley Forge. They took us from the Convention Hall to the identical spot where Washington crossed the Delaware. We saw buildings and places made historical by the presence of Washington and Lafayette. It was then that we really knew what it meant to be Sons of the Revolution. We had a great time. We will remember that all our lives; but after we came to think the matter over, though it overawed us to a certain extent, when we came to realize that the blood of the same Revolutionary ancestors flowed in our veins as was to be found in the veins of the men who lived in that Revolutionary territory, we thought the exigencies of the situation demanded that we put up a candidate. By that I mean that we had a candidate so good that we thought the Society absolutely needed his leadership. It was certainly interesting to us to see how amused some of those Eastern delegates were at the faith we had in Chicago and in our Chicago candidate; but we really told everything there was to tell about him; there was nothing to conceal. We told them, in the first place, that he was a man among men. We told them he was popular, as was evidenced by the fact that a certain election where he was the only candidate, there was a large vote as a personal tribute to him, and for no other cause. We said he was generous, and it is evidenced by the fact that when he was on a certain committee to build a building and the money ran out, he finished it with his own money. We told them he was an educated man, and also said that he was a man who had plenty of time, that he was a man who had retired from active business and was a man of leisure, a man who gave more time to public than to his own affairs. But that was three years ago. Since then we have had a great war, and I think it is proper today for me to say a few things about the war service of our candidate. In the first place, his office and mine are in the same block and not far apart, and I have had occasion to see him from time to time; but for a year at least previous to the signing of the armistice, if I ever got to that office after a quarter past nine in the morning, the invariable reply was, "He is on the Exemption Board." If you know what Exemption Board service means, the Exemption Board for drafted men, that is quite a service; in fact, our Brother McClary was the Exemption Board President for a while. I know something about that. That was merely one thing our candidate was engaged in; he was the chairman of the War Council in Evanston; he was U. S. Government lecturer at the U. S. Training Station; then he was precinct captain in five separate Liberty Loans, and he was the chairman of the Sons of the American Revolution in Illinois for our war activities. But while on the subject of committees, just let me call your attention to this: For some years he has been chairman of our Committee on Americanization and Aliens, and incidentally member of the national committee that does the identical work, which meets in New York. Each of those committees has been mutually beneficial to the other committees. Before we leave the subject of the war, let me mention one other thing: This man has an only son. A year ago that son was a lieutenant in the war in France, and that man is thanking Providence yet for having saved his son for him, at the battle of Château-Thierry.

Now, friends, I mentioned that we had a candidate before the convention three years ago. You all know he was not elected, but I did not say that he was defeated. Defeat is a word which some men never quite understand, particularly if they happen to have a surname beginning with the letter J. Now, I do not refer to the kind of experience that our old, perpetual, quadrennial presidental candidate, William Jennings, has from year to year—I do not mean that kind of a jay. (Laughter and applause.) He is defeated and he ought to know it; the J comes in the wrong place in his name (laughter); but let me call your attention to two cases in American history which I think are applicable in our case today.

Now, I am an enthusiastic and loyal Republican and always have been. Yet whenever the Democrats have anything on us I am willing to give them the benefit. Now, if you will take the period of American history between our two great Presidents, Washington and Lincoln, the period from 1797 to 1861, who are the two great Presidents that stand out. Take, first of all, Old Hickory; he had his faults and lots of them; he had a tempestuous career; he had probably more enemies than any one man in the country, but of course, also, more friends, and when he was in the White House everybody knew that we had one live President. That was his character. Now, if we turn back the pages of history for a quarter of a century, to the time of Jeffersonian simplicity, we have another great President, a President who was the most far-seeing statesman of the first half of the century. We hear a great deal these days about the Monroe Doctrine. But history will bear me out when I say that it was really Jefferson's Doctrine. Before Monroe put forth that doctrine he communicated with the Sage of Monticello and got the necessary data.

Why do I mention those two men, Jackson and Jefferson? What have they to do with the case I will tell you: I did not know until I looked it up, but one of these men when he first sought the office of President did not receive it. Was not this a blessing in disguise? It put him before the people; they knew he was a presidential possibility, a candidate for the Presidency for four years; they scrutinized him, looked at his character, saw his qualifications, and when the right time came, four years later, they said to him, "Well done, good and faithful servant, take the Presidental chair." And later on, four years after that, they were so well pleased with his service that they gave another term to each man, Jefferson and Jackson. Now what does this mean? Do you call such men as that defeated before the people of this country? No. Was it not rather an introduction to the public? Now, my friends, the situation with us is a parallel one today. We have a candidate who has all the necessary qualities. As I say, he is popular; he is generous; he is enthusiastic; he has the time to give us. We know by our experience in the Illinois Society that he does things well, when he does them, and anything he undertakes is well done. He has given a large portion of his time to the public service.

Now, just incidentally, I might mention that last week he gave me a bill to introduce in the State Senate. He is a member of the school board; he saw a necessary improvement in the school law, and that bill, I hope, will be a law before very long. It is well on its way. That is just incidental. But, friends, can we afford not to give the ability and the energy of such a man as this a larger scope than can be found in the offices of any State Society or in the offices of the National Society less than that of President General?

A few years ago a man was elected a justice of the peace in South Carolina. He hunted up the town clerk and said he wanted to be sworn in. After the necessary amount of profanity or otherwise, the clerk said to him, "Well, it's all right," and he turned around to the clerk and said, "Well, Mr. Clerk, am I now to understand that I am entirely empowered and qualified?" The clerk happened to be of a different political party, and did not like this fellow very well, and he said to him, "You are empowered all right enough, but all the saints couldn't qualify you."

Now, my friends, we are in a diametrically opposite position today with our candidate. We have a candidate who is amply qualified, who is qualified in every respect, and we leave to all the saints here present to empower him. (Laughter and applause.) I use that word with discretion, because we have confidence in this jury. You have our case. It is with great pleasure that I put into nomination for the office of President General Chancellor L. Jenks, of Illinois. (The audience rose and applauded.)

Dr. George C. F. Williams (Conn.): Mr. President General and Compatriots, in accordance with the unanimous wish of the men of Connecticut who are here, a wish with which I am in full sympathy and hearty accord, I rise to second the nomination, and it is with special pleasure that I second the nomination of a compatriot so worthy and so well qualified, so fitted by natural endowment and by experience to carry on with deep sincerity and high purpose the noble work contemplated by the founders of this Organization. It is, sir, therefore, with profound satisfaction that I second the nomination to this office of great opportunity for genuine service, the Presidency General of the National Society, of our compatriot, Chancellor L. Jenks. (Applause.) I do this in behalf of the Connecticut Society.

Compatriot GEORGE H. BARBOUR, of the Michigan Society: I am very proud to follow a gentleman from Connecticut, because that is my native State; I lived there some 48 years ago. I hold in my hand copies of resolutions that were adopted by the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution endorsing Mr. Chancellor L. Jenks, and in behalf of Michigan I wish to second the nomination of Mr. Jenks. (Applause.)

Judge REMINGTON (N. Y.): I do not rise to represent the signers exactly, but on behalf of the Empire State Society I desire to second the nomination of Mr. Jenks for the office of President General. We have seen his work at the various sessions of this Congress and the sessions of preceding Congresses, and we feel that he is a man who will add luster to the roll of distinguished Presidents General of this Organization. It is therefore on behalf of the delegation from the Empire State that I second his nomination.

Compatriot GUTHRIE (Pa.): If it is in order at this time, I, on behalf of Pennsylvania, would offer a motion that the nominations close.

(Motion seconded.)

Compatriot CURTIS: I would supplement that by asking that the Secretary be empowered to cast one ballot for Chancellor L. Jenks.

Compatriot GUTHRIE: I accept the amendment.

The CHAIR: The motion is that the nominations close and that the Secretary General be instructed to cast one ballot, as the expression of the Congress, for Chancellor L. Jenks, of Illinois, for President General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, he being the only nominee before the Congress.

(The motion was unanimously adopted.)

The CHAIR: It is unanimous and the Secretary will carry out the instructions of the Congress.

The SECRETARY GENERAL: Mr. President General, in accordance with the unanimous wish of the Society, the Secretary General has the distinguished honor to cast the ballot of the entire Society for Chancellor L. Jenks, of Illinois, as President General.

The CHAIR: The chair declares that Chancellor L. Jenks, of Illinois, is unanimously elected President General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for the coming year. (The members rose and applauded.) I appoint as a committee to escort our dear friend, the newly elected President General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, to a seat upon the platform Past Presidents General Wentworth, Thruston, McClary, and Woodworth. I think they can bring him in.

(The members rose and applauded Compatriot Jenks as he entered the hall.)

The CHAIR: Compatriot Jenks, it is my good fortune, my honor, and my privilege to welcome you to this platform as the newly elected President General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. (Applause.)

Compatriot JENKS: Mr. President General and Compatriots of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, I hope you don't expect a speech; I had a perfectly good one, but it is gone. I am trying to show my appreciation of this honor by not making a speech. I have got the notes in my pocket (laughter), but I know that I can't read them, and all that I can do is to tell you that I cannot give utterance to my sense of the greatness of this honor; and yet I know, compatriots, that it is a compliment, not so much for me personally as for the great Society to which I belong, and on behalf of the Illinois Society I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart. I recognize in this election, so unanimous, so spontaneous, a call to the very best that there is in me, and the best in me will respond to that call. I am driven in self-defense to turn to the splendid principles and ideals of our Society to guide me in the responsibilities which will rest upon me. The decorations of the Society, which it will be my proud privilege to wear, will arouse in me the most earnest desire to absorb more and more the inspirations which form the basis of our loved Organization. I have seen, we have all seen, the strengthening, inspiring, quickening power of our ideals, and if I can absorb those ideals I can perform the duties of this office in a way to reflect the united sentiment which has placed me in this position. The call to the colors put every one of us in active service, but the declaration of peace has not ended our labors, nor has it removed from us the responsibilities which rest upon us.

It is not difficult, under the quickening impulse of a war in progress, to be alert, but, compatriots, in the relaxed hour of triumph and victory the enemies of our Nation lurk unnoticed. We have as much to meet now as we had at the beginning of this war, and the responsibility lies more upon us who appreciate the value of the American ideal and who proclaim it than upon others upon whom it has not made the same impression. The Sons of the American Revolution should lead, not follow, those who search out, denounce, and destroy the hidden dangers that menace our blood-bought peace. I feel a sense of great indebtedness to those who have preceded me in this office, especially to those with whom I have enjoyed a warm and loving friendship. They have set a pretty rapid pace for me. But they have not only done that, they have illumined the way. It will be my great desire to continue to reflect the impulses which have controlled the splendid patriots whom this Society has honored. This unanimous action of yours today throws upon me the responsibility, which I gladly assume, of reflecting in my administration the oneness of the patriotic thought of this Society. Thank you. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: I trust it will not be misunderstood, but it is out of the kindness of my heart and consideration for you that I am going to ask that the nominating speeches from now on be limited to three minutes and the seconding speech to one minute. Nominations are now in order for Vice-Presidents General. I recognize Compatriot Curtis.

Compatriot CURTIS: Mr. President General, in making this presentation I recognize that the chief quality must be brevity; the President General almost took the words out of my mouth. The second qualification must be practicability. I have been working with the Vice-Presidents as chairman of the Committee on Increased Membership for the past year. I know well the difficulties and I know also that we must have Vice-Presidents that can be worked with. We want men who will take hold of the problems of their different States over which they are elected, men who will work with the administration, men who will work with the presidents of their various Societies and adequately represent the National Society in their districts. As the author of the amendment creating the new order of vice-presidents, I am particularly anxious to get a good man in New England. The Massachusetts Society had that honor last year and did splendid work; in fact, I might say (if Mr. Read will close his ears for a minute) that he gave me as much aid as any vice-president we had. Now, in looking for another man, as Mr. Read feels that he has done his share, I offer you as my personal candidate Mr. George F. Burgess, President of the Connecticut Society, as Vice-President General for the New England District. (Applause.)

Compatriot MERRICK: In behalf of the Maine delegates, I am very glad to second the nomination of Compatriot Burgess as one who will render the best possible assistance for the District of New England.

Compatriot PUNDERSON: On behalf of the Massachusetts Society, it gives me great pleasure to second the nomination of Mr. Burgess. He is known and loved by us all.

Compatriot VAIL (N. J.): I will make my remark about as brief as possible. I rise to nominate for Vice-President General of the Middle District one who is known to most of you, one who has attended the Congresses faithfully and been a hard worker for the Society in national work as well as State work, one who has shown by his ability, his promptness, and attention to work that he is well fitted for any office he may be elected to. I therefore have the honor of nominating for Vice-President General of the Middle and Coast District Thomas W. Williams, of New Jersey. (Applause.)

Compatriot REIFSNIDER: It is with pleasure that the Maryland Society seconds the nomination of Compatriot Williams for Vice-President of the Middle and Coast District.

Compatriot GUTHRIE (Pa.): It is with great pleasure that Pennsylvania seconds the nomination of Compatriot Williams, of New Jersey.

Past President General WOODWORTH (N. Y.): In behalf of the Empire State Society, I wish to second the nomination of Mr. Williams for the office of Vice-President General.

Compatriot SHERMAN (Ohio): I rise to nominate a candidate from Ohio. For many years he has served the Anthony Wayne Chapter of Toledo. For many, many years he has served the State Society, and for many, many years he has served on the committees of the National Society. He is Past President of the Anthony Wayne Chapter, Past President of the Ohio Society, and past master of the committee work of the National Society. I wish to present the name of Moulton Houk, of Ohio, as Vice-President General for the Mississippi Valley (East) District. (Applause.)

A MEMBER: For the Illinois Society I take pleasure in seconding the nomination of our faithful and loyal compatriot, Colonel Houk.

Compatriot TAYLOR (Mich.): I take pleasure in seconding the nomination of the candidate already named. I think he should be rewarded for his great ability and his long and faithful service.

The CHAIR: Are there any other nominations? There are five Vice-Presidents General to be elected; only three have been nominated. There are Vice-Presidents General to be elected to succeed Frank W. Rawles, of the Mississippi Valley (West) District, and Thomas A. Perkins, of the Mountain and Pacific Coast District. The chair will entertain nominations for these two Vice-President Generalships.

Compatriots STEELE: I represent New York and wish to nominate and do nominate Mr. Paine for the Mississippi Valley (West) District.

(The nomination was seconded by compatriots representing New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Louisiana.)

Compatriot WOODWORTH (N. Y.): Many of us who were out to the Pacific Coast in 1915 met a gentleman, a member of the judiciary of the State of Washington, and were charmed with his personality and his intelligence. He qualified when he first took the office. I think he was interested in our Society and our work, and all of us were impressed, I think, with his interest. It is with great pleasure, in the absence of a representative of the State of Washington, that I place in nomination as Vice-President for the Mountain and Pacific District Judge Overton Ellis, of Olympia, Wash.

Compatriot CURTIS: I move that the nominations be now closed and the Secretary be instructed to cast one ballot for these five Vice-Presidents.

(The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted.)

The SECRETARY GENERAL: In accordance with the order of the convention, I deposit the ballot for Compatriot George F. Burgess for the first district, Compatriot Thomas W. Williams, of New Jersey, for the second district, Compatriot Moulton Houk, of Ohio, for the third district, Compatriot Linn Paine, of Missouri, for the fourth district, and Compatriot Overton Ellis, of the State of Washington, for the fifth district.

(The Chair declared the above candidates duly elected.)

The CHAIR: I ask the Vice-Presidents General newly elected who are present, Compatriot Burgess, of Connecticut; Compatriot Williams, of New Jersey; Compatriot Paine, of Missouri, and Compatriot Houk, of Ohio, to kindly rise and receive the congratulations of the National Society upon your consent to serve us.

(The gentlemen called on did as requested and were greeted with applause.)

The CHAIR: I am afraid as we all rose up we thought we were vice-presidents. (Laughter.) The Chair will now entertain nominations for the office of Secretary General, and recognizes Past President General Elmer Marston Wentworth, of the United States. (Laughter and applause.)

Compatriot WENTWORTH: Mr. President General and Compatriots, those of you who have been regular attendants at the National Congresses of the Sons of the American Revolution are gathered with heavy hearts today. You miss sitting on the platform, at the right of the President General, the beloved compatriot who for so many years had guided with tender, skilful, statesmanlike spirit the destinies of this great Society, and I know that the thought that is uppermost in your hearts today was expressed by the poet,

"Oh, for a touch of the vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still."

It is a peculiar situation and a difficult one that we must confront in the Sons of the American Revolution to find a man to succeed A. Howard Clark as Secretary General and Registrar General. The members of this Congress, long acquainted with the work that has been done, had a just right to feel that it was a time when we should do everything that could be done to make that name as splendid as we could, and your memorials have testified in that respect that we are facing the future. Five States had men who were competent and qualified, as did every State in our great Society, to carry on the work; but, at this particular time and in respect to the man who is gone, it seemed best that we should unite upon one man, and those who were candidates for this office from the various States have most kindly withdrawn their candidacy as a tribute of respect to the man whose office we are about to fill and his successor. I take pleasure in presenting the name of Philip F. Larner, Past President of the District of Columbia Society, the friend and comrade of our retired, our lost Secretary General and Registrar General, as his successor. (Applause.)

Admiral BAIRD, of the District of Columbia Society: I beg to second that nomination. The District of Columbia has a number of qualified men; it is the capital of the Nation and has the largest library in the country, but, better still, it has the library of the D. A. R., who have a splendid genealogical library and a card index there better than anything I have ever seen, and a lot of charming little women who hand out exactly what you want, almost instantaneously. Therefore I think the District of Columbia is the proper place for the Secretary General. I would not say that Mr. Larner is as qualified as many of our delegates are for the office, but he has the faculty of smoothing people the right way; he never forgets anything; he is always with us; he has been in the business for many years and has a large office, with stenographers and typewriters and all that kind of thing; but to say anything about him personally I think would be like trying to paint the lily.

The SECRETARY GENERAL: Mr. President General and gentlemen of the Convention, when the President General selected me as acting Secretary General and the Executive Committee confirmed that nomination by electing me, under Paragraph 5 of the Constitution, on the 31st of last January, at a meeting in Newark, it was with a great deal of diffidence that I accepted the nomination, and I have endeavored during the five months that have elapsed, as I told you yesterday, to conduct the office in a way that would suit you and win the approbation of the President of the Society and the members of the Executive Committee. Today, with the nomination of my friend, my brother, my companion, and my Sir Knight, my Past President, Philip F. Larner, it gives the Society a name to conjure with, and I want to say to you that I take the greatest pleasure in seconding the nomination of Brother Larner. (Applause.)

Compatriot G. BARRETT RICH (N. Y.): On behalf of the Empire State Society, it affords me great pleasure to second the nomination of Mr. Larner. I believe that in the selection of Mr. Larner the Society honors itself. We are very fortunate in the selection of Mr. Larner for Registrar General.

Compatriot ROBERTSON (Md.): I rise on behalf of the State of Maryland to second the nomination of our brother from the District of Columbia Society. I myself, was a candidate for this office. Readily realizing that I could not fill it with the capacity it had been filled heretofore, I very gladly withdrew from the contest, and it is a great honor to second the nomination of Mr. Larner.

Compatriot VAIL (N. J.): On behalf of the New Jersey Society, I desire to say that we were one of the States that had a candidate for Secretary General. We withdrew our candidate in favor of Mr. Larner, and I am very much pleased, in behalf of New Jersey, to second the nomination of Mr. Larner for Secretary General and Registrar General.

Compatriot WENTWORTH: I move that the nominations be closed and the Secretary General instructed to cast one ballot for the nominee, Compatriot Philip F. Larner, of the District of Columbia Society, for both offices, Secretary General and Registrar General.

(Motion seconded and adopted.)

The SECRETARY GENERAL: Past President Philip F. Larner, of the District of Columbia Society, having received the unanimous vote of this Congress, I therefore deposit the ballot for him as Secretary General and Registrar General for the ensuing year.

The CHAIR: You have heard the vote of your Secretary General and the chair declares Compatriot Philip F. Larner, of the District of Columbia Society, elected unanimously Secretary General and Registrar General of the National Society, and I will ask Admiral Baird to escort our newly elected Secretary General and Registrar General to the platform. (Applause.)

Compatriot LARNER: Mr. President General and Compatriots, I must confess that I am appearing here somewhat under embarrassment. When I came to Detroit a few days ago, it was with the idea that I was going to have a good time, free from any trouble or difficulty, such as I have always had at the gatherings of this splendid Society every year. I certainly had no idea of hunting for an office, and it was a far remote thought that an office would hunt for me. Now, I am certainly deeply gratified at the splendid action here this morning and at your unanimity. I hope I shall be able to comply with your requirements to the full, but I doubt very much if I can come up to that high standard which many years of efficient service by my dear old friend, Howard Clark, has fixed. I shall try to follow as near as possible his paths. I have been a friend of Mr. Clark and his wife for thirty years or more, and I hope to have some little advice and a guiding hand from her. I think that what there is of the affairs of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution that she does not know is hardly worth knowing by anybody. That has been my observation, and I assure you, most heartily, that whatever I may do, although there may be errors, it will be the very best that I can give you. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: The chair will receive nominations for Treasurer General.

Compatriot WILLIAMS (N. J.): New Jersey has a very warm spot in her heart for the man who has made good in every office that he has filled, a man who has faithfully served this organization, a man of finance, a man that we all love. It gives New Jersey great pleasure to place in nomination for the office of Treasurer General John Burroughs, President of the New York Chapter. (Applause.)

Compatriot GUTHRIE: I move that the nominations close, and that the Secretary be instructed to cast the unanimous vote for Compatriot Burroughs. I don't think that nomination was seconded and I would like to go on record as seconding it.

The CHAIR: The nomination of Mr. Burroughs was seconded by Connecticut. The motion before the house is, that the Secretary be instructed to cast one ballot as the expression of this Congress for John H. Burroughs for Treasurer General for his eleventh election.

(The motion was unanimously adopted.)

Secretary General PARKS: May I delay the Society one minute, to say that I appreciate this, because I have done business with that man for the past five months, and he answers his letters the day he gets them. (Laughter.)

(The Secretary General then cast the ballot as directed.)

The CHAIR: I am very happy to declare the election of my dear friend and predecessor as President of the Empire State Society, John H. Burroughs. He is known to all of you, and all you have got to do is to rise and make his nomination unanimous. Kindly rise. (The audience rose and applauded.) Mr. Burroughs knows what is in our hearts for him; he has been with us ten years in that one office, and I trust that for ten years more he will consent to serve us. (Applause.)

Treasurer General BURROUGHS: Mr. President General, this renewed honor granted me by the compatriots of the National Society is highly appreciated by me. At the time of the Congress held in Baltimore, I was honored by your confidence in placing me in the position of Treasurer General of the National Society, and as the years have gone by, you have increased that honor year after year, and, if I remember correctly, this is the eleventh year I have been honored. I appreciate your confidence. I feel that the duty is an important one, and you will understand that in opposing resolutions calling for expenditure I am doing it for your sake and not my own. I want to thank you again for my election this the eleventh time. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: The chair will entertain nominations for Historian General.

Compatriot PUNDERSON: I nominate Compatriot George C. Arnold.

Compatriot SMITH (Utah): On behalf of the entire delegation from Utah, I take pleasure in seconding the nomination of Mr. Arnold. (Applause.)

A MEMBER: As an individual numbering as many as the whole delegation from Utah, coming from the Southland, south of Mason and Dixon's line, I want to second the nomination of my friend, Lieut. George C. Arnold, of Rhode Island, for Historian General.

Compatriot WESTON: I would like to second his nomination in behalf of the Louisiana Society, and I would also like, during the coming year, for him to look into the history of the Southern colonies during the Revolutionary time. Our Massachusetts friends, sometimes, like to take the lion's share of patriotism, and I think it is well to look into that country a little, too, and I second the nomination.

A MEMBER: For the Connecticut Society, I second the nomination.

A MEMBER: The State of Maryland wishes to second the nomination of Lieutenant Arnold, and moves that the nominations be closed, and that the Secretary be instructed to cast the ballot for Compatriot George C. Arnold for Historian General.

(The motion was adopted and the ballot cast accordingly.)

Historian General ARNOLD: I thank you from the bottom of my heart for the confidence you have reposed in me, for this the second term of my election; it will be my endeavor as Historian General to so officiate that I will recall the Revolutionary doings and be an honor, not only to myself, but to my State and the United States of America. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: The chair will receive nominations for Chaplain General.

Compatriot PUNDERSON: On behalf of the Massachusetts delegation, I have the honor to place in nomination as Chaplain General of the National Society Dr. Lee S. McCollester, who has so ably performed the duties of the office during the past year.

A MEMBER: On behalf of the Michigan Society, I second the nomination.

(It was moved and carried that the nominations be closed, and the Secretary be instructed to cast the ballot of the Congress for Dr. Lee S. McCollester for Chaplain General. The ballot was cast accordingly and the result duly announced.)

The CHAIR: I will ask Vice-President General Albert M. Henry to kindly come forward and preside over the Congress at this time. (Applause.)

(Vice-President General Henry takes the chair.)

President General AMES: Compatriots, I would be unfair to this Congress, I would be unjust to myself, if I let this opportunity go by without expressing, out of the depths of my heart, gratitude; without expressing on your behalf thankfulness for the great service that has been rendered to your President General and to the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution by the two gentlemen who kindly consented, when asked, to serve in the respective offices of Secretary General and Registrar General. The President of the District of Columbia Society, William S. Parks, has rendered a great service to this organization in the past four and one-half months. Without receiving any salary, he devoted his time to the great work of that office; and the Registrar of the New York Society, Teunis D. Huntting, served in a similar manner as a Registrar General; therefore I move the thanks of the Congress to the retiring Secretary General, William S. Parks, and the retiring Registrar General, T. D. Huntting.

(The motion was seconded and adopted by a rising vote.)

Secretary General PARKS: Compatriots, this is worth all the work that I have done for you, and I am just as ready now to do as much more as I can. Thank you. (Applause.)

Compatriot WENTWORTH: Before Compatriot Henry sits down, I want you all to look at him. I have been trustee from the State of Iowa in this Congress for twelve years; I think I am finishing up ten years as a member of the Executive Committee. I have served with a great many men; I have known something about what has been done in this Congress, and in the past congresses, on the Boards of Trustees and Executive Committee, and Albert M. Henry has had no superior in loyalty, executive work, splendid comradeship, and humanity, among all of my acquaintance with the comrades of this Society. When we are here in Detroit, his home town, where he is not without honor, we desire to do him this additional honor. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: Compatriots, I thank you.

(President General Ames takes the chair.)

The CHAIR: Before turning over the office of President General to the newly elected President General, I desire that the Vice-Presidents General should have an opportunity to preside over this Congress, and it was a closing benediction to have our beloved Vice-President General Henry to close the last work of the Congress. Before turning over the office, however, I would ask those among the compatriots present who were here in Detroit twenty years ago to kindly rise.

(Several members rose.)

Compatriot CLARKE (Va.): As everybody knows, or ought to know, the first settlement was made on this continent at Jmaestown in 1619. The Governor called the General Assembly, and this first General Assembly met on the American continent in the choir of the church at Jamestown in 1619. I just want to announce that that event will be celebrated this summer in Virginia. The Legislature of the State has appointed a committee, and our Society has appointed a committee to join in the celebration of the event. Just what the dates will be I do not think is yet settled, but I simply announce the fact of the three hundredth anniversary of the first General Assembly of Virginia, which will be celebrated this summer, and I would like you all to come down. (Applause.)

The CHAIR: The next business in order is the election of the Trustees. They are nominated by the State Societies, and in the absence of any nomination by a State Society the President of the State Society becomes ex officio member of the Board. I will ask the Secretary General to read the list of Trustees nominated by the State Societies and the names of the State Presidents where no nominations have been made.

(The Secretary General read the names.)

(It was moved and carried that the rules be suspended, and that the Secretary General be instructed to cast one ballot for the election of the nominees named as Trustees. The ballot was cast accordingly.)

The CHAIR: The Trustees named are elected. It becomes my pleasant duty, as the retiring Past President of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, first, to express to you my deepest thanks for all the kindnesses you have shown me while being the incumbent of this office. Particularly would I thank you for the courtesy you have shown me during the time I have presided over this Congress. You have made it a pleasure to preside, yesterday and today, and in turning over the emblems of this office I first present your newly elected President General with the symbol of authority, the gavel of this Organization (applause); and then it becomes my pleasant duty to bestow upon him this added emblem of authority, the gold pendant of the President General of the Sons of the American Revolution. I turn over to you, sir, everything that I have received as President General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, with three exceptions: the esteem, the love, and the kindnesses that have come to me at your hands. No power on earth would ever permit me to pass them to any one else. (The audience rose and gave three cheers for Past President General Ames, while President General Jenks took the chair.)

President General JENKS: Past President General Ames, it is a great honor to step into the place which you have filled so splendidly. I receive this honored insignia with great humbleness, and I want to assure you of my earnest desire to wear it worthily. I am advised that my only function at this Congress, as presiding officer, is to administer the last sad rites. If there is no more business to come before the Congress, a motion to adjourn without day is in order.

Before adjournment, telegrams expressing appreciation for the greetings sent by the Congress, and extending good wishes to all members, were received from Past Presidents General W. A. Marble, of New York; Francis Henry Appleton, of Peabody, Mass.; Morris B. Beardsley, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Franklin Murphy, of Newark, N. J.; Edwin Warfield, of Baltimore, Md., and Cornelius A. Pugsley, of Peekskill, N. Y.

(A rising vote of thanks was given by the Congress to Past President General Ames.)

On motion, the Congress then adjourned sine die.

PHILIP F. LARNER,
Secretary General.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS.

Social functions in connection with the Congress included a luncheon at the Hotel Statler on Monday, May 19, given to the delegates and the ladies by Louisa St. Clair Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution; a reception on Monday evening at the residence of Major and Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, at Grosse Pointe; automobile rides and visits to industrial plants and other places of interest Tuesday afternoon, and a banquet on Tuesday evening at the Hotel Statler, in honor of the delegates to the Congress and the ladies acompanying them, when addresses were made by the President General, the President General-elect, and other distinguished guests, including Rear Admiral Frederick B. Bassett, U. S. N., Commandant Great Lakes Training station; Major-General William G. Haan, U. S. A., Commanding General, 32d Division, A. E. F.; Past Presidents General Nelson A. McClary, R. C. Ballard Thruston, Newell B. Woodworth, and Elmer M. Wentworth.

Religious and patriotic services were held in the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, May 18. The delegates of the Congress, accompanied by ladies, marched to the church from the Hotel Statler, escorted by the reception committee of the Detroit Chapter and a band of music. The sermon was preached by Rev. Lee S. McCollester, D. D., Dean of Tufts College, Massachusetts, and Chaplain General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

MEETINGS OF TRUSTEES AND EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

MINUTES OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING JANUARY 31, 1919.

A meeting of the Executive Committee duly called by the President General was held at the rooms of the New Jersey Society in Newark, New Jersey, at 3 o'clock p. m. on January 31, 1919.

The following members of the Committee were present: The President General, Mr. Ames, of New York; Mr. Wentworth, of Iowa; Mr. Curtis, of Connecticut; Mr. Merrill, of New Jersey, and Judge Reifsnider, of Maryland. The President of the New Jersey Society, Mr. Carl M. Vail, and Vice-President General, T. W. Williams, of New Jersey, also were in attendance. Mr. William S. Parks, of the District of Columbia Society, acted as Secretary.

The minutes of the meeting of the Executive Committee on December 12-13, 1918, and published in the Official Bulletin for December, were approved as printed.

The President General announced formally the death of Secretary General and Registrar General A. Howard Clark on December 31, 1918, at his home in Washington after a brief illness. Past President General Wentworth and Judge Reifsnider of the Executive Committee presented a memorial on the death of Compatriot Clark, which after brief eulogies of his life and work, were adopted, ordered to be printed and a copy sent to the family of our late Secretary General.

The President General reported the appointment ad interim of William S. Parks, President of the District of Columbia Society, as Secretary General. His action was approved by the Committee, and on motion duly adopted President Vail of the New Jersey Society was directed to cast the unanimous vote of the Committee for Compatriot William S. Parks as Secretary General to fill the unexpired term of the late A. Howard Clark. Compatriot Teunis D. Huntting, of New York, Registrar of the Empire State Society, was duly elected Registrar General, for the unexpired term.

It was ordered that notices of these elections be sent to the several State Societies in due course.

A resolution relative to freeing Armenia from Turkish rule was presented and after some discussion amended as to detail, adopted and copies ordered to be sent to the President of the United States, the Congress and officers of the National and State Societies.

Judge J. M. Reifsnider, David L. Pierson and the Secretary General were appointed as a Special Committee to exploit the American's Creed.

Various matters of a routine character were presented and necessary action taken thereon.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the New Jersey Society for the use of their rooms, and at 4.50 o'clock p. m. the Committee adjourned.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS INCIDENT TO THE MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

An informal luncheon given by the President General at one o'clock p. m. at the Hotel Robert Treat and the reception and dinner of the New Jersey Society in the evening in honor of the President General and Mrs. Ames were the social features incident to the meeting of the Executive Committee.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, NATIONAL SOCIETY, SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, HELD MAY 17, 1919, AT TOLEDO, OHIO.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, duly called by the President General, was held at the Toledo Club, Toledo, Ohio, at 11.00 a. m., May 17, 1919.

In addition to President General Ames, those present were Past President General Wentworth, of Iowa; Mr. Jenks, of Illinois; Mr. Curtis, of Connecticut; Mr. Pomeroy, of Ohio; Judge Reifsnider, of Maryland, and Secretary General Parks, Mr. Merrill, of New Jersey, being detained at home by important business.

The minutes of the last meeting of the Executive Committee, held January 31, at Newark, N. J., were not read, but approved as printed in the March BULLETIN.

The committee rcecommended the adoption of the proposed amendment to the Constitution offered by the Massachusetts Society relative to Junior membership. The other amendment, making the members of the Executive Committee members of the Congress and giving them the title of Directors General, was referred to the Trustees of the National Society, S. A. R.

The Executive Committee recommended to the Trustees the adoption of the proposed amendment to article 15, section 1, of the By-Laws, which was submitted in writing by Compatriot John Lenord Merrill:

"Amend article 15, section 1, first paragraph, by striking out the words following after 'at the collar' and inserting in lieu thereof: 'if an active or past Officer General of the National Society or President, active or past, of a State Society,' and add to section 1, paragraph two: 'Past Presidents General and Vice-Presidents General in full dress shall wear a sash of Society colors, three and one-half inches wide, extending from the right shoulder to the left hip.'"

President General Ames reported as to the observance of Constitution Day, September 17, 1918; also upon the proposed joint celebration in September next in conjunction with other patriotic societies.

On motion of Compatriot Chancellor L. Jenks, the following resolution was adopted:

"That Louis Annin Ames be appointed as special representative of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, to serve in conjunction with representatives of other patriotic societies in outlining a joint celebration, September 17 next, under the auspices of the National Security League and other associated organizations."

A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Compatriot Pomeroy, of Toledo, for his hospitality in entertaining the members of the Executive Committee at the Toledo Club during their sojourn at Toledo.

The committee then adjourned.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS INCIDENT TO THE MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A luncheon was given to the Executive Committee by Mr. Pomeroy at the Toledo Club, followed in the evening by a banquet, covers being laid for fourteen.

Mr. Pomeroy entertained all of the Executive Committee as his guests at the Toledo Club, and on Sunday morning the trip from Toledo to Detroit was made in motor cars.

MINUTES OF THE MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES MAY 20, 1919.

A meeting of the Board of Trustees was held at the Hotel Statler, Detroit, Mich., on call of the President General, immediately after the adjournment of Congress, at 12:30 p. m., May 20, 1919.

Present: President General Jenks; Mr. Wright, of Wisconsin; Mr. Houk, of Ohio; Mr. Smith, of Illinois; Mr. Guthrie, of Pennsylvania; Mr. Read, of Massachusetts; Mr. Kiggins, of New Jersey; Mr. F. M. Mills, of South Dakota; Mr. George C. F. Williams, of Connecticut; Mr. William K. Sanderson, of Maine; Mr. Albert Henry, of Michigan; Mr. Clarke, of Virginia; Mr. Elmer M. Wentworth, of Iowa.

The following nominations by the President General for members of the Executive Committee were approved:

President General, Chancellor L. Jenks, chairman; Mr. Louis A. Ames, of New York; Mr. Elmer M. Wentworth, of Iowa; Mr. Albert M. Henry, of Michigan; Mr. Louis B. Curtis, of Connecticut; Mr. George E. Pomeroy, of Ohio, and Mr. John M. Reifsnider, of Maryland.

On motion of Mr. Ames the recommendation of the Executive Committee for the amendment of article 15, section 1, of the By-Laws, relative to the wearing of the insignia of the Society, was approved.

On motion, the Executive Committee was authorized to transact all necessary business matters of the National Society in the interim between this date and the next meeting of the National Congress.

The meeting of the Trustees then adjourned.

PHILIP F. LARNER,
Secretary General.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MAY 21, 1919.

A meeting of the Executive Committee duly called by the President General was held at Detroit, Mich., May 21, 1919.

Present: President General Jenks, Mr. Wentworth, Mr. Reifsnider, Mr. Henry, Mr. Pomeroy, Mr. Curtis, and Mr. Ames.

On motion of Mr. Wentworth, which was adopted, appropriations were voted for carrying on the affairs of the Society during the year, including the payment of the usual salaries to the Secretary General and Registrar General, and such necessary office expenses, including clerical assistance, as during the past year. It was also voted to include in the motion authority for payment of the Secretary General's expenses at the annual meeting at Detroit and the traveling expenses of the Treasurer General; also for traveling expenses of the Secretary General in his attendance at the annual Congress and meetings of the Executive Committee and Trustees, and for traveling expenses of the Treasurer General in attendance at the annual Congress.

It was ordered that the National Year Book of 1919 be published in a limited edition, free distribution being made only to the General Officers, Executive Committee, Trustees, one copy to each Chapter, two copies to each State Society, one to each delegate at Detroit, and to the usual list of libraries. Such additional copies as may be available may be sold at cost price. Such amount as may be necessary was voted for printing and distributing the Year Book.

The President General was authorized, at any time when he shall so desire, to submit by mail or telegraph any matter requiring the action of the Executive Committee to the several members thereof, and that any vote so taken by mail or telegraph shall have the same force and effect as if the Executive Committee had been convened in special session and action taken at such specially called meeting.

Mr. Curtis moved the appointment of a committee to report at the next meeting of the Executive Committee on the question of canvassing for new members of the Society.

(Motion adopted.)

The President General appointed Messrs. Curtis, Ames, and Pomeroy as this committee, with instruction to report at the next meeting.

The matter of securing and equipping headquarters for the Secretary General and Registrar General at Washington, D. C., was, on motion, referred to the President General and to the Secretary General, with full power to act.

No further business appearing, the meeting adjourned.

PHILIP F. LARNER,
Secretary General.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, NATIONAL SOCIETY, SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, HELD OCTOBER 25, 1919, AT NEW YORK CITY.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Society was held at the Hardware Club, New York city, at 10 a. m., October 25, 1919.

President General Jenks presided, with the following members of the Committee in attendance: George E. Pomeroy, John Milton Reifsnider, Lewis B. Curtis, E. M. Wentworth, and Louis A. Ames. There were also in attendance Vice-Presidents General Thomas W. Williams, of New Jersey, and George F. Burgess, of Connecticut; also Past Presidents General C. A. Pugsley, M. B. Beardsley, and William A. Marble; also Treasurer General John H. Burroughs, President C. M. Vail, of New Jersey State Society; Dr. G. C. F. Williams, President of the Connecticut State Society; Mr. George D. Banks, Second Vice-President of the Empire State Society, and Secretary General Philip F. Larner.

The minutes of the meeting of the Executive Committee held May 21, 1919, at Detroit, Mich., were read and approved.

The Secretary General made to the committee a general report on the business and condition of the affairs of the Society, stating that the work of his office was in good shape and practically up to date in every respect. Various matters of detail were discussed by the members of the committee, among which was the very general increase in cost to the Society for printed matter, which would render it necessary to make new schedule of prices to the State Societies for various items of supplies furnished to them. The committee ordered that all such matters should be referred to the President and Secretary General with power to act. It being understood that especially in the matter of furnishing application blanks the State Societies should be charged therefor the exact cost to the National Society.

The Secretary General reported upon the removal of the official headquarters to a new location, and stated that while a second change had been made for a larger room in the same building, the office was still greatly crowded, and that it had become evident that additional space would very soon be needed for necessary file cases and other furniture required to accommodate the increasing records of the Society. The matter received the careful attention of the committee and it was unanimously decided to refer this entire matter for decision to the President and Secretary General with power to act, it being understood that the President General expected to visit Washington in a few days.

The attention of the committee was called to the fact that at the meeting of the Executive Committee held on December 12, 1918, it was voted that a committee should be appointed to secure bronze memorial medals or badges for members, sons of members, and families of deceased members who have served in the late World War, the State Society to pay the cost of the badges and the presentation to be made with some formality in the presence of a National Society Officer. Some confusion had arisen in several instances caused by the requirement that the medals must be presented "with some formality, in the presence of a National Society Officer," the presence of a National Society Officer not being convenient in many cases and the State Society not always being able to secure the presence of those entitled to receive the medals.

The matter was fully considered and discussed by the committee, and it was ordered that the previous action be modified, so that the medals could be conferred with such ceremony as may be most convenient in each instance, preference being given to presentation by a National Officer if available, or otherwise by a State officer.

The attention of the committee was called to the proposed amendment submitted by the Empire State Society and published in the October, 1919, BULLETIN. It was understood that the constitutional requirement that notice of amendments should be sent to the Presidents of the State Societies would be complied with if a marked copy of the page from the October BULLETIN should be forwarded to them.

The committee was also informed that an application had been made for one or more of the Grave Markers heretofore proposed by the National Society, and upon which subject Past President General Woodworth, as chairman of a Special Committee on the subject, had submitted a report at the Rochester Congress in 1918. No progress having been made in the manufacture of the markers, the Secretary General was requested to communicate with Chairman Woodworth, of the Committee on Markers, and ascertain from him the name of the manufacturer who had offered to make the markers, and hereafter to refer all applicants for such to the manufacturer direct, sending a proper authorization to the manufacturer, he to be informed that such markers could be made only on an order from the Secretary General.

The committee considered for action the question referred to it by the Detroit Congress, covering the permanent gift of the banners as presented by Past President General Ames to certain State Societies at the last Congress. A motion had been submitted that a banner be given by the National Society to each State increasing its membership 20 per cent during the year, such increase to be at least ten members, and the expense of such banner to be defrayed by the Treasurer of the National Organization. As this subject was referred to the Executive Committee with power to act, the matter was given very full and careful consideration. In view of the very great expense involved, it was unanimously decided to lay the subject on the table.

A letter was submitted from Compatriot T. D. Huntting, chairman of the Credentials Committee, requesting a definition of "members in good standing." Under the Constitution of the National Society, the committee decided that the question was fully covered by Article VI of the Constitution, to be found on page 34 of the 1918 Year Book.

Mr. Ames submitted a verbal report on the Observance of Constitution Day, September 17, 1919, as chairman of the committee having that matter in charge. It was shown that many thousands of meetings were held throughout the country in the observance of the day and under the influence of the National Society Committee. The report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Curtis, and at his invitation, it was decided that the usual meeting of the Executive Committee preceding the next Congress, to be convened at Hartford, Conn., should be held at his house, in Bridgeport, Conn., on the Saturday in May, 1920, before the meeting of the Congress, the committee then to motor to Hartford.

Mr. Ames submitted for the consideration of the committee a motion providing for the observance of what shall be known as Victory Day, as follows:

WHEREAS the winning of the World War was a triumph of right over might, liberty over bondage, justice over injustice, equality over partialism;

Resolved, That we ask the American people to observe November 11th as Victory Day, not merely a victory of one group of nations over another, but a triumph of those principles of liberty, justice, honor, and equality which are the foundation stones of this Republic.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

The matter of making a charge for the filing and registration of supplemental blanks sufficient to cover in a measure the expense of labor and all printing was considered by the committee, and on motion it was decided that a fee of $1 should be charged for filing and registering a supplemental blank at any time.

President General Jenks reported, as a matter of record, that an invitation from the Connecticut State Society to hold the next Congress in May, 1920, in the city of Hartford, was presented to him in June and submitted by wire vote to the individual members of the Executive Committee and unanimously accepted.

Treasurer General Burroughs submitted a statement of the financial affairs of the National Society under date of October 22, 1919, by which it was shown that the balance on hand May 22, 1919, was $8,781.83. Total receipts since that date, $1,019.84; total disbursements, $3,131.86; balance on hand October 22, 1919, $6,669.81. The report was accepted and adopted.

Mr. Curtis, from the Committee on Increase in Membership, submitted a verbal report, which was discussed at considerable length, and on motion the committee was discharged from further service.

It was voted that the Secretary General should send to Past President General Edwin S. Greeley, now ill at his home in New Haven, Conn., the greeting of the Executive Committee and a warm expression of its regard and well wishes for him and his immediate recovery to good health and strength, and at the same time advising him that five ex-Presidents General now present united in this greeting.

Mr. Pomeroy submitted and read a report covering the recommendations of the committee appointed for the establishment of a National Committee of Patriotic Societies and a National Patriotic Society week throughout the United States, the committee being composed of R. Morgan Galbreth, Walter K. Tuller, and Pierce W. Banning. Upon full consideration of the matter, the report was referred to President General Jenks and Mr. Pomeroy for further consideration and report.

In view of the presence in this country of King Albert of the Belgians and the high regard in which he is held by members of the Executive Committee and the Society in general, it was voted unanimously that the greetings of the committee and the Society should be sent to King Albert by the President General as speedily as possible.

The committee discussed various matters of interest to the Society without particular action, and thereupon adjourned.

PHILIP F. LARNER,
Secretary General.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS INCIDENT TO THE MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The meeting of the Executive Committee was suspended during its session to accept the very cordial invitation of the President General to luncheon in the adjoining room as his guests. During the luncheon those present were entertained by remarks of interest from President General Jenks and others present, among whom were Past President General Beardsley, of Connecticut.

Invitations were extended to this luncheon to all Past Presidents General now living, and those not present sent in notes of regret because of ill health.

On the same evening the President General and Mrs. Jenks were entertained by the New Jersey State Society at a reception held at the Woman's Club in Orange, N. J., at which a very large number of ladies and gentlemen were present. President General and Mrs. Jenks were accompanied to this reception by Past President General Ames and Mrs. Ames, Vice-President General Williams, of New Jersey; Vice-President General Burgess, of Connecticut; Hon. John Milton Reifsnider, of the National Executive Committee, and Secretary General Larner.

Addresses were made by President Vail, of the New Jersey Society, and President General Jenks. The evening was concluded by a dance, in which the guests joined.
